

TO AID HAGERSTOWN CHURCH FUND WITH SUPPER AND BAZAAR

(Special to The Palladium)
HAGERSTOWN, Ind., Nov. 24.—A chicken supper will be given by the Ladies Aid of the Methodist church on Friday, and on the succeeding Friday, Dec. 2, an all day Christmas bazaar will be staged by the women of the church. Proceeds from both occasions will be turned into the fund for the erection of the new building, which will be dedicated Dec. 18. The bazaar and supper will be held in the basement of the unfinished building.

The building, which was begun in April, is practically completed, lacking only the windows and interior finish. This is the third church which has housed the congregation since its organization in 1843. The first building, which was erected on North Perry street, is still standing. The second was erected on the present site and was wrecked to make room for the present building.

The building committee is composed of the following members: George Harlan, chairman; Fred Murray, secretary-treasurer; Rev. Charles Chadwick, Elmer Allen, Frank E. McKinnon, Oscar Ballenger, Mrs. Edna Chadwick, Mrs. T. L. McConaughy, Mrs. A. R. Jones, Mrs. Maude H. Murray and Mrs. F. E. McKinnon.

INTEREST IS SHOWN IN CHESTER REVIVAL

CHESTER, Ind., Nov. 24.—Revival services, which will continue for a period of three weeks, are being conducted at the Chester Methodist church. The revival began Sunday, Nov. 20. Rev. Stoner, the pastor, is acting as his own evangelist. Services begin every night at 7 o'clock. Personal invitations and public notices are the means used to enlarge the congregation. All workers for the revival are drawn from the regular church organization.

Special services were conducted on Thanksgiving day at 10 o'clock. Sunday school services next Sunday, will begin at 9:45. No sermon will be given in the morning. The Epworth league will meet at 6:45 o'clock in the evening, with the evangelistic service following.

The Webster Sunday school will convene at 9:30 o'clock next Sunday, and the regular sermon will follow the morning exercises.

EXAMINATIONS ONLY AT CLINIC FOR T. B.

Examination only, and no treatments are to be given at the tuberculosis clinic held in the Social Service Bureau rooms, starting at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The clinic is given under the auspices of the tuberculosis division, state board of health, and the state tuberculosis association.

These two organizations work together in this cause, and the room for the clinic have been supplied by the local bureau. Dr. J. H. Stigall, in charge of the clinic, is employed by the state tuberculosis association. All persons wishing an examination will be given one free at this time.

Turkey Day is Holiday For Many Public Officials

"Suspended animation" was the rule in the city hall building and at the courthouse on Thanksgiving day. The upper floor of the city hall was deserted all morning, and the courthouse was locked early in the day. Only the police and fire stations remained open.

Tickets Are On Sale For Annual Police Ball

Tickets for the annual police ball, to be held in the Coliseum, Dec. 20, have been distributed among the members of the force and are now on sale. Advertisements for the ball program are being solicited by a special committee.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teatime today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother, you must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

The Anglo-Japanese Alliance

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Although both the British and the Japanese are still putting forth propaganda on behalf of a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, it seems now to be the general opinion that it will not be renewed and that its termination will be a great factor in establishing peace on a sound basis in the far east.

That the Japanese want this alliance and that it would be an advantage to them in the future as it has been in the past, is obvious. Japan's career of economic and military imperialism, which has carried her into Siberia, Manchuria and China, has been made possible largely by this British support. If this alliance were continued on the same terms, Japan's imperialist career could continue and the military forces in that country would be strengthened. If the alliance is genuinely announced by Great Britain, and Great Britain is genuinely in accord with the United States in Asiatic policy, Japan's imperialist ambitions will be most effectively curbed. She will face a combination, against which she cannot possibly hope to prevail. The liberal forces in Japan will be strengthened.

This curbing of Japan's militaristic career therefore stands out with increasing clearness as the great object of the conference. Its accomplishment will be a long step toward international peace, in the opinion of the best informed observers, provided it can be done without alienating all Japanese confidence in the western powers.

Japan has survived as a nation solely by reason of her military and naval strength. She has seen every other Asiatic nation exploited and robbed of autonomy and integrity by the western nations. Her faith in the big stick is based on logic and experience. That is why even the liberal forces in Japan rally around the government when an emergency arises. Japan must be convinced, therefore, not only that her present course in China, Manchuria and Siberia must be abandoned, but also that her integrity and autonomy and her rights in commerce will be respected. If Japan goes away disgruntled and suspicious, nothing much has been accomplished for the cause of peace.

Why England Wants Alliance.
It is easy enough to see why Japan wants the alliance with England, but not so easy to see the basis of the English desire for it. The English government originally considered it necessary to offset the menace of Russia to her Asiatic empire. With Russia a great imperialistic power, Great Britain really needed a strong Asiatic ally. Doubtless Japan is still useful to her by doing naval police work in Asiatic waters, but it has been announced that Great Britain will have an Asiatic fleet of her own in the future, so this work is evidently no longer to be entrusted to Japan.

Moreover, Japan, it is stated in many quarters, has steadily injured British prestige in China, for the Chinese have no confidence in any power allied with Japan.

