

CONSIDERS SABBATIC LEAVE FOR COLLEGE PROFESSORS PROPER

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—The question of sabbatic leave for college professors is of great importance to the college world and one which should rank with the question of salary, pensions and other matters which have to do with the success and prosperity of those to whom we entrust the education of our youth, Professor Otis E. Randall, of Brown university, Providence, R. I., told the Association of American Colleges here today.

"Many colleges regard the practice of granting to the officers of instruction leave of absence under generous conditions, not as a privilege earned by faithful service on the part of the instructor," said Prof. Randall, "but as an obligation to the institutions themselves for the sake of their own efficiency and usefulness. As a result of a questionnaire sent out by our committee the president of one of the New England colleges said he regarded the granting of sabbatic leave as about as good an investment as the about as good an investment as the college could make.

Would Fix Fund
"Others suggested that the colleges would do well to set aside special funds for the purpose of financing a plan of sabbatic leave under generous conditions in the same way as funds are set aside for financing a pension system. One president had gone so far as to suggest the wisdom of bringing the matter to the attention of some of our public benefactors in the hope of securing a foundation upon which a generous plan of sabbatic leave might be worked out for all the colleges.

"The majority of the colleges report that they are already making some sort of provision for leave of absence.
"It is a common opinion that the college for the sake of her intellectual health should adopt some policy by which it shall be possible for each member of the faculty of professional rank to leave his post every seventh year for at least eight months of the 12 he may devote himself to study and self improvement.

FACTS you should know when you buy a car

The question of greatest importance is not what you will be allowed for your old car, but the price you pay for the new car and the value received.

You are money out if allowed $100 more for your old car, yet have to pay a $150 higher list price for a new car when the comparative value is not there.

A purchaser's loss is only postponed when trading allowances are made above a used car's real value. The deal that may appear most satisfactory to you in the beginning may prove to be the most expensive in the end.

No one receives anything gratuitously in this world—don't be misled by false allowances.

We believe that any sales policy which encourages the giving of fictitious values for used cars is an injustice to the public. We wish to establish definitely the fact that the Buick Motor Company has never followed this policy—rather has always based the price of its product upon actual costs and when costs came down correspondingly reduced the prices of its cars to the public without any camouflage whatsoever.
