

ERECTION OF STAGE, SCAFFOLD, AND TENTS PROGRESSING AT PARK

Building of scaffolds and a stage, and erection of tents was in full progress at Glen Miller, Friday in preparation for the Wayne county fair which is to open Wednesday, Sept. 13. With half a hundred men employed in different gangs scattered about the grounds, the various preparatory steps were being rapidly pushed to completion.

Erection of stock tents was to be completed Friday afternoon, unless halted by rain, said the canvass man in charge. The large stock tents at the north end of the grounds were laid out, and stakes driven early Friday morning, and one tent has been put up by 11 o'clock.

Charles Wiatt in charge of the erection of a scaffold and platform for the horse diving act of which he is the representative, stated that the tower would be finished by 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, unless work was interfered with by rain.

Scaffold Interests People Aside from the diving act itself, the tower is always considered a feature at county fairs, Mr. Wiatt stated. "People always like to take a bird's eye view of the fair from the 40 foot platform, and we have had as many as 1,000 people on the scaffold at once."

Location of Platform. The scaffold being erected runs north and south at the foot of a slight slope northwest of the baseball diamond. The incline will lead up from the north, placing the horse on the platform in a central location where he can easily be seen from all parts of the grounds.

Four carpenters were employed Friday on the stage on which the lands are to be placed, and expected to be ready to lay flooring on it before evening. The stage is located just to the south of the tourist camp.

Beyond the stage, still farther to the south, the floor is to be placed. Laying of the floor is temporarily held up by the occupation of part of the space by chautauqua tents which have not yet been removed, but with a good force of men, only a couple of days will be needed to lay the floor after work is started, say the managers.

Headquarters Tent A headquarters tent for the fair has been located near the drive from the west entrance and a telephone, No. 6191, installed.

Entries began coming in in greater numbers Thursday afternoon and gave evidence of swelling to a flood Friday. Preparations were made for additional clerical help in handling entries Saturday, which is expected to be a big day. Already a large number of entries have been made in the swine department which is expected to provide the largest show, and in the horse department, which is relied upon to attract another large section of popular interest. Entries were also numerous. C. L. Gifford, superintendent of this department, received entries for 40 horses by telephone Thursday night. These include exhibitors from Darke, Preble and Randolph as well as Wayne county.

There is even a goat entry although no section had been provided for this class of livestock. A registered Saanen doe with a young Toggenburg kid, was entered by E. J. Johnston of South Ninth and M streets, Richmond.

AMERICAN SWIMMING POOLS ARE PRAISED

That swimming should be more popular in America and that the bathing facilities of this city compare favorably with those seen in various parts of the world, was the statement of Robert Stanley, of Australia, former instructor in vocational education at Sydney, who is visiting in this city. Stanley made the statement in the course of a discussion of the swimming pools of this city Friday. He said: "I had expected to find your bathing pools carrying a 'standing room only' sign with the hot spell of the last few days. In Australia where the thermometer registers over the century mark for weeks at a time, whole families take themselves off to the beaches or the swimming pools in the evenings."

Desert Cities. "The cities have a deserted appearance at such times. Most of the towns are near the seashore and a large part of the population will be found in the allday picnic Sunday, which will be held at Beallview park. A committee has arranged all sorts of amusements for the picnicers which will include such games as the hidden treasure and contests of climbing greased poles. All Eagles are urged to attend the big outing."

THREE CARS COLLIDE IN UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

One car started bad and two more followed. That was the case when three automobiles mixed up in a queer accident at the corner of Eighteenth and Main streets Friday afternoon. The coal truck of S. V. Stinson under the guidance of Driver Foster, was coming toward Main street from South Eighteenth street. A touring car driven by E. H. Ramey was coming up Main street from the west at a rapid rate of speed. The driver of the truck steered into the curb and struck a steel pole in an effort to escape the fast coming touring car.

At the same time a sedan, coming from the east driven by Scott McQuire, became mixed up with the touring car driven by Mr. Ramey and a general collision resulted. McQuire was cut under the arm and on the fingers by flying glass, but aside from this casualty, the result of the crash was none other than damaged automobiles. The sedan suffered a demolished fender, hood and caved-in door. Two windows of the car were broken also. The car which was driven by Mr. Ramey was damaged the least. A broken lamp and radiator neck was all that was in view.
