

SPECIAL AMUSEMENT FEATURES ARRANGED FOR BY COUNTY FAIR

With amusement concessions from all parts of the county signed up for the Wayne county fair, and space for trade displays and similar concessions oversubscribed, Elmer Eggemeier, chairman of the concessions and grounds for the fair, reports bright prospects for attractions, even aside from the livestock displays, that will prove a drawing card for crowds that will tax the accommodations of the Glen.

"A total of 70,000 square feet under canvas is provided for the fair exhibits," said Mr. Eggemeier, "and in addition, the trades displays will occupy enough space to make a total of over 100,000 square feet of space under cover. One implement company will put up a tent 80 by 180 feet. The auto show will take 27,000 square feet.

Tents On Ground
The tents were on the grounds Thursday morning and the larger ones will be erected by Saturday noon. It was stated, so that Saturday visitors to Richmond will be able to get an idea of the layout of the grounds.

A decorating firm, Gasthoff and Son from Danville, Ill., where the I. and I. fair, one of the largest county fairs in the Middle West, has just been concluded, arrived in Richmond Thursday and established headquarters at 15-17 North Ninth street in the fair headquarters building.

G. F. Gasthoff and his son, Earl, have had extensive experience in decorating and expect, with their organization, to complete the task of decorating the business section of Main street Thursday evening.

To oversee the operation of the amusement concessions, and to keep a watch for undesirable characters, E. C. Wright also has been assigned. He has been engaged and is spending his full time at the grounds supervising the placing of the concessions. He knows by sight a number of the criminals who have been "working" the county fairs, and promises them a hearty reception if any appear in Richmond.

First Concession Here
The first of the amusement concessions, the huge dance pavilion, owned by Davis brothers, of Connersville, arrived on the grounds Wednesday.

Besides the horse diving act, another will be provided by local talent by courtesy of an offer of W. H. Oosting who has volunteered the services of his monkey, which will make dives from the same scaffold.

Further arrangements for the baby show were completed by Miss Katherine Daub, county Red Cross nurse in charge of the show, on Wednesday and Thursday. A committee with one member in each township has agreed to co-operate in the management of the show. The committee is headed by Mrs. Carl Kaufman, of Pershing, who is a graduate nurse.

Committee Members
The committee members are: Abington, Mrs. Lawrence Wissler; Boston, Mrs. Clark Crowe; Center, Mrs. Ora Dunbar, Centerville, Clay, Mrs. Walter Huntcutt, Green's Fork, Dalton, Mrs. Walter Beeson, Losansville, Franklin, Mrs. Mahab Adelman; Whitewater, Greene, Mrs. George Davis, Williamsburg; Harrison, Mrs. Carl Kaufman; Jackson, Mrs. Carl Kaufman, Cambridge City; Jefferson, Mrs. A. R. Jones, Hagerstown; New Garden, Mrs. O. N. Huff; Fountain City, Perry, Mrs. Emma Hiatt, Economy; Washington, Mrs. Ed Jones, Milton; Wayne, Social Service Bureau, telephones 2050 and 1084; Webster, Mrs. Walter Beeson, Webster; Mrs. Burton Carr, Richmond, Mrs. William Bond, Richmond, Mrs. F. W. Krueger and L. M. Gentile of Richmond, and E. C. Denny of Milton also will serve on the baby show committee.

The county's committee will hold a meeting in Red Cross headquarters at 111 North Eighth street at 3 o'clock tomorrow night, 4 o'clock Richmond time, to make final arrangements for the show.

It is announced that registrations for the show will be accepted by any of the committee or at Red Cross headquarters, telephone 2050, until Monday noon. Because of the difficulty of establishing standards for juveniles, babies will not be entered in a beauty contest, but all will be judged on physical standards. Classes will be provided for babies under a year and from one to two years, and in addition, for the best sets of twins. First and second premiums in each class will be awarded.

Charles Hodge, fair secretary, will keep "open house" at fair headquarters, 15-17 North Ninth street all day Saturday to receive entries in the stock, grain, vegetable, and women's exhibit classes. Entries may be reached by telephone over No. 2817.

A "booster expedition" to advertise the fair was organized by William Bailey and Lauer Froelich on Thursday, with autos, manned by buglers from the high school, and numerous school boys as bill distributors. The cars were to cover all cities within a radius of 25 miles.

FAMILY REMEDY FOR COLDS, BODY BUILDING

Father John's Medicine Treats Colds and Builds Up the Body—Contains No Alcohol or Dangerous Drugs—67 Years in Use.

Father John's Medicine is a doctor's prescription and was prescribed for the Rev. Father John O'Brien, of Lowell, Mass., in 1855. Father John recommended this prescription to his parishioners and friends, and in this way it became known as Father John's Medicine.

This story is true and we guarantee to give $25,000.00 to any charitable institution if shown otherwise.

Father John's Medicine has a history of 67 years' success treating coughs, colds and throat troubles and as a body builder. Guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

Because it is recognized as richest in vitamins, Father John's Medicine is called "the greatest body-builder."

Friends. He noted especially the desire of the Mexicans for Protestant teachings and stated that the greatest demand there is for Christian leadership.

Milo S. Hinckle, secretary of the board, then outlined the immediate task before the board and gave his four-fold plan for the carrying on of the work in the future. His plan is development of the activities at home, the development of a strong native leadership wherever the work is going on, the financial regeneration of the board, and the laying aside of funds each year for the permanent financial independence of the work in foreign mission fields.

