In an extensive speech in the senate in which he dealt comprehensively with post-war conditions, the Oklahoma senator suggested in connection with the proposed reserve bank the following proposals for American aid in rehabilitation:

1. That we should postpone the final payment of the World War debt in the United States by extending the payment over 50 years; that we should not for 10 years collect any amount under the sinking fund.
2. That in arranging the payment of Europe's debt to the United States we should extend time to Europe necessary to enable them to readjust their affairs and regain their productive power, and that we should not for 10 years demand of them the payment of interest due, but allow it to merge with the principal.
3. That we should put the interest rate at three per cent of Europe's debt to the United States.

FIND LESS DEMAND, BROADER ACTIVITY FOR BANKERS' BILLS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Lessened demand generally for bills of acceptance but a somewhat broader activity was reported by the federal reserve board today in a year and survey of conditions in the acceptance markets of the twelve reserve districts.

Activity prevailing in the bill market in November did not continue in December, Boston reported, and during one week were described as the lowest for the year. The influence of tax payments coming simultaneously with new certificate issue and the year end adjustments had a deterrent effect on the investors, according to the survey.

A considerable decline in the country's foreign trade during 1921, in addition to the fall in prices resulted in a reduction in the amount of bankers bills in the New York market, the survey continued, adding, however, that there was a steadily broadening market.

A highly important development of 1921, the report said, "was the growth of a market for call money lent against the security of bankers acceptance and treasury certificate."

GOV. MORGAN DENIES STARVING CONDITIONS IN WEST VIRGINIA

(By Associated Press) CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 4.—Governor E. F. Morgan, answering a request of United States Senator Howard Sutherland for information "concerning reports that men, women and children in certain West Virginia mining communities were starving and in a starving condition," today denied that the reports were true.

"Frankly, let me say that these reports," wrote Governor Morgan to Senator Sutherland, "insofar as I have been able to determine from investigations which I caused to be initiated are grossly exaggerated and are seemingly the product of imaginative minds of interested propagandists who are desirous of distorting conditions that exist in mining communities as a result of a depression in the coal industry, and differences arising from the maintenance of contracts between employers and employees."

"It is true," continued Governor Morgan, "that scattering cases of poverty have been discovered, but the welfare agencies find these cases even in times of general prosperity. And it is equally true that there has been no more suffering in this state during the present depression, which the local authorities and local welfare agencies have been unable to alleviate."

Governor Morgan detailed investigations by George F. Daugherty, state labor commissioner in Fayette and Raleigh counties, which he said, disclosed that the "reports of distressing conditions were not a serious nature and that the county authorities and Red Cross were prepared to give aid in any case of distress or suffering."

A Raleigh county committee was quoted by the governor as reporting to him that "in no instance did we find a family starving and in every case we found they had food enough to last for several days. To be sure, Christmas was not perhaps as bright as it might have been had the men been working, but there was no dire necessity anywhere."

The committee distributed candies and other Christmas mementos among 57 families with a total of 281 individuals, the report added.

CORRESPONDENTS ARE IMPRESSED BY SHARP ANTAGONISM OF IRISH

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Jan. 4.—Continuance of the sharp antagonism between the advocates and opponents of the Irish peace treaty was what mainly impressed English newspaper correspondents watching the proceedings in the Dail Eireann yesterday. The writers agreed that the recess had done nothing to alter the respective attitudes of the matters and said it was evident as soon as the session began that Monday's rumors of some possible surprise making for unanimity had no foundation in fact.

A long succession of speeches helped nothing and revealed nothing to these observers, several of whom were convinced that the balance eventually would be turned, not by votes but by abstentions from voting. This view admittedly took no account of Michael Collins' proposal for letting the treaty go through, after which the question could carry on their flight against the provisional government set up under the pact. However, the latest dispatches from Dublin revealed no suggestion that any action on this proposal was probable.

Some of the newspapermen declared there had been an increase in the bitterness between the contending factions and that the new newspaper, The Republic of Ireland, through the temptuous tone of its articles directed against the ratificationists, had made the feeling worse.

The opinion was expressed that whatever happens in the Dail, the opposition to the treaty would not cease notwithstanding indications that the great majority of the nation wanted it.
