

PROMOTE CAMPAIGN PROTECTING MUSIC, MUSICIANS OF U. S.

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, June 1.—The recipient of three European decorations which were bestowed in recognition of war service to European countries, and the first American shareholder in the British National Opera Company, Ltd., Mrs. Archibald (Eleanor Everest) Freer of Chicago is leading a campaign to protect American music and musicians from what she regards as ominous European competition. The campaign is being waged, she explains, "with the intention of excluding nothing good, but including the musical art of this country."

Active during the World war in work for the national defense, Mrs. Freer now asserts that the "greatest legacy we can leave—next to the country—the music of our land still must be saved."

Declaring that "it has been definitely proven that no country has greater or better art than our own," she contends that American musicians and composers, like opera in their mother tongue, are denied a chance in their own country by a discrimination for things foreign that threatens to make the United States "a nation of art-borrowers" while every other country where opera is heard hears opera in its vernacular.

Do you know your own personal chairman of two affiliated organizations, the Opera in Our Language Foundation and the David Bispham Memorial Fund. The former organization has launched a million dollar campaign to establish "an American opera house where native talent can be heard." This, Mrs. Freer maintains, "is the only hope of the American composer, librettist, singer, stage manager and orchestra player, if this most popular form of music—opera—is to become national."

DEPLORES ASKING PITY FOR PASTORS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 1.—Asking pity for "the poor old preacher" is a "rank injustice and only succeeds in getting his position that much more despised," Rev. Dr. F. E. Smith of Indianapolis, representing the Disciples of Christ, told the annual conference of interdenominational secretaries of ministerial relief of protestant churches here today.

"Time must be taken to educate the church as to the justice and strategy of the care of her workers," he asserted in discussing ministerial pensions. "The business world has long ago accepted the soundness of such provision. It is an awkward circumstance that the church whose workers have largely brought about such benefits for the workers in business should last of all confer these benefits upon her own."

"The preachers must learn to speak not for themselves as they speak, but for their comrades in service whose work is done. The preacher while protecting himself in his modesty, from foolish criticism, denies the only voice that can be raised on behalf of godly men and women who have spent their all in the ministry."

Poultry Expert Meets

Preble County Fanciers

EATON, Ohio, June 1.—Poultry producers of Preble county met for an all-day session at the county agent's office in Eaton Wednesday. E. L. Dakan, poultry expert and extension specialist from Ohio State university, was present to confer with the local poultrymen.

Record work, which is being conducted with 16 flocks in various parts of the county was explained by Mr. Dakan, who also spoke briefly on poultry and egg production.

Trained Men For Hire

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, June 1.—A new kind of employment agency is being opened by the government. Most offices of that sort start out in business with a list of alluring positions and invite jobless men to apply for them. The government is beginning at the other end. It has a group of well-trained men on its hands, and its employment agency will try to fit them into the jobs which are not doubt available about the country, but which are now singularly elusive.

The new agency is the Veterans' Bureau and its efforts are to be put forth in behalf of the disabled war veterans who are being rehabilitated under the direction of the bureau. Although it has been more than three years since the war ended, the peak of rehabilitation has not been reached, largely because so many of the veterans have been taking three and four year courses. This June several thousand will be graduated from universities and technical schools, and will be back in the competitive struggle of finding employment. Next June there will be a still greater number of men released from the government supervision.

To date 16,485 men have completed their training and are employed. More than 100,000 are in training now, and ultimately 318,000 will have been rehabilitated. Many of the disabled men have not begun training. They are not yet physically able, their cases are pending, or for some reason training has been deferred.

The new agency, which calls itself by the mouth-filling title of the Training-Employment Section of the Rehabilitation Division of the Veterans' Bureau, has just begun its task. It has men of practically every vocation on its hands, from dentists and farmers to stenographers and shoe-makers. To avoid misunderstanding, it announces at the outset that it will not be able to help any persons to find positions except the disabled war veterans who have been under government training. That is in itself a large undertaking.

The employment section has begun to establish contacts with organizations that are in touch with all angles of the job market. The Civil Service Commission is reporting to the bureau on available positions in the government departments. Already the Department of Agriculture has arranged to employ one young veteran who made a remarkable record at an agricultural college. This boy won prizes for cattle judging, he heads his class in his studies, and he is regarded as an expert in cotton breeding.

Contacts are being made with inurance companies, trade journals, the American Federation of Labor, professional societies and big corporations, such as the U. S. Shipping Board, Standard Oil, Westinghouse Electric, and the United States Steel corporation.

Where Men Are Needed.

Employment experts of the Veterans' Bureau are making a study of the professions and trades to determine which are crowded. A partial survey indicates that training has been provided in the past in some vocations which are badly over-crowded, while other lines in which trained personnel is needed, have been overlooked. In future the bureau will consider supply and demand in starting its disabled men on new work.

