

BONUS IS FAVORED BY PREBLE CITIZENS; REJECT OTHER BILLS

Eaton, O., Nov. 10.—Preble county voters in Tuesday's election adopted the soldiers' bonus amendment and defeated the poll tax and senatorial redistricting amendments and the county road levy.

The soldiers' bonus, according to official figures, was successful by a majority of 1,601 votes. The vote for, 3,919; against, 2,318. The poll tax amendment was beaten by a majority of 1,967. The vote for, 1,251; against, 3,218. The redistricting amendment was defeated by 1,547 majority. The vote for, 1,312; against, 2,859.

The road levy was beaten by 255 majority. The vote for, 2,797; against, 3,052. The road levy proposal was to continue for three years a one mill levy for road purposes. The above figures are from the records of the county election board, after official canvass of the vote.

Election Determines Fight.

All three candidates said to have been the choice of the present county administration were defeated for membership on the county board of education in Tuesday's election. The defeat of each was decisive.

Harry Mills, Homer Bierly and Arthur Morton defeated Ralph Ayers, Harry Price and A. J. Murray for board membership. The official vote was: Mills, 2635; Bierly, 2596; Morton, 2494; Ayers, 2061; Price, 2041; Murray, 1926. The three men elected made the race as Republicans, while the defeated candidates ran as Independents.

The fight between the school administration, of which W. S. Fogarty is superintendent and head, was a bitter and determined one. The opposition will control the county board of education when the newly elected members take office. Alleged activities of the present board in creating and transferring school territory, over alleged protest of school patrons, is said to have precipitated a struggle that was fought out at the polls in the late election.

Convict Hartman.

Frank Hartman, 24, married, of Lewisburg, was convicted Wednesday in juvenile court, by a jury, on a charge of "actions tending to cause delinquency of May Miller, minor." Sentence has not been imposed.

Records of juvenile court, A. C. Risinger, judge, show the Hartman case to be the first ever tried before a jury in the local court. The petit jury for the November term of common pleas court heard the case and is made up of Mrs. Floyd Ashworth, James R. Clark, Mrs. Nellie McNeal, William Unger, Mrs. Isaac Miles, C. B. Williams, Thomas M. Kirkhoff, Mrs. Carrie Clark, Thomas F. Glander, Nathan H. Ramsey, James White, John Grimes.

Hartman's case had been referred to the district federal court, which discharged him. The case was then reentered here in juvenile court.

No Celebration Friday.

No special Armistice day celebration will be staged in Eaton, Friday. The American Legion post has requested a suspension of business activities between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and road construction and road repairs. The federal appropriation is to be prorated among the states.

The principal benefit which is expected to accrue from the new road law is the development along sound lines of a system of interstate roads, fed by county roads. The new law provides that before any state can participate in federal aid for its highways it must lay out a system of roads approved by the secretary of agriculture, consisting of not more than seven per cent of the road mileage of the state.

Three-sevenths of that seven per cent shall be interstate mileage, connecting with similar roads in adjacent states, and four-sevenths intercounty roads, connecting with interstate highways. Indiana has complied with these requirements and will experience no delay in securing its quota of the federal appropriation.

It was the purpose of framing the legislation in this way to prevent the use of federal funds in uncorrelated roads. The first federal aid act, in relation to roads, carried a small appropriation, the principal purpose being to stimulate the interest of the states in the building of good roads.

In some states, it is charged, this fund came to be treated as "pork"; roads were constructed without regard to terminals or traffic needs, and with regard only to spending money in places where politicians desired it to be spent. With the intention of calling an abrupt halt to such practices authors of the new federal road aid law were careful to have it framed so that it could never be referred to as "pork barrel" legislation.

The secretary of agriculture is given far more control over the selection of roadways under the new act than he ever had under previous road aid laws. He will be called upon to approve all systems of roads presented to him by state highway commissions before they can be constructed with the aid of federal funds.

The new law provides that 60 per cent of each state's share of the federal road appropriation shall be expended upon interstate roads until they are completed, and, with the consent of the state highway commission, all of the money may be expended on these interstate highways.

Assured of Funds.

Under this provision of the law, good roads enthusiasts in the Sixth Indiana district who are particularly interested in having the National road converted into a model highway from the Ohio to the Illinois lines have assurance that sufficient funds will be available for the furtherance of that project. This section of the law is the first recognition by the federal government of the principle that it is the first duty of the government to assist in building its interstate roads.

The apportionment of the federal road funds to the states is to be made as follows: One-third in the ratio which the area of the state bears to the total of all the states; one-third in the ratio which the population of the state bears to the total population of all the states; and one-third in the ratio which the mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in each state bears to the total mileage of rural delivery and star routes in all of the states.

