(By Associated Press)
MARION, Ohio, June 28.—President Harding, General John J. Pershing, Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American legion, and other nationally and internationally known figures are expected here early in July to attend the celebration of the centennial of Marion's birth. July 2, 3, 4 and 5 have been fixed as the dates for the observance, but to date no definite program of speech-making has been arranged.

Sunday morning, July 2, will be given over entirely to religious exercises in the churches and in the afternoon there will be a union church service in the chalet pavilion, where nearly two years ago President Harding was officially notified of his nomination by the Republican convention.

Monday afternoon there will be a musical program and in the evening the chief musical event of the centennial celebration will be staged. At that time former Marion musicians who have become nationally-known artists will appear.

Tuesday morning there will be a program for the children, including a children's horse show. In the afternoon the local American Legion post will stage an Independence day celebration and in the evening there will be a program of fireworks.

Wednesday is planned as the big day of the celebration, to begin with a mammoth parade in which all periods of the city's growth will be shown. The part of the American Legion in the program will be taken by representatives from most of the 550 posts in the state. In the afternoon it is planned to have a speaking program in the downtown section and at the fair-ground the legion will have a barbecue. On that day the legion is to have a state convention.

The final event of the program will be a pageant at the fair-ground on Wednesday evening. The pageant has been written by Miss Eleanor M. Freedland, formerly of Marion, but now of Pittsburg. It will depict Marion's history.
