

ONCE RICH UKRAINE PORT TO HAVE HARD CLIMB TO NORMALCY

(By Associated Press)
ODESSA, April 13.—This once rich port on the Ukraine is struggling to regain some of its former prosperity but it looks like a long, hard road, for its 60 factories must first be rebuilt and financed by foreign capital. Just now there is not a cent to be had.

How difficult will be Odessa's climb back to business may be gathered from the fact that, of 80,000 workmen employed about her port and in her industries before the big war, but 10,000 now have any sort of work. All are soviet employees.

The chief production of the 12 factories in operation is in leather, agricultural machinery, grain bags, nails, cloth, varnish, shoes, glass and very poor matches.

The cost of production is constantly varying with the exchange, the price of food and labor and at the present time no fair comparisons could be made with imported goods.

Labor Cost Small

The cost of labor so far has been negligible, due to the forced nationalization of factories and mobilization of the workmen, but it is steadily increasing as the men are free to find work. Those employed on piece work earn daily about 300,000 rubles, or 60 cents, whereas the regular wage scale is 100,000 rubles, or 20 cents. But these figures are unreliable, as workers often get permission to do outside work, receive a little food in addition or else their thefts of goods are winked at.

It requires a minimum of 200,000 rubles daily, or about 35 cents, to feed one person. Rent is free. A pair of shoes costs $10 to $15; a poor suit of clothes twice as much.

VIGOROUS

(Continued from Page One.)

were they taken up? I don't know.

"Judge Robinson said that Senator New's record on woman's suffrage was negligible. He (Robinson) has a mental cholera morbus. Robinson said New might have voted for woman's suffrage but his heart was not in it; he did not mean it. Does the study of the Bible confer on finite men the power of infinity that they may divine what is going on the men's minds? What sort of legerdemain is this?"

Mr. Bookwalter then recounted how he was in Washington on the day Senator New voted for the woman's suffrage bill.

Democratic inefficiency at Washington was pointed out, especially of the airplane program.

New Friend of Vets

"The report of Senator New on the failure of the delivery of planes overseas caused a sensation in the country," he said. "Senator New demanded an investigation which was instituted."

Mr. Bookwalter said Senator New took an active interest in seeing that service men received just treatment and compensation.

"I have five hundred letters from former service men saying what Senator New did for them. Then this man, Judge Robinson, who goes through the state with Mr. Beveridge, who is so exalted that he discusses nothing but David and Saul, tries to denounce Senator New. He says Mr. Beveridge bought bonds and made speeches. Sure he bought bonds. If you analyze this stuff it disgusts you."

"Let's talk war records for a while. He made the first liberty loan speech in 1917. Michael E. Foley told me himself that Beveridge refused to speak in the third liberty loan drive. In the fourth, when victory was assured, he came into Indiana and spoke at five places and then said, 'I am done,' and would speak no more."

New is 65 years old.

"Judge Robinson is concerned to know why the dashing young stripling New, did not carry a musket while the old and tottering Beveridge was exempted by age. Beveridge is 60 years old and New is 65."

"They want to discuss records. If they do, come on; but put a muzzle on old Judge Robinson unless you want records to run loose and run wild."

"When Beveridge was in Richmond, he said, 'If he were elected, he pledged himself to follow the advice and counsel of the president in the future as in the past. I challenge his loyalty to the party. After he and I had made a speech in Knoxville he pointed his finger at me in wrath and said, 'What do you mean by mentioning Taft's name on the same platform with me?' I said to him, 'Great Caesar, what you mean, not to mention Taft's name? I'll use it, for he is our president.'"

"Beveridge is setting up straw men all over the state. He says they dragged him into the race. No, he latched to get into it. He said to Mr. Jettett, 'The people will be en masse and demand that I be sent to the senate. These problems require a master mind.'"

"When Beveridge spoke here he was as dry as the Sahara desert, and at the same time his manager and Lew Shank were saturated in Gary. Pay your money and take your choice."

"I have read the Bible, even if certain men believe they have a monopoly on it. He pictures David as himself and New as Saul, the analogy being that just as Jehovah had raised David to rescue his people, so he was called to save us. He implies that Saul was not so good, but you will remember that David ran off with another man's wife."

