Rail Officials Will Meet Citizens Thursday Morning

Members of the public utilities committee of the Chamber of Commerce and officials of railway lines running through Richmond are to meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The purpose is to discuss passenger train schedules to and from Richmond.

It is understood that the original arrangement with local lines was that every passenger train passing through Richmond should stop to take on or leave off passengers at every trip through this city. Now, however, it is said that several fast passenger trains do not make a stop here. This is one of the subjects to receive consideration. An effort is also to be made to obtain better interurban accommodations.

Civil War Veteran, 80, Lives With Mother, 98

Parker Bogue, 80 years old; and mother, who is 98 years old.

Parker Bogue, now 80 years old, and a resident of Fountain City, where he lives with his mother, Mrs. Bogue, has a number of interesting memories of the Civil War days. He campaigned with the Eighth Indiana Infantry, spending the "cold winter" in the south. Ice formed one inch thick in Texas, where he was stationed this winter.

He is a veteran of the battles of Pea Ridge, Champion Hill and Vicksburg. During the Pea Ridge campaign the rebels cut off his supply train and the members of the regiment were forced to make the snow from the ground and lie in the open, their shelter tents having been lost. It was on this occasion also that the troops were forced to live on parched corn and water for two weeks.

Mr. Bogue has six sons, four of whom were in the World war. He also has two daughters. The sons are: William, living at Salt Lake City, Reuben, at Newcastle; Arthur, who was in the medical corps during the war; Jesse, who served as a chaplain; Oro, at Camp Taylor, and Archie, of the ambulance corps. Daughters are: Mrs. Hatt Turner, who lives at Saratoga, and Mrs. Annie Shepard, near Huntsville.
