

FARMERS OF DALTON PLAN CO-OPERATIVE ORCHARD SPRAY RING

(Special to the Palladium)
DALTON, Ind., March 31.—Organization of a co-operative spray ring for their farm orchards was determined upon at a committee meeting of the Dalton township farmers' association Thursday night.

A committee of two, J. N. Davis and U. M. Stewart, was appointed to secure a spraying outfit, either by purchasing equipment and hiring a sprayer, or by contracting with some one who has, or will buy, the equipment. It is hoped that some competent man, experienced in spraying orchards, can be secured in Hagerstown or Losantaville. It was stated that a welcome would be extended to any one who would show a willingness to do the work.

About 300 trees, mostly apples, are being sprayed as soon as operations are started. There are a dozen farmers around Dalton in the spray ring.

This is not the first experiment of the sort in the county, a small group of farmers east of Richmond having sprayed co-operatively for some time. However, competent orchardists who have examined Wayne county trees state that the farm fruit production could be greatly increased by spraying and proper care, and have recommended spray rings as the solution for farmers with small orchards.

MJ. GEN. HAAN ENDS 36 YEARS' SERVICE

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Major General William G. Haan, president of the army classification board, retired today from active service in the army, concluding a continuous military career of more than 36 years.

Entering the army as a cadet in June, 1885, he won rapid promotion for ability and excellence of service at various posts in the United States and during the Spanish-American war and the Philippine insurrection distinguished himself.

Returning to the United States in 1907, he commanded the coast defenses of eastern New York, the 57th artillery brigade and then received several assignments to the general staff. He took the 32nd division to France in 1918, and again won distinction in foreign operations.

The citation by which he was awarded the distinguished service medal shows that the general took a prominent part in the Argonne-Meuse offensive and in the brilliant and successful attack against Cote Dame Marie, covering several days, which deprived the enemy of the key point of the position.

Increase In Coal Mine Fatalities Is Announced

WASHINGTON, March 31.—An increase in coal mine fatalities of 31 percent in February over the corresponding month a year ago was announced today by the Bureau of Mines, 210 lives were lost in mine accidents during the month compared with 160 in February, 1921. Based on an estimated output in 48,000,000 tons of coal the death rate was 4.37 per million tons compared with 4.15 a year ago. The average number of lives lost during February each year since 1913 is 184.

RICHMOND'S FUTURE DEPENDS ON KIND OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, SAYS FOLSOM

Dr. Arthur Folsom.

"Cities which are forging ahead today are the ones which have a well organized Chamber of Commerce and the Richmond of 1930 will be determined by the type of Chamber of Commerce which is developed within the next few years," Dr. Arthur Folsom, Fort Wayne, told about 100 business men in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Thursday night. Dr. Folsom is the past president of the Rotary club of Fort Wayne, and is an authority on American business.

"Richmond needs an aggressive Chamber of Commerce, such as that of Fort Wayne, under the direction of Secretary Bodine. Fort Wayne's attempts for a successful Chamber of Commerce were without result time after time, until Secretary Bodine took up the work and now it is one of the greatest organizations in the country."

Dr. Folsom explained that the Chamber of Commerce was not an institution which is confined to obtaining new industries for the city, but is one which should be a big factor in the success of the present industries. The industries and the Chamber of Commerce should work together for the one great end, and that is for better conditions in the city's resources.

Must Work Together.
"No city in the United States has reached its prime, and Richmond is still young. The welfare of the city is by no means smaller than any man's business, and if the city is divided, it can not advance higher."

Dr. Folsom urged that the citizens get behind Secretary Tingley in his effort to establish a real Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Tingley is a secretary of experience and one who knows just what he is doing, he said. "He can put the Chamber of Commerce up among the very best, if he gets the citizen's support."

"The Chamber of Commerce, being a commercial organization, is a clearing house for all civic affairs. Persons of all walks of life form the membership in the Chamber of Commerce and with their combined efforts, their city is made the best possible place in which to live."

Slogan Suggested
A slogan "every member loyal" was suggested by Dr. Folsom.

