

FOREIGN CREDITS ARE DELAYING RECOVERY OF AUSTRIA, GOODE

(By Associated Press) VIENNA, June 2.—Sir William Goode, chairman of the Austrian section of the Reparations Commission, which has just gone out of existence, who has made several attempts to obtain British loans for Austria, sees some signs of improvement in the internal situation of this country, but holds out no hope that the foreign credits the Austrians desire will be granted them in the next few months.

"Trade is better, wages are beginning to approach the internal purchasing value of the crown and the people look healthier," Sir William said to The Associated Press. "The supply of coal is now mainly a matter of money and at the moment can be identified with the question of credits. Raw materials are more easily obtained on long credits and the import requirements for these should be financed without any serious demand upon state funds."

No Assets to Pledge. Sir William pointed out that neither the League of Nations nor the Reparations Commission can grant credits to Austria, for they have no money. Neither, he said, can foreign credits be obtained solely by Austria's initiative, since she has no assets to pledge except by permission of the Reparations Commission.

Only by a combination of all these factors can any result be achieved," he continued. "When the League of Nations have concluded their investigations and made their proposals which are to be based upon private credits, it will still be for the bankers to say if they will put up their money."

These foreign credits, if granted he said, could not be made available until the claims against Austria for reparation and for relief loans had been postponed and this involved obtaining the consent of several countries who have not yet had an opportunity even to study that question. Therefore, he concluded, that no foreign credits would be available for Austria for the next few months. Hard times are ahead for Austrians, he declared.
