

CANDIDATES FLOOD CLERK'S OFFICE LAST DAY OF APPLICATIONS

Saturday, the final day for ambitious candidates who would have their names placed on the Republican or Democratic ballots to be voted on for the nomination at the primary, May 2, proved a heavy day for the county clerk and his assistants. Scores of candidates called in the afternoon and filled out the blanks which make formal request that their names be placed on the ballot.

Ten days remain for persons who wish to be named delegates to the state party conventions to file their names. Lists of all the offices closed Saturday, however.

Republicans filing Saturday and the offices to which they aspire, were: Sam K. Morgan, justice of the peace; Frank W. Bartine Reynolds and Leon Daugherty, of Cambridge City, for township advisory board members; John H. Thomas for 35th precinct committeeman; Z. Burley Pyle for township assessor, Wayne township; Charles E. Hatt, Dublin, for county council; Samuel Glunt, for township trustee; Charles Petzer, for precinct committeeman; Russell Miner, for township assessor; Hamilton Square, for 2nd precinct committeeman; James Lamb, of Economy, for member of the township advisory board; N. S. Mendenhall and Frank Cain, Economy, same office.

Economy Applicants.
Mrs. Clara Manning, Mrs. Emma Stanley and Mrs. May Oler all of Economy entered the lists for a place on the township advisory board. Charles E. Porter, South Seventh street, this city, filed for the office of Wayne township trustee.

John Hendershot, Otto Neber and Mahlon C. Marveyal, all of Webster, would have places on the township advisory board; Robert Warren of Milton, filed for Washington township trustee; James L. Lewis, 244 Pearl street for thirty-second precinct committeeman; Alexander Abbott of Hagerstown would be Dalton township assessor; Jesse C. Reynard, for committeeman; Albert C. Sourbeer for Washington township trustee.

Gwen Duke, Boston, filed his application for a place as candidate for the office township trustee; Alphonse Weishaupt, 444 South Sixth street for committeeman; Charles P. Garrett, Centerville for member of the township advisory board; Royden M. Wolfgang, Easthaven avenue for committeeman; Albert C. Sarver of Milton for township trustee; Irvin L. Suits for precinct committeeman.

Democrats File

Frank S. McDaniel, Cambridge City, for third precinct committeeman; Harry M. Sourbeer of Pershing, for township advisory board member; Park B. Sourbeer of Pershing, for sixth precinct committeeman; Amos E. Ehle of Pershing for county coroner; Ruban Bertsch, Jackson township; fifth precinct, for committeeman; Golden H. Moore, for precinct committeeman, Jackson township; DeForest Druley for Boston township trustee; Delbert Minnick for twenty-fourth precinct; Louis Salzarulo, for twenty-fifth precinct committeeman; G. H. Moore and Charles F. Close, both of Cambridge City, for committeeman; Charles F. Wheeler, of Cambridge City, for Jackson township advisory board.

Albert Gordan, of Dalton, for first precinct committeeman; John R. Spohr, Stephen G. Endsley, Emmet Dye, all of Centerville, for Abington township advisory board; Don H. Wright, Cambridge City, for township chairman; Thomas Morgan for third precinct committeeman; Center; James T. Harris for Center township trustee; James W. Moran for Center township assessor; Carl B. Jones for precinct committeeman; William Urban for fifteenth precinct committeeman; Theodore C. Davis of Green's Fork for second precinct committeeman, Clay township, and Sylvanus O. Eadcock for Abington township trustee; Albert Caldwell of Washington township for state committeeman.

Political Pickings

The die is cast. The time for the filing of declarations of candidates for all public offices, who will be voted for at the primary election, May 2, expired Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock when County Clerk Meredith closed his office and gave evidence of the relief he felt after 30 strenuous days. The long list of aspirants for all sorts of offices, from the highest paid to those which draw no salaries whatever, will total in the hundreds, but the exact count can not be taken until the applications are properly entered and indexed by the clerk in his election record. Only candidates for state conventions are permitted to file now, and their time will be up 25 days before the primary.

There still is more or less question as to the matter of conducting the elections in some of the heavy voting precincts at the primary. The election commissioners, acting under the 1920 law, enacted by the special session of the general assembly, adopted a resolution some time ago authorizing additional clerks and extra booths in several of the precincts where the number of voters exceeds 375. It now develops that the state board of election commissioners, in their latest compilation of primary election laws, does not include this special enactment; hence, it is taken that the law applied only to the last general election and will have no bearing on the primary. In order to be certain, however, an inquiry will be made to the state election commissioners. In the event it is held that the precincts can have but the regulation number of clerks, there will be some congestion at a number of the voting precincts in order to handle the vote, and the old slogan "vote early" will be particularly applicable.

The senatorial contest is warming up in Wayne county. At least there are signs that before the primary election day arrives there will be more interest than was manifested a few weeks ago. The Beveridge forces were first at work—at least first with the active campaigning, though the New forces, it is said, were quietly at work and without much demonstration. There is no question, the New supporters say, that there has been a decided change in Wayne county recently and that Senator New will carry ry the Sixth congressional district, one of the large districts in the state. It was pointed out by a New supporter Saturday that Senator New's vote in Wayne county six years ago was very large, defeating James E. Watson by a small plurality.

Wayne county has but a small number of women candidates for any offices this year, though the way was open for them to file for any offices which are to be filled. Comparatively few women have filed anywhere in the state, according to reports received by the state committees of both Republicans and Democrats, but this fact does not mean that they are not interested in the primary on May 2. There is every indication that the women will vote in large numbers, possibly equalling the total cast by them at the last general election. Most candidates for office in Wayne county this year are giving particular attention the soliciting of the women for support, and some of them have been making a house to house canvass, personally, presenting cards and requesting consideration. "And let me tell you one thing," said a candidate the other day, "most women are not at all backward to tell a candidate just what they think. If they don't think you will do, they simply say so, their frankness being refreshing, even though they tell you bluntly they can not support you. Most men a candidate approaches either say they are for you (possibly not meaning it) or they are non-committal. But I have found women very frank and truthful. If they have not decided how they will vote, they say so; and if they have determined that the candidate they expect to vote for is not the one making the solicitation, they also tell it with vigor. Most candidates would rather have a voter say to them, 'I am pledged to your opponent' than to have the voter be non-committal."