Secretary Lewis C. Tingley, who was introduced after Folsom's address, said:

"I have interviewed 50 or more of the leading business men of the city and they all agreed that Richmond needs an aggressive Chamber of Commerce, that a complete reorganization is necessary and that each one is willing to do his part when called upon."

Mr. Tingley said he wanted the support of the citizens in his endeavors. Harry Higgins, president of the Xenia Chamber of Commerce, was unable to be at the meeting Thursday night on account of the weather conditions. He was to drive through, but the roads were too bad. Secretary Tingley said that he would be present at one of the future meetings of the chamber.

Community singing was led by Ora Stegall. Songs composed especially for the occasion were used.

Howard A. Dill represented the Rotary club at the meeting in place of President H. R. Robinson, who was out of the city. Mr. Dill said there had been something lacking in Richmond for some time and that the Chamber of Commerce should be supported to fulfill this need.

RICHMOND FLORISTS ATTEND BANQUET

A banquet of Indiana and other visiting florists of late country held in connection with the flower show in Indianapolis Thursday night was attended by Fred Lemon, Joseph Hill and Earle H. PARK DANCING AFTER THE SHOW

Are you too old to break a habit ?

by Mrs. Mary Preston
Cooking Expert and Food Analyst

The sales-manager of The Heekin Company and I are really awfully good friends, but we do argue frequently.

The other day we were talking about habit. The sales-manager said that women are slaves of habit where baking powder is concerned. He said that all women used either the brands their mothers used, or the brands they first tried themselves. And he said they were afraid to change.

Then he said, "After any woman reaches a certain age, she's so set in her habits, that she won't change any of them."

Now, I'm not terribly young, but I certainly consider myself progressive. I'll leave it to you—are you too old to try a superior baking powder that saves you money? Are you too old to change to a baking powder that is guaranteed to make your baking successful? The baking powder I mean is Heekin's.

I know that a better baking powder cannot be made. I have baked with it, and so have my assistants. We have never had one failure where Heekin's was used. I have analyzed it—no purer baking powder can be made. (There are no foreign ingredients added to Heekin's to create an unnatural effervescence or to give a false impression of quality.) And Heekin's costs much less than any other that even approaches it in quality.

As I told the sales-manager, if we simply tell all women how wonderful Heekin's is—that any woman will get excellent results with it; that it is the favorite with thousands of women—then every woman will be eager to try it.

And, just read this guarantee: If you bake anything—using Heekin's—that doesn't turn out to your entire satisfaction, list the ingredients in whatever you bake, their prices, and the price of the baking powder, and the total amount will be sent you by The Heekin Company, Cincinnati, Ohio. There is no red tape to this offer. Simply send the list and your name and address. Buy a can today and try it. You'll like Heekin's.

HIATT IS

ing against the Napanee place and not against the Camelia property.

CHICAGO, March 31.—"The Cooke properties in Louisiana are in my name and whether they should be turned over to Hiatt is a matter to be settled between him and myself," said C. L. Peck, representative of E. F. Hiatt, here today.

"Right now it is my property. The suit brought by Gov. Brewer to force Hiatt to buy a half million dollars in bonds of the Tchula stores company is simple," he said.

"Brewer came to me to ask if Hiatt could take the bonds. He said that a certain bank in the south had contracted to take a share of the bonds. I told him that if he could show a letter from the bank, stating that proposition, that I would get Hiatt to take them."

"That provision was put into the contract, but Brewer has not furnished the letter, so Hiatt is not due to buy. I consider the equity in the Cooke properties to be worth about $160,000. The land is worth, or in the next two years will be worth $200 an acre."

"Mother, quick, look what Billy has done and spilled a whole big box of Kellogg's Corn Flakes. I'll say he likes them a lot!"

Tomorrow morning—
by all means try
Kellogg's Corn Flakes

Tomorrow morning—set KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes before the family! A feast for the eye and a feast for keen appetites! For, Kellogg's are as extra-delicious as they look—all sunny brown and wonderfully crispy, crunchy! My, but how they delight everybody!

