The acreage plowed for wheat this fall apparently shows considerable reduction in some counties but taking the State as a whole there will not be a great reduction. Neither is there evidence of a strong tendency on the part of farmers to reduce the wheat acreage for next year.

In some sections of the northern part of the State corn cutting has been three weeks earlier than usual and generally cutting is further along in the northern sections than in the southern part of the State and the rate of corn cutting was reported from Hamilton county where as high as 15 cents has been paid by some farmers. In the northwestern counties as low a rate as 5 and 6 cents is reported. The supply of labor for corn cutting is reported ample in practically all counties.

STATE SHOWS HOW TAXES ARE SPENT

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—What becomes of your taxes is answered in a state tax board compilation made public today which says that $10.91 out of each $100 paid in taxes goes to the state for its expenses and the remaining $89.09 goes for local expenses.

The compilation was made by W. C. Kuehman, an investigator of the tax board, on tax payments and expenditures for 1920.

On the basis of purposes, each $100 is spent as follows, according to the compilation: Schools, $41; roads, $19.50; state benevolent institutions, $3.08; soldier memorial, $38; county, $12.63; cities and towns, $19.81; townships, $3.64.

This tabulation, it was explained, is the average for the state and may vary somewhat in various taxing units.

CHARGES OF ARSON MEAN PRISON TERM FOR MOST SUSPECTS

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—Nine out of every ten persons tried for arson in Indiana during the last four years have been convicted, records in the office of Newman T. Miller, state fire marshal, show. This high record of convictions places Indiana foremost among all the states for arson conviction. Likewise with the 90 per cent convictions has come a reduction in the number of incendiary fires.

In the last four years sixty-eight persons were convicted of arson out of seventy-four persons brought to trial for this offense which carries a penitentiary penalty.

During the same period the number of incendiary fires in the state has dropped from 116 fires a year to 75 fires in 1920. In the same proportion the value of property destroyed in incendiary fires has decreased from $219,640 in 1916 to $134,599 last year, even with the increased valuation in effect in 1920.

Fewer Convicted in '15
By way of comparison, in 1915 the number of incendiary fires was 158, while the property value destroyed in these fires was $257,184, and in that same year less than 50 per cent of persons tried for arson were convicted. Vigilance in the state fire marshal's department during the last four years has in a large measure been the factor in clipping the fire bug's wings. Fire Marshal Miller declares that the same vigilance exercised by fire inspectors will continue until arson in the state is practically stamped out.
