

GREAT THRONGS SEE C-2 AT BELLEVILLE; MAY LEAVE SUNDAY

(By Associated Press)
BELLEVILLE, Ill., Sept. 15.—The army dirigible C-2, on its way westward from coast to coast, was moored at Scott Field, the government flying field here today, drawing throngs of spectators. The blimp arrived here last night at 9:30 o'clock and despite the darkness, had no difficulty in making the landing.

Departing from Akron, Ohio, yesterday morning at 9:52, the dirigible arrived at Wilbur Wright field near Dayton, at 1:45 p. m., making the last lap of the day's journey in less than eight hours. Powerful searchlights were used in order to guide the crew safely to the ground.

Few citizens here knew of the arrival of the dirigible, so quietly did the machinery work.

It is probable that the blimp will depart on its next lap to Fort Sill, Okla., Sunday or Monday, in time to reach the Oklahoma field in the evening.

THE FORUM

Esther Griffin White, in a statement issued Friday, set forth her stand in regard to the candidacy of various persons on the Democratic and Republican tickets. The statement follows:

"Referring to the statement that I would work with the Little Tweedy club but not with the Democratic county committee, permit me to say that there was never any question of my working with the latter.

"I am a Republican and intend as I always have done to support Albert J. Beveridge for United States senator, as I regard him as one of the greatest public men of his generation. Jealousy of his superiority has kept him too long in the background.

Admires Loyalty.

"But from the time that I saw Mrs. Tweedy was to run for state senator I intended to vote for her, and as the club which was organized by Mrs. Monarch and others was made up of Democratic women, asked permission to join. Any other Republican woman can join the Tweedy club as I understand it. The Democratic women, as I have heard, so to speak, are behind the candidacy of Mrs. Tweedy. I admire this in the Democratic women. It shows sound political sense and loyalty and is an example to certain Republican women in the county who were too petty to support any woman for office in their own ranks.

"So far as the Republican women of Wayne county are concerned, I wish to say that, during the two years in which I was chairman of the Women's County committee, which I organized under the auspices of the Republican State committee, and which the state committee complimented me by saying was the best one of its character in Indiana, I had their undivided support so far as the organization was concerned.

Working Harmoniously.

"We worked harmoniously without a single dissension of any sort through the entire time, and the effort of one or two Republican men to make it appear different is merely an exhibition of jealousy on their part for the splendid work the women did.

"I confess that I am thoroughly disgusted with the factional fights in the Republican ranks. This thing of the election of every precinct committeeman being dictated from Washington by James E. Watson in order that he may control the state committee with an eye to the presidency in 1924, has become such a nuisance to the majority of the Republicans of this section that Republican interests are seriously jeopardized in the coming election.

Tired of Dictation.

"The time is slipping away when political dictation of this sort can prevail or will be tolerated.

"If James E. Watson would be less zealous in this respect, his political stock would go up in a way that would surprise him.

"I am not especially interested in the coming election save in Mrs. Tweedy and Senator Beveridge.

"If the women of Wayne county want to establish a record for political acumen and political good common sense, everyone of them who can vote will get behind Mrs. Tweedy regardless of sex, that we want to see in our legislatures."

SECRETARY OF GARY UNION SEEKS FUNDS TO AID ACCUSED MEN

Walter L. Wall, of Gary, secretary of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Saturday announced that preliminary plans had been made for a mass meeting to be held here soon to raise funds for the men who are charged with participation in a train wreck at Gary.

"That sounds funny," said Mr. Wall, "to raise money to defend men who have confessed, but the fact is, we contend, that these men confessed to wrecking the train to escape further torture at the hands of the police. They had never been in Gary until they were taken there after the wreck. I have physicians' charts to show the bruises on their bodies caused by the brutal methods of the police."

Believe Men Innocent.

"We believe that the wreck was not caused by human hands. It would have been a physical impossibility for the men to have wrecked the train, as, according to official records of the railroad, only nine minutes elapsed between the time another train passed and the time the train was wrecked."

"We shall appeal to all union labor organizations throughout the state to help defend the men."

Mr. Wall visited the state council of carpenters and joiners, the delegates subscribing to the fund.
