MIRIAM LITTLE HURT WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Miriam Little, high school student, and daughter of O. H. Little, 110 South Fifteenth street, was painfully but not seriously injured Tuesday morning when she was struck by a machine driven by E. K. Shera, near the corner of South Eleventh and A streets. Miss Little was on her way to high school when the accident occurred.

M. Shera was driving west on A street approaching Eleventh street when a machine driven by S. H. Gerlach, started across A street going north toward Main. Being unable to avoid the Gerlach machine, Mr. Shera struck the tire carrier on the rear with the fender of his car. The sudden shock swerved his car toward the curb and smashed the left front wheel, thus rendering his car unmanageable. Mr. Shera stated that he could no longer guide his car and that it continued up over the curb and down the sidewalk toward Miss Little, who was walking west.

Could Not Escape.
Miss Little had no time to dodge the oncoming car. Mr. Shera immediately did all he could for her and summoned Dr. Marvel, who dressed the cuts. She was cut about both legs and about the head.

Mr. Shera expressed keen regret about the accident.

Miss Little's injuries are very painful, but she was resting well late Tuesday.

HOPE TO

ment bonds; but those whose primary interest is in the state of the treasury would be seriously disturbed by such an action. The treasury is already uncomfortably embarrassed by the amount of short-term notes now out and soon to come due.

What the treasury hopes is that interest rates will continue downward and that it will be possible to refund the government's short-term loans at a lower rate of interest. But if another large issue of government notes is thrown on the market interest rates will stop going downward and turn upward again.

That way of paying the soldier bonus would make us pay it twice—once in the shape of the principal sum and again in the shape of increased interest over a period of years; increased interest not only on the bonus bonds, but on all other government obligations.

Foreign Debt Bill First
What probably will happen is this: the bill for refunding the foreign debts will be passed first and promptly. Thereafter, congress will hope rather vaguely that somehow or other enough money may be got out of our foreign debtors, directly or indirectly, to make at least a beginning on paying the soldiers' bonus at a date not so far deferred as to be unsatisfactory to the soldiers.

There is no doubt that if congress had not already delayed this refunding bill so long, if it had been passed at the time Harding asked for it, and if our treasury had six months in which to turn around, we would already have had something in hand, directly or indirectly, with which to make a beginning on paying the soldiers' bonus.

One plan is that as soon as the necessary authority has been given the administration, Great Britain and perhaps one or two of the other nations shall give us her bonds and that the American government shall sell those bonds to the American public and apply the proceeds towards the soldiers' bonus.

Issue to Tide Over.
This plan contemplates that by this means it would not be necessary for our government to issue more than a quarter of a billion of its own bonds, merely to tide over the period until the money from abroad shall come in, in sufficient quantity to take care of the bonus. It should be said, however, that this plan is a senatorial hope rather than anything else. It is not wholly shared by all who think we should face the soldiers' bonus payments directly and straightforwardly.

The root of the present embarrassment lies in the dilatoriness of congress about authorizing Harding to make arrangements with the various foreign governments. Each according to its circumstances, about the money they owe us.

There has never been any question that sooner or later congress would have to give this authorization to the president that is and always has been the only conceivable way of handling our foreign debts.

We are in the position of a creditor whose debtors in their capacity to pay vary all the way from reasonable capacity to begin partial cash payments now to the other extreme of near bankruptcy. Under these circumstances, the debtor nations must be treated each according to its circumstances.

Somebody in our government must have the authority to exercise this discretion. But congress has been jealous and suspicious about giving this discretion to the president. If the authority had been given when it was asked for more than six months ago, the soldiers' bonus bill would not be the embarrassment to congress that it now is.

President Harding believes in paying the soldiers' bonus and doing it right. Any other who have had hopes of deferring this issue until the treasury is in better shape have been convinced by the indications of widespread public demand, not only on the part of the soldiers, but also on the part of the public generally.

The connection between the immediate payments called for by the soldiers' bonus and the uncertain receipts from our foreign debtors weighs more than the embarrassed congress than it does with those who look the facts clearly in the face.

SCATTERED HAPSBURGS MISS OLD-TIME INCOME

GENEVA, Jan. 17.—Scattered throughout Europe, the members of the once proud house of Hapsburg are all living in relatively poor circumstances—some of them in poverty.

Ex-emperor Charles and ex-empress Zita, who were sent to Funchal, Madeira, as "guests" of the allies, are supplementing their allowance by the sale of some of the family jewels.

Archdukes Eugene and Ferdinand have been permitted by the Swiss government to remain at Lucerne, it being found after an inquiry that they had nothing to do with Charles' ill-fated attempt at restoration.

Archduke Max and Frederick are living with Archduchess Josepha, in Bavaria; Albrecht resides with his mother Isabella at Budapest; Leopold Salvator is staying at a villa near Barcelona; Joseph Ferdinand and Henry Ferdinand have settled down in the imperial hunting lodge at Salzburg, and Archduchess Maria Annunziata lives alone in the Chateau Valnux in Liechtenstein.

Some of them have attempted to fatten their income by working, but with more or less indifferent success. Literature in the form of memoirs from various members of the family has been presented to editors, but none of them have shown great enthusiasm to publish the books.

OHIO WOMAN MAYOR DECLARES WAR ON TOWN'S MALE VAMPS

(By Associated Press)
MAGNETIC SPRINGS, Ohio, Jan. 17.—Twenty-four hours after assuming the duties of mayor of this health resort village, Mrs. Mary McFadden, aged 80, said to be the oldest woman mayor in the United States, today announced that she intends to give this town "a little dustin'."

Her policy, she said would be "war on male vamps; enforcement of prohibition; harmony with council."

Her first official act was to call in the police force, Marshal W. B. Bumbridge and outline these policies. She told the marshal to begin tonight on the curfew law and see that all children are off the streets at 8:30.

The marshal promised his co-operation. Mrs. McFadden was appointed to act as mayor of the village by Mayor N. O. Brown, who will spend the winter in Florida. She was sworn into office yesterday. Her appointment was popular, scores of townspeople flocking to her home to congratulate her.

Is Your Throat too Sore to Swallow

Tuesday Health Talk No. 50
By G. C. Wilcoxon, D. C.

This is the time of year when sore throat is prevalent. When the body cannot quickly adjust itself to changes of temperature and is a bit rundown, then cold settles in the weak places. In tonsillitis or sore throat there is a quick rise of temperature, backache and headache and more or less general aching. Swallowing is painful and difficult.

The chiropractor finds tenderness of spinal nerves beginning at the spine and leading to the tonsils. Chiropractic spinal adjustments at the points of tenderness, at stomach place and at "kidney place" in the spine, are given in the average case. The adjustments for nerves leading direct to the tonsils reduce the heat and inflammation, and the adjustments at kidney place and stomach place help restore normal digestion and elimination to get rid of the suppurative poisons and wastes.

Enlarged Tonsils Corrected

"My oldest boy, aged eight years, had enlarged tonsils and could not breathe at night, except with his mouth open. He was badly run-down, and ordinary remedies did him no good. I started him taking chiropractic spinal adjustments, and the boy now is all right and has picked up weight."—Mrs. Cornelius Swartz, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1296-R.
