

WRIGHT SEES CHANCE TO EQUALIZE TAXES IN NEW AMENDMENTS

Approval of 12 of the 13 amendments proposed to the state constitution was expressed by L. H. Wright, former state highway director and a high officer in the National Grange organization, speaking at the high school building Wednesday night.

Mr. Wright was strongly in favor of amendments 10 and 11. These are the much debated tax amendments.

A revision of the tax laws would bring in a great amount of intangibles on the duplicate that are now covered up, and on which no taxes are paid, Mr. Wright stated. Sixty-two per cent of the taxes are levied on real estate now, Mr. Wright said.

Would Bring in Property.

He estimated that if a law were passed which made possible the determining of the true value of personal property and its listing on the tax duplicate, there would only be about 55 per cent of all property in real estate.

In speaking of the income tax the speaker stated that this was being opposed by the salaried class of people. He stated that there were hundreds in cities of the state who are enjoying the benefits of government without paying taxes.

Mr. Wright expressed confidence in the legislature to pass a just law. He said it was a representative body elected by the people and could be trusted to govern itself by the people's wishes.

Would Not Change Much.

"It is being argued that a lobby would settle about the legislature at every session to secure taxation changes and that business would be disturbed by frequent changes. It couldn't be much worse than it now is. The legislature now has power to ruin business under the inheritance tax, but they don't do it."

Adoption of the ninth amendment which provides for the making of the state superintendent of public instruction appointive was urged by Mr. Wright under provision. He stated that he would favor this with the idea of making the office appointive by the state board of education and not by the governor.

Require Citizenship.

A vote for the amendment which provides that every foreigner become a full citizen before he can vote and that which gives the governor power to veto any section of the appropriation bill.

Mr. Wright said he intended to vote for all the amendments with the exception of the one permitting colored persons to become members of the state militia. He opposed this on the grounds that he did not believe it would work satisfactorily.
