

POPE'S LIFE MARKED BY INCESSANT WORK; PLAYS FOR 2 HOURS

ROME, July 7.—The daily life of Pope Pius XI at the Vatican is marked by simplicity, incessant work and regular exercise. He labors from 15 to 16 hours a day, sleeps from six to seven, and plays two hours. His play consists of a vigorous military march seven or eight times around the Vatican gardens, making five or six miles, and this he does, rain or shine.

His Holiness takes personal charge of the direction of the affairs of the church, assigning the routine to his secretaries. The diplomatic letters which attracted so much attention during the Genoa conference were the personal work of the Holy Father.

He reads and delves into the rich collection of Vatican books assiduously.

The pope arises at 6:30 o'clock every morning and says mass in his private chapel before breakfast, which is at 8 o'clock. This meal consists of coffee, with milk, bread and butter.

At 9 o'clock, Cardinal Gasparri, secretary of state, is received in the papal chamber every day except Tuesday and Friday. An Tuesday Monsignor Borgognini-Duca, the pro-secretary for extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs is received and on Friday Monsignor Pizzardi, the substitute secretary of state. One hour is assigned to each for the discussion of affairs.

At 10 o'clock the pope commences his private audiences, receiving cardinals, bishops, prelates, high civil dignitaries, diplomats and nobles. These conferences last until 1 o'clock when the public audiences begin. At 2 p. m., the master of the papal household, Monsignor Caccia-Dominioni, is received and places before His Holiness the list of audiences for the succeeding day and asks for their approval.

Lunches at 2:30. The pope lunches usually at 2:30. While he eats alone there are several of his secretaries present to receive orders and discuss matters particular to their charge. The pontiff also has additional letters read to him and gives instructions for the replies.

A feature of the day which is never neglected is the walk. Promptly at 3:30 p. m. the pope enters his carriage and is driven to the gardens. Here he walks five or six miles briskly. Even on this tramp there is work. His Holiness will have at his side some prelate with whom he wants to confer. He will go into full details of the matter in hand while walking, and issue his instructions.

At half past five the pontiff returns to the papal apartments. Audiences begin again and he receives cardinals, archbishops and other prelates in private audience. These conferences are scheduled to end at 8:30 o'clock, but on occasions of importance they continue much later.

Supper is served as a rule at 9 o'clock. This too, is very simple, consisting of only one or two dishes. After supper Pius XI goes to work again.

Declares Every City Should Censor Dances

DALLAS, Tex., July 7.—Every city should have a dance censorship board of its own.

Dancing should be controlled by the individual cities rather than by the states.

This is the opinion of Mrs. John Priestly Hart, dancing instructor, in discussing the Duke dance bill, which will come up before the New York legislature for consideration next year.

This bill aims at the state regulation of dancing.

"Strict censorship is undoubtedly necessary, but, in my opinion, the control should be exerted by the municipality," Mrs. Hart said.

"A board should be created, consisting of the mayor, the moving picture censor, the dance hall censor, the president of the women's clubs, heads of the parent-teachers associations, superintendent of public schools and heads of private schools. Regulation should be left to them."

Travelers Notes

By Post C. Scribe

This is the time of year when it is most dangerous to visit the country. The Bull—rushes out the fence, And the Horse—flies.

We are very glad to report that Brother Harry Kates is much improved, and small wonder that he is getting better, for he is receiving the best of care. When the scribe called to see him a few days ago, he found five nurses in attendance, answering every request that Harry made; and by the way, they were all good looking, and any man who had met with an accident, would be lucky to have just one of these nurses wait on him, but when it comes to having five of them on call, almost any of us would be willing to prolong our inactivity.

Everything is right busy around town considering its vacation time, and Walter Bates says the fish are biting fine. Walter always does tell the best fish stories.

It was a very wise thing to do, when the committee on entertainment decided to hold the T. P. A. picnic, at the Fountain City park instead of at the Pyle farm, as was first intended. The park is a beautiful place, with stately trees, beautiful walks, and splendid drinking water together with tables and chairs to make a crowd comfortable. The picnic was a decided success, there being some 65 persons in attendance, and every one there had a good time. The egg eating contest was won by Elmer Lebo, who has held the championship now for several years, against all comers. John Higley was one of the contestants but after Elmer had disposed of the eleven egg Mr. Higley says, Elmer that's too "high" for me, but Lebo, not content with what he had already done, disposed of one more, making it an even dozen. Some "Hard Boiled" we will say. The entertainment committee received the thanks of those participating, and all voted the picnic a grand success, with the hope that we will hold another one at the same place in the very near future.

This is vacation week for the majority of the "Knights of the Grip," and some of the Post C boys are off on fishing trips, and we may soon expect to hear some of the "Hot Air," about how the biggest one escaped by breaking the hook or upsetting the boat.

Our esteemed friend and fellow-member, Tom Tarkelson, met with quite a painful accident some few days ago, sprained his right shoulder, and he feels "rocky."

Latest word from Mr. and Mrs. Bob Heun, they were at the Bauff Springs hotel in the Canadian Rockies.

CHART BOOK USED BY COLUMBUS FOUND

By CARL D. GROAT (United Press Correspondent)

BERLIN, July 7.—The astronomical chart-book which helped Columbus discover America is now in the possession of Professor Doctor Archbold, head of the Trepow observatory here.

This book contains tables of the planets, of eclipses and other astronomical figures, without which Columbus never could have discovered America.

It is related that when his sailors became mutinous, he told them to wait until the next day when there would be an eclipse of the sun. He knew this from his tables, but for the crew this bit of information appeared like a miracle. Finding that his prediction came true, the sailors were quiet and remained faithful to him until they reached the promised land.

Archbold has been offered thousands of dollars for this book, but declines to part with it.

GYPSIES ARRESTED FOR STEALING MONEY

WINCHESTER, Ind., July 7.—A band of gypsies, claiming Brazil, Ind., as their home, came into Winchester Thursday en route to a gypsy convention at Dayton, Ohio. The tribe were traveling in six expensive automobiles. One of the women went to the office of the City Water and Light company and insisted in telling the fortune of one of the clerks. The clerk had $70 in her hand which the gypsy woman grabbed. The clerk succeeded in recovering $60, but the woman escaped with $10.

Another gypsy went to a filling station and succeeded in getting $3.50. The tribe left hurriedly for Union City with Sheriff Lunda M. Fisher in pursuit. At Union City they stopped and began working the town and while doing so the sheriff and his deputies arrested the women and returned them to Winchester.

The women returned the money they had taken and were fined $5 and costs each and given a jail sentence of 10 days. The jail sentence was suspended, but the fine was paid. The gypsies left late in the evening for Dayton.
