CHURCH CO-OPERATION IS URGED BY STOKES

"The present reaction of liberality in educational systems comes from the religious liberties which is enjoyed by most English speaking people, particularly in the United States," stated Rev. R. W. Stokes at the meeting of the Ministerial association in the Y. M. C. A. Monday morning.

"The inability of the many denominations to arrive at a definition for religious instruction makes it practically impossible to carry out the wishes of the churches. It is time that churches were agreeing upon a religious course of instruction. For the most part, school men and the public schools should get ready to co-operate."

Rev. Stokes stated that voluntary classes for religious instruction should be formed.

HOW IRELAND'S MAP CHANGED BEFORE FREEDOM CAME

The four maps show the divisions of Ireland at the important periods in her history.

Ireland's fight for freedom began in 1172 when the English under Henry II descended upon her shores. The Emerald Isle at that time was divided into five kingdoms, as the map above at the left shows. From 1172 to 1690 favorites of the English rulers took possession of the various areas or plantations, as the map at the upper right shows. Then, after the battle of the Boyne in 1690, the English took possession of the entire island, with the exception of Connaught, as the map below at the left shows. A system of "landlordism" was established by the British. The creation of the Irish Free State now divides Ireland into two sections. The new Free State includes all the island excepting the part of Ulster known as "Unionist Ulster," which was offered the privilege of entering the Free State or remaining under British rule. The Unionists have shown no desire to join the Free State.

HERSCHELL, MALLOCH TO ENTERTAIN ROTARY

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 23.—The conference of the fifty Rotary clubs of Indiana, comprising the Eleventh Rotary District, in Indianapolis, Feb. 21 and 22, is to have many interesting phases, chief of which will be the visit to Indiana of Crawford McCullough, of Ft. William, Ontario, international president of Rotary, who was elected at the Edinburgh convention last year. Hotel registrations already made indicate that each of the fifty Hoosier Rotary clubs will have big representations at the conference and several clubs are talking of a 100 per cent attendance. District headquarters in the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, has been jammed with club chairmen here to make reservations for the Rotarians and their ladies. Wilbur T. Gruber, secretary of the conference, sees more than 2,500 Rotarian visitors here for the big Rotary roundup.

Secretary Gruber has announced two features for the program for the women's entertainment. Douglas Malloch, known through all America as "The Lumberjack Poet," is to be one of the entertainers for the women. His poem, "Today," is known wherever the English language is read. He also has written many beautiful poems that possess sentimental qualities sure to appeal to his feminine audiences. Then there is our own Indiana singer of the simpler melodies, William Herschell, better known to thousands of Rotarians as Bill. He is on the program for bits of his own poetry. One poem, "The Muddled Modes," which proves that it is now hard to distinguish mother, 40, from sister, 18, is included in his program. "The Port of Sunset Bay" also will have its appeal. Mr. Malloch and Mr. Herschell will alternate at the luncheon and dinner tendered the visiting Rotarian women. Several musical features also are on the program for the women's party.

South Bend is first in the field for the 1923 conference. The northern city has laid snappy plans for the big show and it is thought here will have no trouble in landing the conference.

FIND MUCH TYPHUS IN POLISH FAMILIES BEING REPATRIATED

(By Associated Press)

WARSAW, Jan. 23.—Government inspectors say there is much typhus among the thousands of Polish men, women and children who are being repatriated from Russia through the camp at Baranowice, near the Polish-Russian border. The disease, they assert, is becoming more widespread as it does each winter as the cold weather sets in.

Repatriation of the Polish population which was withdrawn by the Russian armies in 1915 in their retreat is scarcely half finished. It began last July. Estimates of the number to be repatriated vary from 600,000 by the Polish commission to 1,300,000 by the Russian evacuator commission. It is estimated that more than 300,000 already have passed through the Baranowice camp alone and that the total number returned to date is approximately $450,000. The care of these people is in the hands of the Polish government, aided by several welfare organizations.

These refugees have been dying in such numbers at the Baranowice camp that the authorities have found it necessary to bury the victims in great trenches. Of 62,000 who passed through the station in November, it is estimated by Polish health officers that 1,500 died after reaching the camp. Doctors attribute the majority of deaths to disease contracted en route, and brought about by exposure and lack of proper nourishment.
