"V. UTH IS FICKLE," SAYS MISS DONN. THEN FOLLIES STAR PROMPTLY WEDS ONE

Donna Genevieve Couvriere Evans Travis, whose philosophy of love changes with her sweethearts, in a dancing pose.

Since time began it has been the inalienable right of a woman to change her mind—in love as well as in minor things. A few weeks ago Donna Genevieve Couvriere Evans, former Follies beauty and movie actress, declared, "I'd rather be an old man's darling than a young man's slave." That was when her husband, Nelson F. Evans, movie photographer, startled her by eloping with a New York widow. But now after three weeks, says Donna, who has since added "Travis" to her quartet of names, "Wise women change their minds. Fools never." Charles H. Travis is young and wealthy and—well, Donna says it was a case of love at first sight.

Indiana will vote for the bill, it is said, if it is permitted to come before the senate.

The Democrats in the house have indicated that they would seek to have the bonus bill amended so as to re-establish the excess profits tax. However, in the event the bill is brought in under suspension of the rules that plan cannot be carried out for a bill so considered is not subject to amendment.

The sales tax advocates are hopeful that some way will be opened to offer amendments on the floor, but they are not optimistic.

A New York newspaper which has been advocating the sales tax has made the prediction that it would "command the support of the bulk of the agricultural bloc," indicating that it is more closely in touch with the financial and industrial interests of the east than it is with the agricultural interests of the west.

Indiana congressmen have been notified by telegraph by the president of the Indiana Farm Bureau federation that the county bureau presidents have unanimously disapproved of a sales tax to raise the revenue for the bonus or for any other purpose. The same attitude is assumed toward the sales tax by farm organizations in other western states.

It is not often that Senator Reed, of Missouri, walks into a trap, but he did recently while taking part in the Democratic filibuster against the four-power Pacific treaty.

"The Anglo-Japanese alliance is not abrogated by this treaty," said Senator Reed. "It does not appear in this treaty. It should be plainly stated in this instrument that the Anglo-Japanese alliance is abrogated and this treaty is substituted for it."

Then Leonard of Wisconsin, a Republican, closed the trap. He picked up a copy of the four-power Pacific treaty and read article IV, as follows: "And thereupon the agreement between Great Britain and Spain, which was concluded at London on July 19, 1911, shall terminate."

"That is correct," admitted Reed. "I overlooked it."
