

PAGAN CEREMONIALS ARE HELD IN ITALY; RECALL OLD WORSHIP

By ALICE ROHE
(Written for The United Press)

GUBBIO, Italy, July 8.—Scenes reminiscent of the days of tree worship back in the very dawn of history have just been witnessed in this ancient Italian town.

Pagan ceremonies, connected with the Vigil of St. Ubaldo, which have been condemned by two popes and banned by Napoleon, were carried out with Bacchanalian fervor.

"The Elevation and Procession of the Candles" is the English name of the festival which at Gubbio, one of the five oldest towns in Italy, after with fervor.

At noon at the convent of Santa Lucia there is a feast going on which is attended by the Ceriali, or candle-bearers. All Gubbio is awaiting the proceedings here, for as soon as the white-blossomed, red-capped Ceriali finish eating they rush out into the courtyard where three huge wooden obelisk-like affairs are lying. These are the so-called Ceri, though many think the name comes from the Goddess of Fertility instead of from wax candles. Beside them are huge wooden shafts or frames. The outrush of Ceriali reveals them in their distinct groups, one bearing an image of St. Ubaldo, the patron saint of Gubbio, and representing the stone masons; another the image of St. George, representing the merchants, and a third, St. Anthony, carrying in his hand a ball of fire, representing the peasants.

The elevation of the Ceri, which are 12 feet in height, the placing of the images on the pinnacles, is the great competition. The winner is, of course, hailed with shouts of joy. As soon as the Ceri are raised, a jug of water is poured over each—the ancient tradition rite described in the Euginian tablets being recited in this act. When the libation has been poured out, the jug is thrown to the ground and broken.

Then through the narrow streets of Gubbio, each taking a different route, a mad rush begins. Already the Ceriali have been given plenty of wine, but now, looking down a medieval street, before a picture of a stone house, you may see the fluttering robes of St. Ubaldo swirling before an ancient house. Three times round goes the gyrations, which means that here is an offering of wine to the Ceriali.

For several hours the Ceri are placed at the head of the Via Dante and the Ceriali spend the hours in song and recreation. Then at 8 p.m. an interesting ceremonial takes place. The big bell in the Palace of the Councilors announces that the archbishop in procession, with a banner of St. Ubaldo, is leaving the cathedral to give his benediction to the Ceri.

When the religious procession reaches the Via Dante, the Ceri have been once more placed upon the shoulders of the Ceriali. As soon as the benediction is given, the Ceriali, preceded and surrounded by a huge crowd, rush from the Via Xante into the Corso.

At the end of the street a stop is made and wine is offered. Then the rush is made toward the Piazza Grande, where three turns are made before the mayor seated in a window of the Municipio. Once more the Ceri are taken on a wild run, this time toward the commanding Mt. Igurio. Reaching the monastery at the summit, the images are taken from the Ceri and the huge obelisks placed in their resting place till next year.

In the dusk the Ceriali descend the mountain to a town illuminated with myriad lights. They return singing songs of St. Ubaldo and carrying the images of the three saints back to the church of the stone masons. The festival is over until next year.

New Paris Pike Bonds Sold to Local Bank

Sale of bonds for the construction of the New Paris pike was announced following the meeting of the county commissioners in the courthouse Saturday. The $38,000 issue went to the Second National bank at a premium of $422.

Farm Chairman Will Discuss County Picnic

All township chairmen of the county farm bureau with county officials and two or three other representative farmers from each township have been notified of a general committee meeting in the county agent's office Saturday night, to discuss arrangements for the county picnic.

August 9 has been set as the date for the picnic which will be held in Glen Miller park. A speaker of national reputation will be secured. This is the first time that such an affair has been attempted in Wayne county, and officials believe that it will have an important result in cementing closer relations between members of the different communities and will encourage more enthusiastic co-operation in work for the benefit of the whole county.

ANY BOY IN COUNTY OR CITY IS ELIGIBLE FOR CAMP KI-RO

"Several people, when making inquiry concerning Camp Ki-Ro, the boys' camp near Fairfield, have asked whether or not the camp is strictly a Y. M. C. A. affair," said Perry Wilson Saturday. "They seem to think that only those boys who are members of the 'Y' are eligible. I wish to say that Camp Ki-Ro is not a Y. M. C. A. camp but is a civic proposition and any boy in the city or county that wants to go is eligible."

There is still room for 20 more boys in the first period of the camp, said Mr. Wilson. This period starts on July 27 and it is expected that the full enrollment of 50 boys will be in by that time.

The leaders for this period are William Roney, who is in charge of the camp program; Francis Robinson, Sam Green, Ben Ahl, George Krueger, Walter Fulghum.

All the boys who have been studying for leadership at the camp will be expected to go to the camp July 24 and remain there until the opening of the camp of July 27, as there is a large amount of work to be done before the camp starts. Tents must be pitched, dining boards made and placed, a baseball diamond laid out, and a tennis court made.

Burton Howard has been engaged to act as camp cook. It is said that he has had a wide experience as a cook and that he is most suitable for the job in every way. He is a brother to Walter Howard, the famous violinist, and it is said he has some talent on the violin himself.

Board floors will be put in the tents and the boys will sleep on cots in accordance with the idea to make the camp as sanitary as possible.

SIX CYLINDER AUTO LEFT FOR POLICE

Chief of Police William Eversman is in receipt of one perfectly good six-cylinder car, donated by Everett Jones, of Lebanon, who made the gift after trying to prove his title to the machine Friday. The machine has a history, one spare tire, and one spare for a starting motor, but no starting motor.

