

HILL COMPANY GIVES 5,000 ROSE PLANTS FOR SHOW SOUVENIRS

Five thousand young rose plants contributed by Joseph Hill of Richmond will be included in the 10,000 rose plants that will be given away to visitors who attend the fifth national flower show at Indianapolis on "Rose Day." The show is to continue from March 25 to April 1, and two days will be designated as Rose Day and as Carnation Day.

The American Carnation society has promised 10,000 carnation blooms for free distribution, and American nurserymen also will give away 10,000 hardy shrubs.

Feature days for the show include an "Indiana Day," Thursday, March 30, and "Patriotic Day," Friday, March 31, as well as "Chicago Day," Monday, March 27, and "Cleveland Day," Wednesday, March 29. Sunday, March 26, will be "Women's Day."

Special programs are being arranged for each of these days as well as for Saturday, March 25, which is to be known as "Chamber of Commerce Day," Tuesday, March 28, which has been designated as "Madison Day," and Saturday, April 1, "Men's Club Day," to which members of the Kiwanis, Rotary and other clubs from every part of the country are specially invited.

Officers of the national flower show are hoping to have Mrs. Margot Asquith, wife of the former prime minister of England, as the honor guest at the flower show on Women's Day, when she will be asked to name a new flower.

To Admit Vets Free

On Patriotic Day, according to plans now being worked out, every ex-service man in uniform will be admitted free, and flowers will be distributed by ex-service men to all the service men now confined to hospitals in Indianapolis. An invitation has been sent to Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, with headquarters in Indianapolis, to be the guest of honor on Patriotic Day.

On Indiana Day, the flower show management expects to have Governor Warren T. McCray and his staff present, with military escort. The governor will be invited to unveil a fine floral piece of the Indiana state seal. On Chicago Day and Cleveland Day special trains will be run from these cities, to accommodate the large crowds planning to come to Indianapolis for the national flower show.

$150,000 IS STOLEN FROM TWO COLLEGES

PHILADELPHIA, March 7.—Bonds and other negotiable securities valued at more than $150,000 have been stolen from the strong box of the Dr. Thomas W. Evans Dental School and museum fund of the University of Pennsylvania, it became known late last night.

Walter A. Unger, assistant treasurer of the fund, is being sought by the police in connection with the case. Unger, who is 27 years old, disappeared from his home here last Tuesday. His mother said last night she had no knowledge of his whereabouts.

The theft was discovered last Wednesday when a committee of the trustees opened the strong box. All of the securities with the exception of three mortgages had been taken. The committee said that Unger had taken $12,000 belonging to the fund on the preceding day, saying that it was for the payroll of the dental school and museum. The money did not reach either the school or museum, it was stated.

Unger was not bonded, the board of trustees having made him assistant treasurer at the request of Francis R. Reeves, treasurer of the fund. Mr. Reeves, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Girard National bank, is seriously ill at his home in Germantown.

DAINTY SLIPPERS AND SMART SHOES FOR THE NEW SEASON

In buying shoes one must now look ahead to a spring season in which sports costumes, wool hose or silk and wool, or silk lisle in all of the soft colors, will be worn with footwear of the sport order in a variety of leathers. A shoe is not in the sport class simply because there is a dominant interest in sport wear. Sport shoes are for street, golf and walking, but for dress and semi-dress the pretty straps in patent, satin, brocade and suede are correct. Shown here are a number of new styles, including straps with jeweled buckles for evening wear, suedes and satins for evening wear, white buck with fringed tongue for street and sports wear in summer and gold cloth mules for the boudoir.

Censored Tombstones

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 7.—think of visiting cemeteries outside the city when they set out for a Sunday afternoon stroll. Decidedly, the dead are not so much with us as they were a few centuries, or even a few generations, back.

Tombstones Topics of Talks. Then, tombstones were a live topic. A man expected to have an epitaph written about him, and if there was any fear in his mind that his relatives would not make a good job of it, he wrote the label for his stone himself or hired a professional to write one.

Ben Jonson, Milton and Pope wrote epitaphs. Shakespeare wrote his own epitaph in a four-line verse of warning to any who might wish to disturb his bones. To dash off a witty epitaph for a friend or enemy was a parlor trick with which kings and courtiers whiled away a dull afternoon. Thus when Charles II casually asked Rochester to write his epitaph, the courtier thought, a minute and produced the following famous lines: Here lies our mutton-eating king, Whose word no man relied on; Who never said a foolish thing, And never did a wise one. The king took no offense, but set his

CASCARETS 10¢

For Constipated Bowels, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Bilious Liver

The nicest cathartic-laxative in the world to physic your liver and bowels when you have Dizzy Headache, Colds, Biliousness, Indigestion, or Upset, Acid Stomach is candy-like "Cascarets." One or two tonight will empty your bowels completely by morning, and you will feel splendid. "They work while you sleep." Cascarets never stir you up, grip like Salts, Pills, Calomel or Oil and they cost only ten cents a box. Children love Cascarets too.

brains to work and composed a second stanza: If death could speak, the king would say.