Campaign Expenses
"Here's another strawman Mr. Beveridge has set up. 'Virtuous indeed am I,' says Mr. Beveridge in reference to campaign expenses. 'I am not going to spend any money,' he says. He wants you to believe that he is running a campaign de luxe and he is conducting a Coxey's army campaign. The Post in Chicago burns incense daily at his altar; the Terre Haute Star is effusive with praise; down in Louisville is another paper circulating in southern Indiana which throws paroxysms and spasms every morning in his honor; in Muncie and Indianapolis are Stars loaded with free publicity for Beveridge. And then, Mr. Beveridge says, 'let's be good boys and spend no money for publicity; we'll all the time, seven days in the week this pabulum is spread. Senator New has no string of newspapers to support him. He has no money to spend lavishly. I am paying my own expenses. I am doing it as an offering to the individuals who formed a part of the American army.'"

"Beveridge said to the Progressives of Wayne county, because we dared vote other than the straight ticket we are being given thumbs down by the regulars! He told them they were being persecuted. I tell you that I never heard a friend of New mention the fact that there was a family spat in 1912. We had one spat but under the leadership of one American, who did not sulk in a tent or bury himself in the Maine woods or in a villa; we were re-united."

Tribute to Roosevelt
Mr. Bookwalter paid a tribute to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt.

"Harry New does not possess the gift of oratory which permits him to reach into the heavens, pick out the stars from their places, dust them off, and replace them. If we need oratory in the senate we have James F. Watson. We do want a man whose ears are attuned to the call of his constituents, who will be there when you service boys ask for help. We do not need a man who is seeking to strut for a few minutes in the eyes of the public."

In his address which preceded that of Judge Bookwalter, Mr. Reller said: "I believe that it can be truthfully said that the people of Wayne county will vote correctly on any political issue if they are possessed of all the facts. It is for this purpose that tonight's meeting is being held. By this meeting tonight the committee in charge of Senator New's campaign in this county hope to present the reasons why Senator New should be returned to the senate, and why ex-Senator Beveridge should not be."

"For my part I have yet to hear any reason advanced either by Mr. Beveridge or by his friends, which is sufficient to warrant a change being made in our representative in the upper house of congress."

Attacks War Record
"To me the most forceful reason why Mr. Beveridge is absolutely unworthy of consideration at this time is his attitude during the World war. Beveridge's refusal to participate in war activities was made known to Wayne county people in a most decisive way."

"Fourth of July, 1918, was designated by the National Council of Defense as Americanization day, and it was requested that each community throughout the United States observe the occasion with appropriate exercises. The purpose of such celebrations was to bring together all nationalities in the United States and to show them that we were all Americans engaged in a common cause against a common foe."

"When the Wayne county council of defense received its official order for such a celebration, a committee was at once appointed, and by virtue of my position as chairman of the Wayne county council of defense I was made chairman of the executive committee in charge of the celebration. At the first meeting of the committee it was decided to ask Mr. Beveridge to come here as speaker of the occasion, and I was instructed to go to Indianapolis and endeavor to secure his presence."

Refused to Come Here
"I did as requested and met Mr. Beveridge in the lobby at the Severin hotel. I introduced myself, although I had campaigned with Mr. Beveridge during the Progressive campaign, and told him the character of the celebration we were arranging for the Fourth in Wayne county. I said to him, 'Senator, you are the unanimous choice of the committee for the principal speaker of the occasion. May we expect you?' He answered quickly and vigorously, 'I should say not,' turned on his heel and left me standing in the lobby of the hotel."

"Now it may mean nothing that Mr. Beveridge, on that occasion in 1918, treated me discourteously, humiliated and insulted me, but it is of great significance that on such occasion he refused to lend his presence and his oratory to a program arranged at the request of our government and designed to help in winning the war."

"When I asked Mr. Beveridge to come to Richmond on that occasion I was speaking on behalf of the war interest in Wayne county, and at that very minute thousands of America's best sons were offering their lives on the bloody fields of France. Without justification or excuse, Mr. Beveridge refused to participate in these patriotic exercises."

RADIO PROGRAM

RICHMOND PALLADIUM—
Friday, April 14.
Chorale Choir (Gennett).
Finances Metronome orch.
Moon River (Gennett).
Specialty orchestra
U. S. weather forecast.
Honolulu Eyes (Brunswick).
Hart and Harrison
After Dinner Stories.
Italian Airs Medley (Brunswick).
Radio Service Current Events.
Nobody's Rose (Edison).
George Ballard
Today's Talk.
The Misanthropic Kissin
(Edison). Vernon Dalhart

