

BLAST CHICAGO RIVER IN SEARCH FOR BODY OF MISSING SALESMAN

(BULLETIN)

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 10.—A body doubled up and bound by heavy cords, believed to be that of Carl Ausmus, automobile salesman, who disappeared Thursday with Bernard J. Daugherty, whose body was found in the Desplaines river, was unearthed today under the garage of the rear of the home of H. W. Church, 2922 Fulton street.

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Tenn., Sept. 10.—Dynamiting on the Desplaines river at Maywood, a Chicago suburb, was in progress today in an effort to recover the body of Carl Ausmus, companion of Bernard J. Daugherty, automobile salesman whose handcuffed and mangled body was found in the river yesterday. Ausmus has disappeared and is believed to have suffered a fate similar to that of Daugherty.

Detectives expressed the belief today that Daugherty and Ausmus had been lured to the basement of a house in Maywood, where they had been killed, the bodies manacled together with handcuffs weighted with stones and tossed into the river. Detectives believe that the handcuffs broke, allowing Daugherty's body to be carried to shallow water.

Harvey W. Church, a 20 year old railroad brakeman, was being brought back to Chicago today by a squad of detectives from Adams, Wis., where he was arrested yesterday. He made the trip in the automobile which Daugherty had been trying to sell him and was accompanied by his mother. Mrs. Church was not arrested.

Daugherty, a former student of Harvard, and a resident of St. Paul, came here a short time ago from Philadelphia as salesman for an automobile company.

Church, according to company officials bought a car which he said was for his father. Daugherty and Ausmus took the car Thursday afternoon with Church to a Chicago bank, where a check was to be certified and the car paid for.

Later neighbors saw Church and two men drive up to the church home in the automobile and enter.

So far as the police can learn, that was the last seen of Daugherty or Ausmus.

A visit to Church's home disclosed that Church and his mother had left early yesterday in the new car. A search of the Church home revealed a blood soaked rag and papers in the basement, a bloodstained baseball bat and hatchet, clothing identified as belonging to Daugherty as well as papers he carried.

Church when arrested, refused to talk beyond maintaining his innocence.

DEXTER MENTIONS CRITICS IN TALK TO TEACHERS SATURDAY

Prof. Walter F. Dexter, of the educational department of Earlham college, addressed the city teachers' institute held at the high school Saturday afternoon, on "The Teacher's Professional Attitude."

Prof. Dexter counseled active cooperation for the benefit of the school system. He pleaded against criticism unless the teacher were sure of it being a helpful kind.

To reveal the magnitude of the task of the schools of the United States, and to explain why now after years of teaching the position had come to be considered a profession rather than a job, he cited figures.

"There are now 20,853,515 students in the public schools of this country. About one-fifth of the population of America is attending school. In 1890 there were 149,428 teachers in the United States. There are now 769,763. Of this number, 84,000 are high school teachers."

Prof. Dexter's address, a piano solo was played by Miss Juliet Nussbaum, one of the local music supervisors.

Institute held Saturday morning dealt mostly with administrative and departmental business.

NURSE DRAWS FARM OF GOVERNMENT LAND

(By Associated Press)
OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 10.—Miss Jennie B. Fuller, of Gresham, Neb., an ex-nurse in the army, won the prize farm at the Goshen Hole land drawing for ex-service men and women at Torrington, Wyo., yesterday. Drawing began shortly after noon and continued until midnight. Several other former nurses also won farms.

About 6,000 applications were filed but 50 ex-service men reached Torrington too late to file applications. The hundreds of men gathered on the courthouse lawn cheered lustily as the names of lucky girl applicants were read. The land is recently opened and irrigable. It was set apart by the government for former service men and women.

A sugar beet factory is to be erected near Torrington and newspaper plants and a postoffice are already being completed. One of the principal crops of the region will be corn, it is said.

SINN FEINERS TUNNEL WAY OUT OF PRISON

(By Associated Press)
DUBLIN, Sept. 10.—A tunnel requiring many weeks to construct was employed Thursday night in effecting the escape of some 50 interned Sinn Feiners from the Curragh internment camp in County Kildare where about 1,500 prisoners were under guard.