Everyday Ad-Ventures

That Changes Everything—

After you've decided that it would be a good thing to sell the family gas-wagon this fall, because then you would have the cash on hand this winter and be able to buy a new model later on, if things were going right in the spring—But you find that decision is just about one per cent of an auto sale these days, because a lot of other people seem to have the same idea about unloading their cars. And after talking and thinking things over for a week or two, you are forced to the conclusion that you have about a hundred chances of buying a good used car to one of selling yours—

But then, some good friend slips you the word about using a little ad in the Palladium's Automobile columns—

And That Changes Everything! Because within three days you've connected with the five people in Richmond who are interested in buying your car and one of them has driven off with it—and all you have on your hands is a neat little check for a neat little figure!

for safeguarding the federal money appropriated for good roads against waste in construction and maintenance of durable types of roads. It is specifically provided that only such types of surface and kinds of material shall be adopted for construction of any highway which is a part of the primary, or interstate, and secondary, or inter-county, systems as will adequately meet the existing and probable future needs of traffic. The secretary of agriculture is authorized to approve the types of construction adopted.

Farmer Finds Good Orchard Method Pays

An interesting peach-growing demonstration was held recently in Lawrence county, on the orchard of Charles Colglazier, which had been purchased in 1920, with a four-year growth of trees measuring only from three and one-half to four feet in height and of stunted and scrawny appearance. An application was made of a half pound of nitrate of soda around each tree by disk and otherwise cultivating the ground early in the spring and afterwards sowing to cowpeas, which were left on the land, thus enabling him to get a new growth of foliage. In the spring the orchard was again disked and cultivated for a few weeks and again sown to cowpeas. The latter have been cut and are in the shock curing and will be used to feed his dairy cows. He intends to disk the cowpeas stubble and sow to rye disk and otherwise cultivating rye into the soil. Nitrate of soda will again be used in the spring as well as some acid phosphate, and it is predicted that one good season of peaches will cause this orchard to yield enough results to pay for the entire farm. The splendid results from this treatment have surprised all and have created a great deal of interest in building up soils for peach trees. Mr. Colglazier cooperated with the county agent, James Kline, in demonstrating better methods.

In Harrison county, where one community could not be reached from the railroad, a crusher was purchased by the farmers and 3,000 tons have been pulverized and sold since July 1. Clark county farmers started a concerted effort in June and have applied 1,300 tons from that pulverized locally or outside shipments.

Cleaning Out Hog Houses Good Prevention of Lice

Except in accidental cases, hog lice are found only on hogs, and they do not voluntarily leave their natural host, says the United States department of agriculture. When separated from the animal they live only two or three days. The lice pass readily from one hog to another when the animals come in close contact. Practically all cases of infestation occur from contact with lousy animals and not from infected premises. Under reasonably good sanitary conditions pens, corrals, and premises which have contained lousy hogs are not a source of danger to hogs free from lice.

As a precautionary measure, however, and because it is good sanitary practice, all small inclosures which have contained lousy hogs should be cleaned and disinfected before being used for a new lot of hogs. The litter and manure should be removed and the floors cleaned, after which the woodwork and floors should be sprayed with a good disinfectant. The coal-tar creosote dips, diluted in accordance with instructions on the container, are suitable for this purpose.

Age For Egg Production

Some folk have the right kind of fowls, house and feed them properly, and still don't get eggs early in the winter because their hens are too old. It seldom pays to keep hens for laying after they are 2 1/2 years old. They may give a profit, but younger fowls will give more. Many poultrymen who make a specialty of winter egg production keep only pullets, disposing of even the yearling hens before it is time to put them in the winter quarters. Early hatched pullets, if properly grown, ought to begin laying in October or early November and continue to lay right through the winter. Yearling hens seldom begin laying much before Jan. 1, and older hens not until later. It is the November and December eggs that bring the high prices. The laying breeds should begin laying when from 5 to 6 months old, general-purpose breeds at 6 to 7 months, and the meat breeds at 7 or 8 months.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE
TEACHER GIVES TIP

Mattie Lee Wehrley

Miss Mattie Lee Wehrley lives at 306 South Sixth street, Louisville, Ky. She is a teacher of domestic science as well as a writer of articles for large newspapers and magazines.

In all of the handy hints she has given to housewives throughout the country no tip is more valuable than the one in which she advises people to take Peppen, if they are troubled with stomach, kidney or liver ills.

If you suffer with indigestion, dizziness, headaches, constipation, pains in the back, or an uncomfortable bloated feeling after eating, you had better go to the drug store where mine appears below and obtain a bottle of Peppen.

The symptoms described above often come from a disordered stomach, kidneys or liver. The longer you allow your ailments to remain unchecked, the longer it will take to treat them. Start taking Peppen at once. In a few days you will feel like another person.

"In my occupation as teacher of cooking I am frequently called upon by scholars in my class to taste various foods they prepare," says Miss Wehrley. "This continual taking of bites had its harmful effect upon my system. About one year ago I began to have indigestion, and then came tired, worn-out feelings. My complexion became sallow.

"I lost my appetite and began losing weight. I realized that I needed a good tonic. So many people in my home city were recommending Peppen that I tried it. Peppen relieved me. I am no longer affected by formations of gas on my stomach, even when I eat foods that are hard to digest. I have a very high opinion of Peppen. I am pleased to recommend it whenever opportunity offers."

PEPPEN is sold and recommended by Quigley's Drug Stores. It is also stocked by other leading pharmacies in Richmond and nearby towns.—Advertisement.