A number of doctors are on the list of rehabilitated men, and these, at least, should have no difficulty in establishing connections, since small towns all over the country are calling for doctors.

Considering the need for farmers it also is encouraging to learn that 15,000 veterans are studying some phase of agriculture. Some of them already have secured positions which they will enter on graduation. A number are going to teach agricultural subjects in high schools and colleges. One man is going to South America as a salesman of agricultural implements. The students of farming are being urged to buy land and start in business for themselves, and many are planning to do so.

The men who have been studying trades are placed in union shops for practical experience. When they are able to do a full day's work they are considered rehabilitated and given positions.

A man learning a trade or business is rehabilitated when he has a position, and the government's responsibility toward him ends. It is more difficult to say when an artist is rehabilitated. Is he a full-fledged artist when he paints his first promising picture, or when he makes his first

FANS, MEET KAMM, $100,000 INFILDER WHITE SOX NABBED

Willie Kamm.

Willie Kamm, dashing third baseman of the San Francisco club, who drew most of the spotlight away from the $75,000 Jimmy O'Connell, has been bought by the "White Sox" for the neat little wad of $1,000. Kamm gets a slice of that and a salary of $10,000 a year. His earnestness and agreeable personality helped bring him success, his teammates say.

reau, while the other students averaged 79 per cent.

At the Carnegie Institute of Technology this spring 17 out of the 29 war veterans in the graduation class are honor men. Similar records are being made by the government students in other schools.

This is attributed partly to the fact that the veterans average 26 years in age. They are more mature, therefore, than the ordinary run of college students. Then, too, they appreciate the advantage of training. They keep at their studies with the single aim of getting back into the world's work. The government is confident that its proteges can make good.

Right Men for the Jobs.
The bureau is trying to impress on the public the fact that it need not hesitate to employ the rehabilitated men. The government is not sending out any one-legged park gardeners. A man who was so badly disabled about the face that he is at a disadvantage in meeting people is not trained to be a traveling salesman. On the other hand, the loss of a leg does not affect the work of a draftsman and a disfigured face is not a handicap to a stock breeder.

The disabilities of the men are of all kinds and degrees, from the loss of members or faculties to chronic bronchitis and asthma, and special attention has been given to finding suitable and congenial vocations.

The employment section is distinctly proud of the fact that so many of the bureau's trainees have a greater earning capacity now than they had in their pre-war occupations. A typical case is that of a man who had been a landscape gardener on a large estate. He lost one arm and is now an auditor in the government service at $1,200 more a year than he was earning before the war.

The Veterans' Bureau says it is starting its employment service with men of fine caliber. A report has just come from the University of Florida, stating that the average of scholarship in its law department is 85.5 per cent for the trainees of the Veterans Bu-

made by the government students in other schools.
This is attributed partly to the fact that the veterans average 26 years in age. They are more mature, therefore, than the ordinary run of college students. Then, too, they appreciate the advantage of training. They keep at their studies with the single aim of getting back into the world's work. The government is confident that its proteges can make good.

FINED AT GREENVILLE ON LIQUOR CHARGE

GREENVILLE, Ohio, June 1.—Myron Earhart pleaded guilty to furnishing liquor to Leroy Pinrock, Donald Weaver and Vernon Magato of Versailles, and Ray Crow, of Webster, about two weeks ago, and was fined $300 and costs, in police court Monday.

Two hundred dollars of the fine was remitted, Earhart paid $50 on the fine and costs and is to pay $10 per month until the remainder of the fine, not remitted, is paid.

RAIL CONVENTIONS COSTS $52 MINUTE

(By Associated Press.)
HOUSTON, Texas, June 1.—The convention of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen costs the organization $52.06 a minute during convention sessions, according to figures compiled by John F. McNamee, editor of the brotherhood magazine.

The brotherhood has 904 lodges, he said, each of which is entitled to one delegate at conventions. The delegates receive a salary of $8 a day and are allowed $6 a day for expenses, or a total of $14 a day. A bit of multiplication shows the brotherhood pays out for each working day of six hours $18,700, or $3,126 an hour.

The 1919 convention of the brotherhood held in Denver cost the brotherhood slightly more than $600,000. It was in session 32 working days. Printing bills at the Denver convention totaled $20,000.

Six hundred and fifty thousand checks, representing $42,000,000 are mailed every month by the veterans' bureau at Washington.

HIS FRIEND RECOMMENDED THEM
Six years ago, writes W. H. Sadwell, Stanley, Va., "I had kidney trouble, and at times was unable to raise myself in bed. Foley Kidney Pills were recommended to me by the Chief of the Fire Department. After using 3 bottles I was completely relieved and have never had a return of the symptoms. Why suffer when you can get relief from rheumatic pains, backache, swollen, sore and stiff joints, sleep disturbing bladder weakness and other symptoms of disordered kidneys? A. G.