The missionary work of women was related by Mary Miers Harold in which she reviewed the organization of the woman missionary workers here. These organizations, while not taking part in the direction of the foreign missionary work, contributed to the Indian, negro and mountaineer work in this country.

Following is the report of the nominating committee of the American Friends Board of Foreign Missions: President, G. H. Moore; vice-president, Theodore Foxworthy; treasurer, the Dickinson Trust company; secretary, Milo S. Hinckle; educational secretary, B. Willis Beede; assistant treasurer and assistant secretary, Alta L. Jewell.

Committee Members.
Finance committee—Wallace C. Kemp, Alton Hale, J. J. Hadley, D. W. Edwards William C. Tabor; executive committee George H. Moore chairman; Theodore Foxworthy, Alta L. Jewell, Milo S. Hinckle B. Willis Beede, Belle C. Bailey, Lucy Hill Binford, Mary C. Hadley, Howard McKay, Charles E. Carey.
Candidates committees—President, W. O. Mendenhall, Charles E. Carey, Lorena Farquhar, Minnie M. Anderson; corresponding members of candidates committee, Baltimore, Viola Horisberg; California, Charles E. Tebbets; Canada, Albert Rogers; Indiana, Charles M. Woodward; Iowa, Irene D. Stranahan; Kansas, Gervais Carey, Nebraska, Golda O. Carrell; New England, Mary S. Paige; New York, Katherine M. Guthrie; North Carolina, Annie E. Williams; Oregon, Clarkson Hinchaw; Western, Flora Mills Harris; Wilmington, Harriet F. G. Peele.

A program of toasts in which all of the mission fields of the Friends were represented featured the missionary breakfast given at Earlham college Thursday morning at 7 o'clock. H. E. McGrew was toastmaster and the following program was given:

Palestine, Moses Bailey, "Between the Mill-Stones"; Cuba, Emma Martinez, "Our Sugar-Bowl"; China, Robert Simkin, "The Waking Giant"; Africa, Edna Chilson, "The Child Race"; Mexico, Lou P. S. Roberts, "Our Southern Neighbor"; Jamaica, Milo Hinckle, "Where Races Meet"; Indians, Amelia R. Lindley, "First Americans"; Southland, Herschel Folger, a former principal of Southland institute for negroes, "Brothers in Black"; Ellison R. Purdy, chairman of the Missions board, "The Coming Day."

Gain in Contributions.
A gain of $294,816 in contributions for the foreign mission work was reported by George H. Moore, president of the American Friends Board of Foreign Missions. Requests in this period amounted to $40,515, and new fields were opened in Ram Allah, Palestine, and in West China. Twenty-two new missionaries have been deputized since 1917.

A change in the method of mission work was stressed by Mr. Moore, who said that the task of the missionary has become more and more that of a religious educator devoting his time to the training of religious teachers and evangelists.

Good Work Done.
Gratifying work in Cuba and Jamaica was reported, where mission members are taking personal interest. Referring to work in Palestine, the report said:

"Never before has there been such a wide-spread demand for education and every year more Moslems are seeking admission to Christian schools. No exceptions are made in regard to the requirements from these boys and girls and they attend our meetings for worship and take the required Bible courses. None of the pupils join more heartily in the singing of Christian hymns than these Moslem children and seed is being sown in their hearts which will bring forth fruit unto life eternal. Friends have contact with China, Chengtu, a city far to the west of Shanghai in the midst of a province having a population of some 60,000,000 people.

"In Mexico the whole burden of giving the gospel to thousands rests solely upon the Society of Friends." "Of our Africa work it might be well said, 'a great, bold and effectual has been opened to us and there are adversaries.' Five years ago the native of the Kavirondo country under the leadership of the British were at war with the natives of German East Africa. Many young men were drawn from our territory for military service. A number lost their lives and some never returned to their homes."

Must Abolish War.
"We must abolish war, or war will abolish civilization," said Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Reduction of Armaments, Wednesday night.

"All problems, economic, social and political, sink into oblivion when compared to the imperative necessity for the abolition of the institution of war. This is no longer an academic subject which one may work out in his study to determine whether or not he is for or against war. War has been demonstrated through the ages as the most infernal invention of mankind, and is the one threatening danger overhanging democratic, liberty-loving people today."

The speaker cited the awful effect of modern war inventions and stated that since the close of the late war more deadly machines of warfare had been introduced into the war departments of civilized nations with pos-ability of wiping out whole nations over night.

Mr. Libby stated that the solution to the condition was to be found in the work of the few who would willingly consecrate their lives if necessary to this cause. If we wait too long, stated the speaker, we as well as our children will be caught in the toils of war.

"One thing that you can do by legislation," declared Mr. Libby, "is to put an end to the institution of war as a means of settling disputes. Our only salvation in the settling of disputes is the establishment of international courts in which we have confidence."

The following two propositions were made at the meeting Wednesday night and will be brought up before the business committee: 1. To formally ask the Federated Council of Churches through our representative to co-operate with the National Council for the Reduction of Armaments in seeking world organization, world-wide reduction of armament including our own, and the education for peace.

Recommend Support.
2. To recommend to every monthly meeting moral and financial support of the movement for the prevention of war through active peace committees in every meeting and through co-operation with the National Council for the Reduction of Armaments of which the Friends Disarmament Council is a member.

Reporting for the Board of the Peace Association of Friends in America, Allen D. Hole, chairman, stated that the board, through their past experiences, believed that the following general program should be followed by the board to be appointed for the next five years:

That for the systematic and thorough development of the work of the board, a competent friend should be secured to devote his whole time to
