

APPROVE WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP ASS'N FOR CO-OP FARM SHIPPING

(Special to The Palladium.)

MILTON, Ind., May 4.—Co-operative shipment of Washington township livestock was approved at a meeting of the Washington farmers' association Wednesday night, and a committee of three appointed to confer with the Jackson township shipping committee to make arrangements for handling the stock.

This action followed a rousing talk by W. H. Settle, director of the fourth farm bureau district and organizer of the Indianapolis co-operative livestock commission firm. Mr. Settle explained the operation and the plans of the firm and predicted steadier marketing with elimination of wastes and shipments.

After Mr. Settle's talk, which finished with a suggestion that Washington township farmers organize to ship their stock, E. C. Caldwell spoke in favor of a shipping association and Louis Kleiber suggested that Washington combine with Jackson township in the work. It was decided upon motion of Wallace Ward that a committee meet with the Jackson committee, and the following members were appointed: E. C. Caldwell, chairman, Wallace Ward, Alfred Sample and Louis Kleiber.

Stock Buyers Gone
"The stock buyer is a thing of the past in northern Indiana and in Michigan," said Mr. Settle, in the talk which preceded organization arrangements. The speaker predicted a better and more economical method of all marketing of farm products, stating that old methods of farm marketing will soon be superseded by co-operative marketing as the buggy has given place to the auto.

"American farmers would soon be on the level of the European peasant if they did not change their methods for more profitable ones soon," said the speaker. "We are not making enough money now to maintain our businesses without deterioration and keep up our roads, schools and churches. Other countries have been on this same path and where agriculture was not profitable, they have failed to keep their position as nations. And if we fail in organization now we will not have another opportunity for years."

A strong endorsement was given the farm bureau during his explanation of the commodity marketing organizations of the farmers.

Will Limit Benefits.
Without the farm bureau the commodity organization for sale of stock, grain, produce or other farm products commodities would fail, he stated. Each can do certain work, but larger tasks remain which can be accomplished only by the parent organization. Present plans when put into effect, will limit the benefits of commodity organizations to farm bureau members.

No fee is paid for membership in the Wells county farm bureau, said Mr. Settle, stating that shippers through the co-operative association are automatically made members and all finances of the bureau have been raised in that manner. With profits of the shipping association, and other activities in the county savings that amounted to $100,000 last year were recorded. The sum of $5,000 was saved on co-operative wool blanket purchase.

Mr. Settle advised the county unit of shipping association as the cheaper and most efficient as proven by 18 Indiana and 52 Ohio counties. The Indianapolis firm will be ready to handle stock next week, and all members of the Wayne county farm bureau who ship to it, whether through a co-operative association or not, will receive full patronage dividend at the end of the year.

Find Low Percentage of Phone Complaints

The service test conducted by the Home Telephone company for the first quarter of 1922 shows that the percent of complaints to the number of phones is only .039. So far as is known the local telephone company is the only company in the United States that makes a complete canvass of its patrons, asking if they have any complaints. William Bailey, manager of the local company, has discussed the system with representatives of many other phone companies at conventions and none of them had ever heard of the system being used elsewhere. "You are inviting trouble," they told Mr. Bailey, when he told them of the system.

The operator uses the following form in making the test: "This is the telephone inspector. How is your telephone working?" All complaints are followed up until an O. K. is obtained from the subscriber. No complaints were found in the Boston exchange in the last quarter. On the farm lines the percent of complaints was only .044.

Everyday Ad-Ventures

When you've been trying to decide for a month or more which one of the automobiles you have been telling your stories has the best claim to that "roll" you're planning to invest in a car—
And you hear what a wonderful motor this make has and what a fine economy record the other one lives up to and according to the claims, every one is the very best bet on the market—
And they all sound mighty well, except for the fact that they're just a little higher than you want to go and you're in that undecided state of mind that's so hard to shake off—when you suddenly come upon the "Automobiles For Sale" ads in the Palladium's Classified Section—and you say—
"Well—I Never Thought Of That!"
And from then on all the difficulties about making up your mind vanish completely, because it's clear to you that one of the good used cars described in those little ads is THE buy for you—
And when you investigate the offers that sound the best, you find that you can get the kind of car you want—practically as good as new—at a great big saving under the price you expected to pay.

Oats Planting Season Is Practically Over

It is Too Late to Plant Oats Now With Any Assurance of a Crop

Plant Sudan Grass on your oat acreage. Because: The cost of seedling is low, only 15 to 25 lbs. per acre. It is adapted to any soil and most climates. It stands more hot, dry weather than any other crop. It can be planted very late and make a splendid catch crop. Makes a sure summer pasture within 30 days. It makes its best growth in hot summer weather when other pastures fail. It can be cut as often as four times in a season. It yields a heavy, leafy, fine-stemmed hay crop easily cured. It is relished by all live stock and has a high feeding analysis. Because of its many advantages, it is the most valuable hay and summer pasture crop.

Answering Customers' Poultry Questions

The poultry keeper often feels, when his fowls and chicks are sick, that the feed may be to blame, and we have noticed that the feed is generally the first under suspicion when diagnosing the trouble. Therefore, it is a protection to us to see to it that these poultry keepers are put right when they get into trouble. The question asked the most these days are, "What causes leg weakness in young chicks?"
Leg Weakness, Lack of Exercise.
The symptoms of this ailment are unsteadiness on the legs, making standing difficult and often losing entire control of the legs. The cause of this ailment is lack of exercise. When the chicks have growing mash before them at all times and in conjunction are given the regular chick grains and not enough litter on the floor to induce exercise they are enabled to overeat, and such troubles as acute indigestion, cramps, sudden death and leg weakness soon result.
Be sure to use plenty of litter and you will not know what leg weakness is. When the chicks are not properly exercised, no matter what feed we give them, they will surely develop leg weakness.

SPRING FEEDING

Farmers in general are complaining about their pig losses this spring. They do not seem to have too few pigs born but the sows do not save them. Pigs die from a number of different causes. We wonder if a great many of these losses are not due to the feed the brood sows have been getting during the winter.
Last fall we had a fair corn crop and it was so much cheaper than usual that there appeared to be a wide margin between its price and the prices of concentrated commercial feeds, tankage, middlings and oil meal. Coupled with this difference was the financial state of the landowner. The farmer did not have the money to invest. It is quite possible that we are now paying the penalty for too strong a corn diet.

Eggs Properly Pickled Will Keep for a Year

April and May, when eggs are cheapest, are the months to put down a supply in water-glass for next winter. A five-gallon stone jar, containing something less than three gallons of the solution—a quart of water-glass and nine quarts of water that has been boiled and cooled—is recommended for this purpose. By some demonstration workers of the Ohio State university.
This much solution in such a jar will cover and preserve 15 dozen eggs, if the jar is kept covered and in a cool place. Only fresh clean eggs, preferably, later, if ones, should be preserved. Dirty eggs become tainted; neither will washed eggs keep. But good fresh eggs with clean shells will stay fresh and clean a year or more.

GIVE HENS PURE WATER

One dozen eggs contains about one pint of water. Clean, fresh, pure water should be kept constantly before the hens and should be renewed at least once daily.

Don't feed chicks until they're 48 to 72 hours old.