What, then, is the purpose in Asia that Japan and England still have in common? One well-informed observer says that it is a purpose which neither of them can afford to state in public, and which certainly will never be mentioned at the conference. That common purpose is to suppress the rise of democratic ideals in Asia. Japan is ruled by an oligarchy. Its constitution and its parliament are alike of little effect in its affairs. The republican spirit and class consciousness are a menace to the ruling oligarchy, which seeks to suppress both. Likewise the present Japanese course in China would be largely thwarted.

MR. MOORE GAINED FLESH AND STRENGTH

Rapidly by Taking Vinol After Everything Else Had Failed.

R. J. MOORE
Noroton Heights, Conn.—"I am a carpenter, and got all run down and contracted a chronic cough, so I could hardly keep about my work. It seemed as though I had tried all kinds of medicines without help, but one day I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it. Before I had taken half a bottle I felt better and after taking six bottles I found I had regained my normal weight and never felt better in my life." R. J. Moore, Noroton Heights, Conn.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the curative element of cod liver oil in a highly concentrated form together with Iron and Beef Peptones which for centuries have been without a peer for such conditions. Price $1.00 a bottle, guaranteed.—Clem Thistlethwaite, Druggist, Richmond, Ind.—Advertisement.

County Milk Drives Being Waged in State
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 14.—Plans for a series of county milk campaigns, to increase the drinking and general use of milk both in city and country, have been started by the dairy extension staff of Purdue university. The first campaign to include Goshen and all of Elkhart county, is in progress now and a number of others have dates set. Those scheduled for the remainder of this year are: Huntington county, Oct. 31 to Nov. 11; Shelbyville and Addison township, that county, Nov. 14 to Nov. 23; Miami county, Dec. 2 to 14.

The work is being handled through the county agricultural agent, farmers' organization, various civic organizations, such as Rotary, Kiwanis, Optimist, Lions and similar clubs; school authorities of both city and country, and all organizations working for the betterment of the city's health.

All these agencies are joining in the campaign. Display advertising is being used to encourage use of milk products, and an intensive drive is being made in the county where the meetings are held, to encourage use of more milk and butter. An exact check is being made through surveys of the exact amount of milk and dairy products being used in a town or city before the campaign and for two, four, six and 10 weeks after the campaign has been conducted. As a result of this effort, many schools are expected to start the milk lunch system for underweight children and take up similar moves to improve the general health of the community.

Keeping Purebred Stock Induces Better Farming

The first fundamental of successful poultry keeping, whether on the farm, in a city yard, or in the large plant, is good stock. It is true that a good many farmers and others get fairly good results from ordinary stock, but if the same care and attention were devoted to birds of better breeding more satisfactory returns would be made.

There is another benefit from keeping good stock that is not easily measured but, nevertheless, is recognized as having a big money value in the long run. That benefit is the general improvement in the place, methods, and the man himself that comes from having birds that are above the ordinary. A man who has well-bred stock talks about it and shows it to his neighbors. Naturally, he wants the surroundings of his flock to look shipshape and he takes pride in showing a knowledge of feeds and the methods of feeding.

High class stock of any kind has a tendency to bring other purebred animals to the farm. A good purebred animal continues its work of improvement indefinitely not only within its own class but everywhere on the farm from the field to the library.

Cotton Seed Valuable For Many Purposes

Cotton experts have devised methods for using everything about a ton of cotton, except the 146 pounds of dust and dirt and volatile substances that are thrown away or vanish into thin air during the process of manufacture. Special lists of the Bureau of Markets, U. S. Department of Agriculture, have estimated that the actual cotton in a ton of unginned product weighs only 700 to 750 pounds, the remaining 1,250 to 1,300 pounds being seeds. Linters, which is a short fuzz clinging to the seeds, is used to stuff pads, mattresses, upholstery, and in the manufacture of explosives, paper stock, and low-grade yarns. The seeds are crushed primarily for the oil which is of importance both economically and gastronomically. The cake and meal which remain after crushing are used for cattle and poultry feed, fertilizers, and dye-stuffs.

Kafir and Rolled Oats Are Relished by Hens

The seed of kafir, one of the grain sorghums, has been used as a substitute for corn in the scratch mixture used by the Poultry Husbandry Division of the United States Department of Agriculture with good results, which indicate about similar feeding value for these two products. Rolled oats were found preferable to ground oats for use in a poultry mash, and resulted in sufficiently greater egg production to justify the additional expense associated with using this costlier feed. The hens ate the mash more freely, and although they consumed more feed, their egg yield was enough larger to produce greater profit.

Well Balanced Rations Give Greater Egg Yield

Every person who keeps poultry is sure to be impressed sooner or later by the importance of feeding well-balanced rations, especially for the production of eggs. Ordinarily a balanced ration means a ration that has the proportions of carbohydrates, protein, and fat that have been found by experience to produce the best results, but new things are being discovered that need to be given consideration in balancing a ration. For instance, it is now thought that it may be well to have a balance between the acid and alkaline feeds and that there is a possibility that the continued use of an acid-forming diet may lead to a greater susceptibility to certain diseases.

The grain mixtures that are commonly used by poultrymen are acid. Mash mixtures containing sufficient quantities of digester tankage, meat and bone meal, dried milk, or dried blood will be alkaline. The acid in feed mixtures can be overcome by these feeds just mentioned and by ground limestone and oyster shell. This further emphasizes the necessity of feeding a mash containing meat scrap or some feed of this kind. Green feed and fresh milk also help to overcome acidity.
