MUST INCLUDE GOD AS PART OF LEAGUE, SAYS LOCAL PASTOR

Nations of the world must catch the spirit of the Word of God before there can be a successful league of nations, according to the Rev. W. McClean Work, pastor of the Reid Memorial United Presbyterian church. He delivered Sunday night the second of a series of sermons on "The World's Word and the World's Work." His subject Sunday night was "The World's Word and a World League."

The Rev. Work will speak on "The World's Word and World Disarmament" next Sunday evening.

Opening his sermon with introductory remarks in which he said that he would not attempt to discuss his subject from an economic or political point of view, but only from a religious standpoint, the Rev. Work said:

"Four things that the coming world's league must possess are first, a realization that a league is a religious problem, not dealing with personal advancement of interest, but with the cause of humanity. Politics is the science of getting and holding; business the science of getting and increasing; education is the science of getting and rising, but religion is the science of forgetting and giving."

Must Recognize Religion. "In the second place, a world's league must have as its rule of success, the Kingdom law of greatness: 'If any would be great among you let him be your minister; and if any would be first, let him be your slave.'"

"Third, a world's league must recognize the true source of power and ask His direction. Last of all, it must be composed of nations who have caught the spirit of the world's word."

In other words, America must conquer the world before there can be a successful world's league; not by her army or navy, not by power of her merchant marine or diplomacy, but by her schools and colleges, hospitals and orphanages, missionaries and ministers, Christian business and Christian ideals.

"The nations call to America. And America must blaze the trail for a real world's league, or make way for the nation that will."

Establishment of a free employment bureau for Richmond will cost $5,000 annually, according to an estimate by the free employment division of the city of Indianapolis. The federal government will also provide the necessary equipment, furniture, etc., and all blanks, free of cost; also free postage privileges. Arrangements can be made so that the bureau will be supervised by a non-partisan board, under state control.