The camp is surrounded by several rows of barbed wire entanglements and is heavily guarded by soldiers. The prisoners built the tunnel under the barbed wire, using some of the flooring of their bunks for props.

The most difficult part was to elude the guard. This was done by creating a diversion Thursday evening. Numerous prisoners gave songs and recitals which received great applause, both from other internees and it is said, from the guards. While this was proceeding between 40 and 50 men passed through the tunnel and have not been seen since.

HOUSE TAX MEASURE REVISED ON BASIS OF $3,200,000,000 NEED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Revision of the house tax bill on a basis of government needs of $3,200,000,000 from internal revenue this fiscal year was begun today by the senate finance committee. The measure was taken up section by section, the committee having failed yesterday to reach any agreement on the high points.

Developments yesterday led to a general belief at the capital that the committee would not have entirely smooth-sailing, but Chairman Penrose still was hopeful that the measure could be completed by the time congress reconvenes one week from next Wednesday. It is his desire to cut down discussion and get to action.

As was the case in the house, the principal points of disagreement are retroactive repeal of the excess profits tax, and a reduction of the income surtaxes. Although still holding that majority sentiment is drifting toward retroactive removal of the profits tax Republican leaders apparently are not as optimistic on this point as they were a day or two ago.

Present Solid Front
Democratic leaders of the committee will present a solid front against these two proposals, according to Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking minority member, and they are counting on support from some Republicans. If they lose their fight in the committee they will carry it to the senate floor.

Besides passing on the six changes in the house bill proposed by Secretary Mellon, the senate committee also expects to have before it a number of other tax policies, including the sales tax plan of Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, and the suggested tax by Senator Calder, Republican, of New York on 2.75 per cent beer and alcoholic liquors diverted to beverage purposes.

In addition the police expressed the belief that the men were responsible for series of cigar store holdups.

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Summer was on the wane today. Weather bureau officials said so, and backed up their statements with formal forecast of frost, colder, much cooler and cooler for the northern portion of the country.

Temperatures which ranged around freezing or below early today in Montana and Wyoming, will begin to fall tomorrow in the middlewestern states and before the new week gets for under way there will be a change for cooler all the way eastward to the Atlantic coast.

The decline in temperature will not be so decided east of the Mississippi as has been experienced in the snow-covered portions of Montana, but bureau officials said it ought to be enough to bring about the demise of the straw hat, which throughout a good portion of the country came early and by virtue of a September hot period was attempting to stay late.

Irish Republicans Consider British Reply Wednesday

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 10.—Prime Minister Lloyd George's invitation to Emmott De Valera and his colleagues to confer as to a basis for a settlement of the Irish controversy must await action by the Irish republican party.

That body will meet in secret session next Wednesday at which time it is assumed, the prime minister's last note to Dublin will be submitted and a decision will be reached as to acceptance of rejection of the invitation.

It was understood when the republican parliament adjourned at Dublin recently that it had conferred plenipotentiary powers on Mr. De Valera and his colleagues. The note from Mr. Lloyd George, however, is asserted to have brought a factor into the situation which made it necessary for the parliament to meet and widen the scope of the mandate it gave its leaders.

Parliament is Pledged.

The members of the parliament, it is pointed out, took the oath of allegiance to "the Irish republic and the government of the Irish people" and pledged themselves not to "yield voluntary support to any pretended government, authority or power within Ireland hostile or inimical thereto."

Thus, it would appear, the condition precedent that there could be no separation of Ireland from the British empire, which was laid down by Mr. Lloyd George, would in effect call upon Mr. De Valera and members of his ministry, creatures of the parliament, to recognize a "government, authority or power" in England other than that of the Dail Eireann if they accepted his invitation.

It would also seem that they must be especially empowered to meet the prime minister on the basis laid down down in the note.

Opinions Are Many

Announcement in Dublin yesterday that the Dail Eireann had been called to meet next Wednesday was variously construed here, but there were not wanting those who believed Irish chiefs would find a way to attend the conference.

It was reported that if necessary the date of the meeting, tentatively fixed for Sept. 20 by the prime minister, might be postponed a week so that the Dail Eireann and its leaders would not be inconvenienced by the short period intervening.