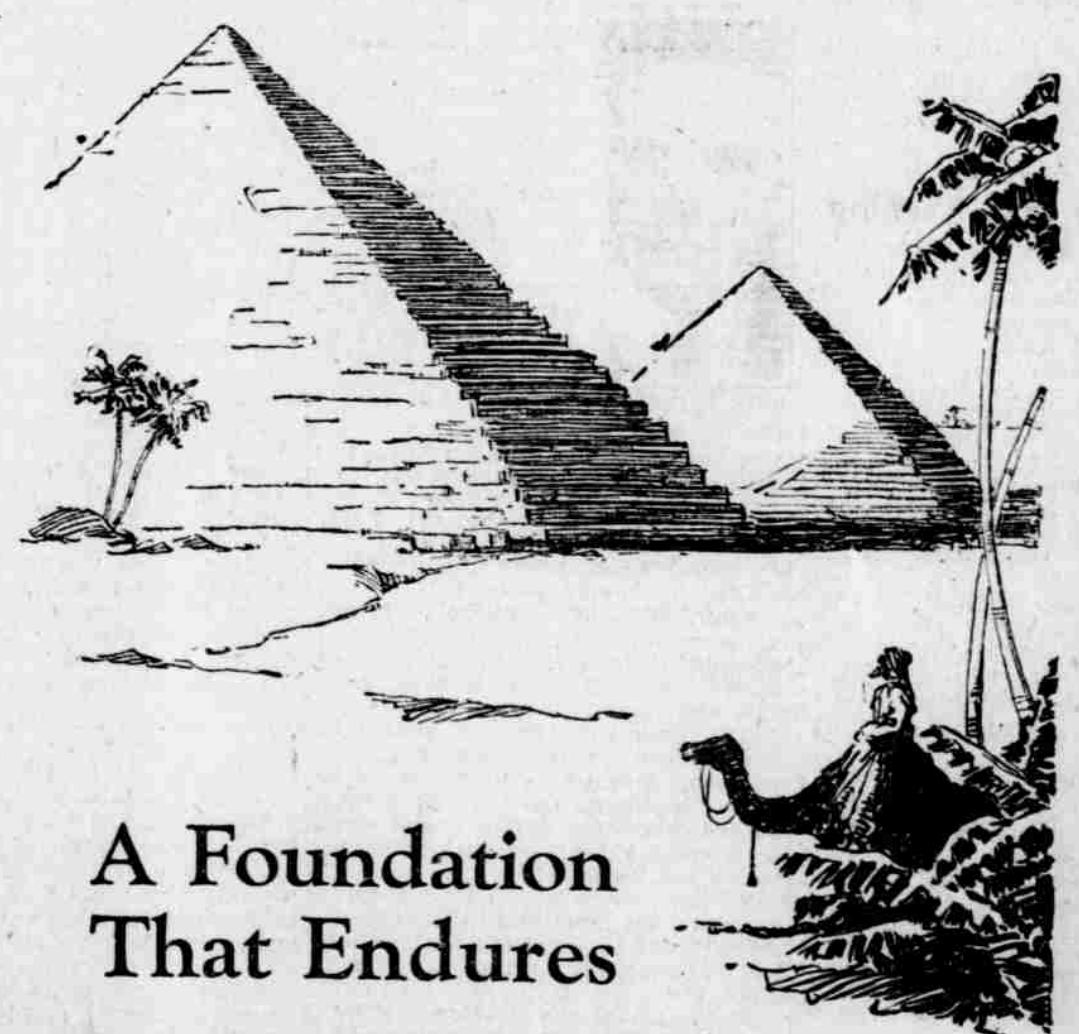

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are not only distinctly superior to any imitation, but are the most fascinating cereal you ever ate! Kellogg's appeal to every age! Little folks and old folks find in them the same joyous pleasure! For Kellogg's have a wonderful flavor—and Kellogg's are never tough or leathery or hard to eat!

Insist upon KELLOGG'S—the original Corn Flakes in the RED and GREEN package! It bears the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Kellogg's Corn Flakes. NONE ARE GENUINE WITHOUT IT!
