Home Games For Children

How mother and father may make home interesting for the little tots during the indoor season.
By MISS MARGUERITE SHARRETT
Recreation Specialist of Community Service

Community Service is presenting through the Palladium a series of indoor games suitable for children, or children and their parents to play at home. These games will be demonstrated by Miss Marguerite Sharretts, Recreation Specialist of Community Service at the Recreation Institute to be conducted Jan. 9, 10 and 11.

The American home is the foundation of America. It must be a place of joy and interest. Activities outside of the home are offering strong competition to those in the home. Community Service is alive to this national condition. It would have home the place where "good times" are. Parents, teachers and others interested in children are invited to enroll in the children and home section of the Institute which starts next Monday night.

Today's Games.
For the child from 3-5 years.
"What is the story Mother Goose tells about Little Miss Moffit?"

"Little Miss Moffit sat on a tuffet eating her curds and whey. Along came a spider and sat down beside her And frightened Miss Moffit away."

"Now I'll be little Miss Moffit and you be the Spider. Your home will be over in that corner and mine will be here. I'll stoop down and eat my curds and whey and when we say, 'Along came a spider and sat down beside her,' you must run fast and sit right here beside me, and then I shall run away ever so fast."

Recite the single each time acting the lines as they are spoken. Make the action simple but spirited and you will find the child begging, "Now, let's play it again!" "Now you be the 'spider' and I'll be little Miss Moffit!"

FORGIVENESS DEPENDS ON CONFESSION, RAE

Forgiveness and almost all the blessings that the Gospel offers are dependent on sincere confession of sin, declared Dr. J. J. Rae at the union services of the First Presbyterian church at the Reid Memorial church at the service in the latter church Wednesday night.

"Because so much is involved it is becoming that we consider what confession implies," said Dr. Rae. "Confession puts sin in its proper light and makes its terrible effects apparent. It makes the nature of sin so that change becomes possible and necessary. It aligns us with God, makes available the resources of the redemption plan to the attainment of the Divine likeness."

Illustrations of the results of confession in many of the Bible characters were cited and the parable of the prodigal, the case of the Apostle Peter and the incident of the thief on the cross were introduced to exemplify these results.

"Our sense of God is the measure of our worth and attainment as Christians and if we shall be what we long to be and what God intends we shall be, we must confess our sins and find that He is faithful and just to forgive us," Dr. Rae pointed out.

The choir of the church provided the musical service. The Rev. W. McClean Work, pastor, conducted the devotional exercises.

The meeting Thursday night will be held in the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. W. C. Clean Work will preach on "Petition." The choir of the First church will furnish the music, with Mrs. Fred Miller at the organ. The concluding meeting will be held in the Reid Memorial church Friday evening. The Rev. J. J. Rae will preach on "Intercession."

of about ten feet from the players (children of 8-10 years; lengthen the distance for older children). Decide upon a score, for instance 25 points. Each throws the ball. A successful throw scores one point for the player, and he may continue throwing as long as successful. The person first reaching the score of 2 points wins.

Variations: Three circles one within the other, are drawn, the spaces between the circles counting 5 and 10, respectively, and the space within the center circle 1. The largest circle may be about five feet in diameter. Players toss the object into the circles scoring according to the numbers between the circles. If the object remains on the lines no score is counted. The full score is determined before the game begins.
