

INDIANA CELEBRATES ADMISSION TO UNION DECEMBER 9 AND 10

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 7.—Celebration of "Admission Day" by appropriate ceremonies is planned when the third annual state history conference is held here Dec. 9 and 10 under the auspices of the Society of Indiana pioneers. Indiana was admitted to the Union on Dec. 11, 1816, but as this date falls on Sunday this year the celebration will be held one day earlier.

The program for the celebration is now being arranged. An invitation has been extended to the historical society at Fort Wayne to present a review of the state's progress since its admission.

The Indiana Historical society is conceded to be one of the oldest organizations in the state. It was organized the day the state was admitted to the Union. It has been inactive at different periods but has been revived and at the present time has a membership of over 500 persons. Miss Lucy Elliott of the state historical commission, is secretary of the organization. She believes that before the state meeting in December the membership will be close to 1,000.

Aim of Organization.
The society, according to the minutes of its first meeting in 1816, was organized with the object of "collecting and preserving the materials for a comprehensive and accurate history of our country, natural, civil and political, many of which are of an ephemeral and transitory nature, and in the absence of well directed efforts to preserve them, are rapidly passing into oblivion."

One of the principal subjects for discussion at the meeting in December will be means for compiling community histories. The development of an authentic state history depends largely upon the records kept by communities, leaders of the historical society say.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 7.—Fred Porterfield, of Richmond, C. L. Mainwaring, of Mentone, and S. P. Smyth of Morgantown, form the executive committee of the State Poultry association for next year. Election of officers was completed Thursday at the closing session of the annual fall meeting at Purdue University.

A request that the Indiana Farmer's Federation recognize the poultry business on the same basis as other agricultural industries was embodied in one of the resolutions. At present the organization of the farmers' federation provides for departments for livestock and grain, and for truck gardening, dairying, and all forms of agricultural industry.

Other resolutions asked for a new poultry building at Lafayette, and extended an invitation to the American Poultry association to hold its 1923 convention at Lafayette.

Everyday Ad-Ventures

Mrs. Thomas had decided that one of the best and easiest ways to add to her income would be to rent the sunny room on the second floor that was never used except when Aunt Bessie made her annual visit to town.

So she lettered a neat sign, announcing to a waiting world that she had a "Vacancy," and put it in one of the parlor windows. In the meantime, she cleaned the room and prepared everything for the rush of lodgers.

But, somehow, the rush became side-tracked or never got started, because at the end of two weeks it looked as though Aunt Bessie could have her regular room whenever she came for her next visit.

And Mrs. Thomas was distressed and puzzled to know why her attractive room didn't draw any applicants—until she happened to look the matter over with a neighbor who dropped a wise suggestion

And Then She Called PHONE: 2834-2872!

And her little ad in the Palladium's Rooms For Rent columns drew a half-dozen applicants and found a thoroughly desirable lodge—all in less than three days!