In justice to his crown, His acts were the minister's, His words they were his own. Even if a man was inadvertently misplaced, he had to have a tombstone and an epitaph, as is shown by the following in an English churchyard: Underneath this sod lies John Round, Who was lost in the sea and never was found.

Rhyme or Free Verse Epitaphs were correct style and everybody had them. Those individuals whose outstanding deeds and characteristics could not be squeezed into rhymed couplets were gloriously immortalized in free verse. Lady O'Looney's epitaph is a good example: Here lies the body of Lady O'Looney, Great niece of Burke, commonly Called the sublime. She was Bland, passionate and deeply religious; Also painted in water-colors, And sent several pictures to the Exhibition.

She was first cousin to Lady Jones. And of such is the kingdom of heaven. But those days are gone. Poets no longer specialize in epitaphs. Henpecked husbands get even by some other means than by writing sarcastic verses to go on tombstones. The epitaph, which started off well in this country in the graveyards of Massachusetts, is practically defunct. Still, the possibilities of epitaph reform, even in this country, should not be overlooked. Like England, we have ample material which should be of interest to censors in our old New England churchyards. The verse which is said to have started the agitation in the English village is on an old stone. We quote it now. In future, it may be permissible to designate it only by four rows of dots: Here lies the body of Mary Ann Lowder.

Who burst from drinking a seidlitz powder, Calk'd from this world to her heavenly rest, She should have waited till it effervesced.

The danger of the public catching the idea that death is not to be taken seriously is less now, to be sure, than it might have been a few decades back when promenades in the graveyard were a popular outdoor sport. Still, the old grinning, chuckling epitaphs are there, legible under the grime, to corrupt anybody who strays into their neighborhood.

Take the following, for instance, out in Iowa, written on stone for dignified and sober-minded middle westerners to read:

Beneath this stone our baby lays, He neither cries nor hollers. He lived just one and twenty days And cost us forty dollars. Or consider that admired and copied verse by some unknown English poet: Here lies my wife, Here lies she, Hallelujah! Hallelujah!

The effect of such epitaphs on the public is obviously demoralizing. In the future we may have a national censor of epitaphs to see that covers are made for all epitaphs which do not conform to the national regulations for tombstone literature. Or possibly the epitaph official will gather together a collection of forbidden tombstones and keep them in a locked and guarded graveyard museum.

Anyway, the English village may expect to go down in history as the pioneer in the crusade for preservation of tombstone dignity.

ONE-ARMED WOMAN MAKES RECORD AS WREATH WEAVER

SEAFORD, Del., March 7.—It has developed that during the holly wreath season recently, one of the neatest and fastest makers in the country was Mrs. Mary Figg, a one-armed woman living near Millsboro. She has a record of 100 wreaths a day, which, at 7 cents per wreath, netted her $7 per day. The dealers paid the makers 7 cents per wreath when they furnished the artificial berries and 10 cents per wreath if the maker furnished the berries.

Take Care of Your Cold

Guard against Grippe, "Flu" and Pneumonia—Rub Musterole on Throat, Chest and Back

Grippe, Influenza and treacherous Pneumonia all start with a cold, so guard against these dangers before your cold gets deeply seated.

At the first signs of a cold (which is just congestion) bring your circulation back to normal by rubbing Musterole on your throat, chest and back. Musterole is a counter-irritant which warms up the body quickly and sets the blood surging through the congested parts.

Remember the good old-fashioned mustard plaster that was grandmother's standby? Musterole has all of the good qualities of that messy old mustard plaster without the sting and blister.

Made of pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, it penetrates the pores and goes straight to the seat of trouble.

During the "Flu" epidemic several years ago, Musterole was used in our army training camps and the Y. M. C. A. War Board sent thousands of jars to our soldiers in France. If you are feverish, if you ache all over, rub on good old Musterole, take a hot bath, drink plenty of hot water and go to bed and call your doctor. Keep good and warm and see that there is plenty of fresh air in your room.

Musterole has been used for years and is recommended by doctors for Sore Throat, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Croup, Lumbago, Grippe, "Flu" and Pneumonia. Apply the healing ointment with your finger tips, rubbing it gently into the affected parts. First glow, then a refreshing, cooling sensation. Thousands of families keep Musterole always on their bathroom shelf ready for colds and other emergencies.

All druggists; 35c and 65c jars and tubes. Hospital size, $3.00.

Where the Green Grass Grows All Around

MAYBE you're looking for a home somewhere in the "shrubberies" or maybe you'd be satisfied with a house in town with a little lawn in front.

It's the natural thing for the average home-seeker to want a house with a little grass and some "growing things" around it. And he won't be happy 'till he gets it, either!

The most attractive of the available homes in and around the city are being offered every day in the "Houses For Sale" column in the classified section.

Many of them have small plots around them and ample room for those outdoor touches that make a home complete. The descriptions make it easy for you to tell at a glance what offers would interest you.