Thursday, April 13
INDIANAPOLIS WLK—
5:00 p. m., baseball results.
5:30 p. m., "Stilles Razadours," dance music.
CHICAGO—
6:30 p. m., news, financial market and financial report.
7:30 p. m., children's bedtime story.
8:00 p. m., musical program.
8:30 p. m., news and reports.
SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) eastern time—
7:00 p. m., market quotations and weather reports.
7:15 p. m., musical program.
PITTSBURGH—
8:00 p. m., "Trust Companies a Land, trust officer."
8:30 p. m., Calman Male quartet.
9:05 p. m., Arbitration time signals.
NEWARK (N. J.) eastern time—
10:01 p. m., weather reports.
7:00 p. m., "Jack Rabbit Stories," by David Corey.
7:30 p. m., talk on loan affairs, by Marie Sellers, Pictorial Review.
8:00 p. m., M. M. Lucia Miller, coloratura soprano.
9:15 p. m., recital by Mrs. Frederick N. Ritchie, of Orange, N. J.
9:45 p. m., recital by Jean Stockwell, violinist.
DETROIT (MICH.) eastern time—
5:00 p. m., news bulletin on sports and other events until about 6 p. m.
7:00 p. m., musical program.

ridge, or his friends, which is sufficient to warrant a change being made in our representative in the upper house of congress.

Attacks War Record
"To me the most forceful reason why Mr. Beveridge is absolutely unworthy of consideration at this time is his attitude during the World war. Beveridge's refusal to participate in war activities was made known to Wayne county people in a most decisive way."

"Fourth of July, 1918, was designated by the National Council of Defense as Americanization day, and it was requested that each community throughout the United States observe the occasion with appropriate exercises. The purpose of such celebrations was to bring together all nationalities in the United States and to show them that we were all Americans engaged in a common cause against a common foe."

"When the Wayne county council of defense received its official order for such a celebration, a committee was at once appointed, and by virtue of my position as chairman of the Wayne county council of defense I was made chairman of the executive committee in charge of the celebration. At the first meeting of the committee it was decided to ask Mr. Beveridge to come here as speaker of the occasion, and I was instructed to go to Indianapolis and endeavor to secure his presence."

Refused to Come Here
"I did as requested and met Mr. Beveridge in the lobby at the Severin hotel. I introduced myself, although I had campaigned with Mr. Beveridge during the Progressive campaign, and told him the character of the celebration we were arranging for the Fourth in Wayne county. I said to him, 'Senator, you are the unanimous choice of the committee for the principal speaker of the occasion. May we expect you?' He answered quickly and vigorously, 'I should say not,' turned on his heel and left me standing in the lobby of the hotel."

"Now it may mean nothing that Mr. Beveridge, on that occasion in 1918, treated me discourteously, humiliated and insulted me, but it is of great significance that on such occasion he refused to lend his presence and his oratory to a program arranged at the request of our government and designed to help in winning the war."

"When I asked Mr. Beveridge to come to Richmond on that occasion I was speaking on behalf of the war interest in Wayne county, and at that very minute thousands of America's best sons were offering their lives on the bloody fields of France. Without justification or excuse, Mr. Beveridge refused to participate in these patriotic exercises."

"You are entitled to frame your own opinion as to why Beveridge did not come to Richmond on that occasion. I have one and it is a most damaging one."

"In making up your opinion, it would be well for you to remember that in August, 1915, after the war had been on for a year, Belgium's neutrality had been violated, her women and children outraged, that splendid library at Louvain destroyed, and the Lusitania sunk. Beveridge published his notorious book, 'What Is Back of the War.' In that book he devoted considerable space to his friend, the kaiser, whom he had interviewed after the war broke out. In this book Beveridge gives his observations and impressions of the German war lord."

"He calls him a gentleman and a great man, a kindhearted Christian, and says that to see and know the kaiser is to appreciate that much that has been said of him as uttered through ignorance or malice. Von Hindenburg himself could not have put it stronger."

"This book was so obnoxious that it was burned in many places."

"You are entitled to frame your own opinion as to why Beveridge did not come to Richmond on that occasion. I have one and it is a most damaging one."

"In making up your opinion, it would be well for you to remember that in August, 1915, after the war had been on for a year, Belgium's neutrality had been violated, her women and children outraged, that splendid library at Louvain destroyed, and the Lusitania sunk. Beveridge published his notorious book, 'What Is Back of the War.' In that book he devoted considerable space to his friend, the kaiser, whom he had interviewed after the war broke out. In this book Beveridge gives his observations and impressions of the German war lord."

"He calls him a gentleman and a great man, a kindhearted Christian, and says that to see and know the kaiser is to appreciate that much that has been said of him as uttered through ignorance or malice. Von Hindenburg himself could not have put it stronger."

"This book was so obnoxious that it was burned in many places."

"You are entitled to frame your own opinion as to why Beveridge did not come to Richmond on that occasion. I have one and it is a most damaging one."

