

CHILE, PERU ACCEPT MEDIATION OF U. S.; INTEREST IS REVIVED

(By Associated Press)
SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 21.—Acceptance by both Chile and Peru of the United States government's invitation for them to send representatives to Washington in an attempt to reach an agreement regarding execution of the unfulfilled clauses of the treaty of Ancon has revived interest here in the negotiations begun several weeks ago, when Chile invited Peru to participate in a plebiscite to determine the sovereignty of the provinces of Tacna and Arica.

A series of notes was exchanged by the two countries outlining their views in the forty years' controversy. The diplomatic exchanges were broken off when Chile charged Peru with peremptorily refusing the invitation to a plebiscite and with rejecting arbitration to fix the form of such an election. Peru took the stand that the plebiscite clause was not the only one in the treaty of 1883 which had not been fulfilled and suggested an appeal to an arbiter as to whether the treaty had been violated and how such violations could be made amends for.

Thank Harding
While the American government's invitation is not commented upon by the newspapers it is looked on as affording an opportunity to renew the negotiations, and Chile is ready to proceed on the basis of her note forwarded to Washington Thursday night.

Foreign Minister Barros Jarpa informed the correspondent last night that the selection of Chile's plenipotentiaries was under consideration. He also let it be known that President Alessandri sent a message to President Harding a few days ago expressing his thanks for the friendly invitation.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 21.—Political circles here enthusiastically received the news that President Harding had invited Chile and Peru to send representatives to Washington to discuss a settlement of the unfulfilled clauses of the Treaty of Ancon. Caesaro Carrera, former foreign secretary, and prominent political leader, declared in an interview: "The success of President Harding's action will be valuable for European interests, owing to the similarity of Chile's and Ecuador's divergencies with Peru. It is believed here that President Harding's action forecasts a settlement of all South American border questions."

Near relatives of former service men who have come here from other states may obtain the bonus by making the proper application at his office, he said. TO EXHIBIT "AMERICA," NEW ROSE, AT SHOW

"America," a new Hill rose, originated by E. G. Hill and company, will be shown at the annual convention of the American Carnation society at Hartford, Conn., next Wednesday.

The new creation is an intermediate between the "Columbia" and the "Premier," both of which were originated by E. G. Hill, and have attained tremendous popularity all over the country. It is a large pink rose.

The rose was shown at Chicago in November and has been exhibited at a few meetings. It will be put out next year.

Earl Mann will depart for Hartford Monday to arrange for the exhibit of the Hill company. Although the meeting is of carnation growers, other flowers will be exhibited, among them the new rose.

Rosarians believe the "America" will create a sensation and will attain a wide popularity with the public.

Use Flashlight to Thwart Burglars—Eversman

As a soft answer turneth away wrath, so does a police flashlight turn away the bullet of the desperate criminal, according to Chief of Police William Eversman. Handled rightly it will dazzle the unsuspecting criminal and confuse him so that his capture will be easy.

"Arm yourself with a flashlight and you have a good burglar insurance," said the chief Saturday. "Not only will it light your way at night, but the bold hold-up man is thrown off his guard at once when it is flashed in his eyes."

It has other and more aggressive uses, too, according to the chief. A blow on the head from a flashlight is not a pleasant thing, and if the light is handled properly, may stun the culprit.

"Last but not least, said the chief, "the carrying of this weapon is not forbidden by law. Bad gunmen who carry revolvers to protect themselves, would do well to buy a handy flashlight which will not only protect them, but will be much less likely to get them into trouble."

The scene is a forest gade near a village of the Mohawks before the coming of the whites. The tale woven through the operetta is the story of the love of Nakawa, the young war chief, for Se-a-wana, the Cherry maid, and the treachery of Nea-qua, Seawana's jealous rival.

The woman of the Rose, who settles disputes in her tribe, learns of Nakawa's treachery from O-pe-che, the robin, and the story ends happily with the marriage of Se-a-wana and the Indian chief.

A full rehearsal for the operetta will be held Monday evening at 7 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church.

PROVISIONING SHIP FOR ARCTIC JOURNEY OF CAPT. AMUNDSEN

(By Associated Press)
SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 21.—Final provisioning and equipping of the exploring ship Maud, in which Captain Roald Amundsen, noted Norwegian explorer and discoverer of the South Pole will resume his interrupted Arctic Expedition next May, is being completed as the stout little ship lies in the land-locked waters of Lake Union here.

A smashed propeller blade, lost in the ice off the Northeastern Siberian coast, last year forced Captain Amundsen to bring the Maud to Seattle for repairs. When the journey is resumed the vessel will carry four extra blades so that a similar accident may cause only a temporary halt to the expedition. The Maud will carry provisions for seven years, although the explorer does not expect the trip to occupy more than five years at the most.

Airplane Equipment
The most important of the Maud's equipment, in Captain Amundsen's opinion, will be the two airplanes, purchased in Norway and shipped here recently and which will be used in the making of extensive geographic and hydrographic surveys for a thousand miles on either side of the vessel's track through the Northern seas. The primary purpose of the expedition, which is operating under the auspices of the Norwegian government, is to study the movement of the Arctic ice pack, the effect of ocean currents, magnetic influences and other phenomena of the polar regions.

The airplanes, Captain Amundsen expects, will be of great value in this work. He said that he would probably use them to reach the North Pole should his plan to drift past the pole with the ice pack prove unfeasible. A wireless equipment installed aboard the Maud will be used to broadcast a message when he reaches the top of the world.

Captain Amundsen expects to strike immediately into the outward or northern drift of the ice as it leaves Bering Sea next Spring, and to swing with the northeasterly current early in the summer.

With the explorer will be Captain Oskar Wisting, sailing master, who stood at his side "on" the South Pole. G. Olonkin, engineer, Dr. H. V. Sverdrup, scientists of the expedition, two Norwegian aviators and a crew of six Siberian natives who joined the Maud in 1920.

White, one of the examiners, has been in Dunkirk since Monday. Mr. Camp said that a few months ago a new cashier was chosen for the bank but, he said, "I guess they did not make the change soon enough." Everyday Ad-Ventures

Thoughts of a homesick picture. "No one could be more homesick than I am. Here I am, hung in this dreary store and here I'll likely stay hung until I'm dead."

"I'm not particular about what kind of a home I get into, just so there's a nice family of four or five, including a couple of boys to say."

"Oh, what a pretty picture! See the dandy-looking ship tossing on the ocean. It must be a stormy night. Believe me, dad, when I grow up I want to take a trip across the water on a ship like that and see a real storm myself."

"But here, nobody ever admires me."

"Ah, who is this? A man and his wife have come in the door of the store and are looking at me. The wife says she thinks I'm beautiful. She said she read about the handsome pictures here in the 'Household Goods' column of the Palladium's classified section."

"Great! I'm sold and am going to have a fine home. I'm a friend of those classified ads for life."
