(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 2.—The leading radio authorities of America and the world are expected to take part in the first International Radio conference to be held in America, on Aug. 6, 7 and 8, in connection with the Pageant of Progress. The sessions of the congress will be held in Convention Hall on the municipal pier.

The plan of holding the radio conference was a development of the radio committee of the Pageant, of which George E. Carlson, of the Chicago department of gas and electricity, and sponsor for the Municipal Radio broadcasting station on the city hall was made chairman. Maj. J. O. Mauborgne, signal officer for the Sixth Army corps area, Chicago, has accepted the presidency of the congress.

Definite assurances of their presence at the congress have been received from Charles P. Steinmetz, Dr. Louis Cohen, consulting engineer, signal corps, Dr. J. H. Dellinger, physicist for the United States Bureau of Standards, Francis W. Dunmore of the Bureau of Standards, in addition to a number of representatives from large electrical concerns.

To Organize Permanently.
While the congress is in progress a meeting of the radio leaders will be called by President Mauborgne and Chairman Carlson, at which a plan to make the congress a permanent organization will be submitted. The purpose of the organization, it was stated, would be to promote development of radio in its many phases, to encourage amateurs and to popularize broadcasting.

The congress will open with a speed contest for radio operators for which Commissioner Carlson has posted a diamond medal, and which is expected to attract the fastest operators of the country.

Contestants will be required to receive straight commercial press in the Continental code, and transcribe messages on regulation typewriters.

Garrick First English Actor to Take Up Golf
[From the Detroit News]
Garrick was the first English actor to play golf. "Jupiter" Carlyle relates in his autobiography that in the summer of 1749 Garrick asked him and John Home, the author of "Douglas," to spend a day at Hampton, and bring golf clubs and balls in order to teach him the game. Garrick thoroughly enjoyed his foursome, and when it was over entertained his guests to a sumptuous dinner. On taking leave of his host Carlyle presented him with one of his clubs. To show how rarely golf was then played south of the Tweed, Carlyle mentions that as they drove through Kensington on the way to Hampton some Scottish soldiers, "seeing our clubs, gave three cheers in honor of a diversion peculiar to Scotland."

Cement Industry Fourth Largest Consumer of Coal

Last year 7,400,000 tons of coal, 2,340,000 barrels of fuel oil, and 3,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas were burned in the manufacture of cement in the United States.

Each 376-pound barrel of cement represents an average fuel consumption of 200 pounds of coal, or its equivalent.

Fuel is one of the large necessary cost elements entering into the manufacture of cement.

About 33 1/2 per cent of the cost of manufacturing cement goes for fuel.

Every one knows that coal costs a great deal more than before the war.

In 1921 the coal bill of the cement industry totaled approximately $40,000,000.

Heat required in cement making is about 3000 degrees Fahrenheit. This is a higher temperature than required in steel making, gold smelting, or almost any other industrial process involving heat.

This intense heat is necessary to fuse the limestone and other materials into what is known as clinker.

Grinding mills pulverize the coal into a fine powder before it is blown into the kiln to be used as fuel.

This grinding costs about $1 per ton.

This Is the Age of Cement