"In making up your opinion, it would be well for you to remember that in August, 1915, after the war had been on for a year, Belgium's neutrality had been violated, her women and children outraged, that splendid library at Louvain destroyed, and the Lusitania sunk. Beveridge published his notorious book, 'What Is Back of the War.' In that book he devoted considerable space to his friend, the kaiser, whom he had interviewed after the war broke out. In this book Beveridge gives his observations and impressions of the German war lord."

"He calls him a gentleman and a great man, a kindhearted Christian, and says that to see and know the kaiser is to appreciate that much that has been said of him as uttered through ignorance or malice. Von Hindenburg himself could not have put it stronger."

"This book was so obnoxious that it was burned in many places."

"You are entitled to frame your own opinion as to why Beveridge did not come to Richmond on that occasion. I have one and it is a most damaging one."

"In making up your opinion, it would be well for you to remember that in August, 1915, after the war had been on for a year, Belgium's neutrality had been violated, her women and children outraged, that splendid library at Louvain destroyed, and the Lusitania sunk. Beveridge published his notorious book, 'What Is Back of the War.' In that book he devoted considerable space to his friend, the kaiser, whom he had interviewed after the war broke out. In this book Beveridge gives his observations and impressions of the German war lord."

"He calls him a gentleman and a great man, a kindhearted Christian, and says that to see and know the kaiser is to appreciate that much that has been said of him as uttered through ignorance or malice. Von Hindenburg himself could not have put it stronger."

"This book was so obnoxious that it was burned in many places."

"You are entitled to frame your own opinion as to why Beveridge did not come to Richmond on that occasion. I have one and it is a most damaging one."

"In making up your opinion, it would be well for you to remember that in August, 1915, after the war had been on for a year, Belgium's neutrality had been violated, her women and children outraged, that splendid library at Louvain destroyed, and the Lusitania sunk. Beveridge published his notorious book, 'What Is Back of the War.' In that book he devoted considerable space to his friend, the kaiser, whom he had interviewed after the war broke out. In this book Beveridge gives his observations and impressions of the German war lord."

"He calls him a gentleman and a great man, a kindhearted Christian, and says that to see and know the kaiser is to appreciate that much that has been said of him as uttered through ignorance or malice. Von Hindenburg himself could not have put it stronger."

"This book was so obnoxious that it was burned in many places."

"You are entitled to frame your own opinion as to why Beveridge did not come to Richmond on that occasion. I have one and it is a most damaging one."

was listed as German propaganda and barred from the public libraries of this country. Even Chicago, with its pro-German mayor, could not stand for the book, and as one ex-service man said, threw it into the lake. I have a letter here which shows that Beveridge's book was barred from the Chicago public library."

Urges Interview Read.
"No voter, particularly an ex-service man or a war mother ought to go to the polls at the coming primary, without reading the glowing tribute which Beveridge pays the kaiser, and paid at a time when the world was horrified at the German atrocities, when America was being aroused to war by that most patriotic of all Americans, Theodore Roosevelt."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

many, and when that is to be voted on, I want Indiana to be represented by one who always has been an American.

Praises New
"I would far rather have that vote cast by a man who don't talk so long and so loud about his patriotism out of season, but who when the Spanish-American war was on, shouldered his gun and came out of that struggle a captain, who when the World war was on served night and day on the military committee of the United States senate, and who risked his own life in making airplane tests for the purpose of developing that important service, and who now and always has been a quiet unassuming and courteous gentleman, and whose faithful service in the senate has so endeared him to the president of the United States, that he is known in Washington as President Harding's personal friend and comrade. As representing patriotic Indiana in any relations that may come up in the near future with Germany, let's take no chances. Let's have Harry S. New."

"But I am intruding on the time of the speaker of the evening. It is unfortunate that the press of official duties keeps Senator New in Washington, but in his absence we are peculiarly favored. It seems to be quite significant that the best mayor Indianapolis ever had is supporting Senator New and the Indiana vaudeville mayor is supporting Mr. Beveridge. Our speaker needs no introduction to a Richmond audience. We remember particularly how he brought us to our feet with his wonderful Liberti loan address at the Coliseum when the war was at its height. He's a man with convictions and with the courage and power to express them. It's a distinct pleasure to present as speaker of the occasion, Mr. Charles Bookwalter."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be called upon to negotiate another treaty or trade agreement with Germany."

"Beveridge was too friendly to Germany, its kaiser and its form of government to suit me. He liked Berlin so well that he selected that city as his wedding place on the occasion of his second marriage."

"What a candidate for senator thinks of Germany or any foreign country has a most determining influence on his fitness to sit in the United States senate. The senate must ratify all treaties with foreign countries. No telling when we may be