

LAST DAY OF PURDUE COURSE GIVEN OVER TO ASS'N MEETINGS

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 13.—The best farmers' short course in the history of Indiana came to a close this afternoon at Purdue university with a series of practical farm demonstrations showing how to judge hens for egg production, how to select dairy cows, how to treat seed oats to prevent smut, how to select seed potatoes from the hill, inoculate legume seed, and a miniature livestock show with animals from the university farm. The final days' program also was featured by the meeting of the dairy and beef cattle breed associations, all of whom outlined programs for their associations during the coming year.

Classes were held in every section of the short course, except dairying, the day being given over to the association meetings. Homemakers heard talks on food for the family, flowers for the home, music for home and school, the homemaker and hospitality and ended with an informal tea at the Home Economics Practice house where the regular students studying home economics get practical experience.

Subjects Discussed
Before the vegetable growers, H. H. Swain, secretary of the Indiana Horticultural society, discussed strawberry growing and culture, H. D. Brown spoke on vegetable plant production and P. P. Cuker on grape growing. Feeding laying hens, raising poultry and poultry accounts were discussed in the poultry section, while those in the animal husbandry course witnessed a horse judging demonstration and heard talks on economical pork production and another on fattening cattle. The nature of plant diseases, market grades of grain, weed eradication, and intelligent buying of fertilizers were discussed before the soils and crop sections.

Most of the hundreds of farm men and women here for the course departed for their homes today and those who had show samples of corn or small grain took them along, many with prize ribbons and money. The corn show was the best ever held in Indiana with a total of 331 entries, the exact number entered last year when a record was set. The quality of the products generally was higher than in previous years. The potato show numbered about 150 entries, twice the number of a year ago. Commercial growers showed up exceptionally strong this year, indicating that the state potato show has become a permanent feature of the short course. The quality of their products was far superior to that of last year.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

Dangerous Winter Cough Released It's Hold When Nurse Gave Him Hypo-Cod

Tests Had Shown Her How Modern Tonic Quickly Breaks Up Wintry Colds.

PLEASANT TO TAKE AND DOES THE WORK

"My foster son was too weak to throw off a lingering, hacking cough. He had temperature every afternoon and was quite ill. I bought Earle's Hypo-Cod from the drug store because Mrs. E. V. Smith, a nurse, recommended it to me as the only remedy she had used in similar cases with such wonderful results. "His relief through the use of Earle's Hypo-Cod came as a God send to the child. He has no more temperature afternoons as the principal of the school he attends can tell anyone. He only coughs when he catches fresh cold, and I am continuing the use of Earle's Hypo-Cod so as to build him up. I am writing this in the hope that these few lines will be the cause of some one else using the best remedy made for building up the lungs