The machine was picked up July 3, with L. M. Stephens, the driver, on suspicion. Stephens was held two or three days and released. The title to the machine was in the name of Ed. Parsell, of Zionsville, Ind.

Claims Automobile.

Everett Jones of Lebanon, appeared at the police station Friday. He said that the car had been turned over to him by Parsell. He presented a certificate of title. The chief looked it over.

"I can't turn this car over to you," he said finally. This is made out to Parsell.

"Well, I don't want the car anyway. Here's the certificate of title. You take it," said Jones, impatiently.

Chief Eversman would not say Saturday what he intended to do with his new acquisition. "It's my car," was all he would say. In the machine is a bill of sale made out to Jones.

POINTS TO DANGERS TO U.S. INSTITUTIONS FROM FOES WITHIN

(By Associated Press)

LEESBURG, W. Va., July 8.—Enemies who today attack American institutions "from within instead of from without" are no less to be feared than the foes of war times, "although they do not wear distinctive uniforms," Acting Secretary Wainwright, of the war department, said today in an address prepared for delivery at the dedication of the memorial to the men of London county who died in the World war.

"Since the great war," Mr. Wainwright said, "innumerable 'isms' have sprung up in our country whose declared or undeclared objective is to destroy Americanism, to which we owe all we possess as a nation. Groups of peoples and classes are organized everywhere for every kind of purpose except a patriotic and national one. Insidious propaganda is being directed against all of the fundamentals of our government."

Worst Enemies

"The most pernicious of all are those who are striving to substitute internationalism for nationalism. They would destroy from within what no enemy has ever been able to do from without—our ideals of government, constitution, institutions, liberties and leadership in the world."

The pacifists who were silent during the war and missing from the ranks of our defenders, would destroy our instruments of defense, the army and navy, and render us a weakling among the nations without influence or prestige in the world affairs. These pacifists and internationalists—working together and in most instances the same people—are trying to induce our youths to forewear allegiance to our flag and refuse to defend it.

All Right Said

"If such are not enemies then who is?"

"That is not the road to peace—that is merely the road to which fanatics point. The road to peace is the same one we have always followed. As long as we adhere to the ideals that made us a nation and as long as we have strength actual and potential, that long will we be able to influence the councils of the nations for peace. The moment we become weak we will be ruined. The moment we submerge our identity as a nation all is lost."

"These dead must not have died in vain. Heroic dead of Loudon county, I salute you. We will be faithful in your trust."

AMERICANS SECRETLY MURDERED BY TURKS, SAYS INVESTIGATOR

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, July 8.—Americans are being secretly murdered by the Turks in Asia Minor and reports then circulated say that they died of typhus and other diseases, according to J. Herbert Knapp, civil engineer, of Los Angeles, who has arrived from Constantinople after three years in the Turkish interior. Mr. Knapp went to Turkey principally to investigate the death at Diarbekir of his brother, the late George P. Knapp, who the Turks reported had died suddenly of typhus.

He declares that his own investigation, supported by affidavits on file with the American consul at Bagdad, convinced him that his brother was executed by shooting.

"The Turks hated my brother," said Mr. Knapp, "because he knew too much about the massacre of Christians which was then in progress. It was generally reported that he had died from poisoning after drinking a cup of Turkish coffee, handed to him by a prominent Turkish official, but I am confident from testimony given by those who lived near the scene of his death that he was deliberately murdered."

Miss Allen hindered

Mr. Knapp recounted the story of Miss Allen, who, he said, was sent to Kharpout by the Near East relief to investigate the causes for the expulsion of Major Yowell, Dr. Mark Ward and others who were often described as the "unofficial American ambassador to Angora."

Miss Allen had learned enough in Kharpout, Mr. Knapp said, to satisfy her that the Greek deportees were being systematically starved to death and exposed to all kinds of maltreatment to accomplish this end.

"The Turks laid their plans carefully," Mr. Knapp asserted. "Every conceivable obstacle was placed in her way so that she could not reach Angora to tell her tale of Turkish excesses."

"After days and days of travel on horseback and suffering from the most intense exposure, she perished from exhaustion and typhus soon after arriving at Sivas."

FIND CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES PRODUCING FINE QUALITY SPUDS

"I have eight to 10 marketable potatoes as large as my fist or bigger, under every one of my certified seed potato vines," says a friend of Ed Deitmer, who was furnished a few potatoes "to try," when the farm bureau imported the certified seed potatoes last spring. "They are the best potatoes I have ever grown, and I am sorry I did not get more of the seed."

Reports from certified seed potato plantings over the state indicate an increased yield due to the certified seed of from one-third more to three times as much as from native seed stock, according to a letter just received by the county agent from F. C. Gaylord, associate in horticulture at Purdue.

A request is made that counties which bought certified seed keep records on the yield from it and from the native seed to discover the actual value of the imported potatoes. Wayne county already has made such a provision, says County Agent J. L. Dolan, 20 farmers having agreed to keep a check on the yield and to compare them with the results of using native seed. Comparisons already made with early dug potatoes indicate that the new seed has raised the yield considerably wherever it was used. The best demonstration of certified seed value is seen on the Easthaven farm, where W. D. Scott, manager of the farm, has planted several acres to the state selected seed.

Third Spray For Moths Should Be Given July 16

The third summer spray for control of the codling moth should be applied July 16, advises J. J. Davis, head of the Purdue entomology department. This advice is based upon observation of hatchings of the insects eggs which have been reported from observation stations in many parts of the state. It is suggested that the regular lime sulphur sprays be applied with one and a half pounds of lead arsenate added, but Mr. Davis warns against using the lime sulphur when the temperature is above 90 degrees Fahrenheit.
