

3,500 SEE SECOND SHOWING OF LYNN HISTORICAL PAGEANT

LYNN, Ind., Sept. 22.—A second presentation of the historical pageant at the Lynn fair and homecoming drew an even larger attendance on Thursday evening, the last day of the fair, than it had on the first occasion, an estimated crowd of 3,500 viewing it. Delegations from the Winchester Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, and from the Richmond business men, visited the fair Thursday afternoon, and a number remained for the pageant, as did the hundreds of farmers from nearby communities.

The Richmond delegation, organized and headed by Mayor Lawrence Handley, included a dozen auto loads of the visitors, who made high carnival during the afternoon.

A livestock parade was held Thursday afternoon, after horse judging had been finished.

A balloon ascension by an aeronaut, Charles Skiver, who is a former Lynn resident, drew the attention of all visitors at 4:30. Mr. Skiver made a triple parachute drop.

Premium Winners
Premium winners in the horse show were as follows:

Percheron—Aged Percheron stallion, Charles Gifford, Howard Johnson; aged Percheron mare, M. L. Clark, C. A. Hyre; three year old Percheron mare, C. A. Hyre; two year old mare, C. A. Hyre; one year old mare, C. L. Gifford; colt, O. Brown, C. Gifford.

Belgians—Aged stallion, Conway Bros., N. Blansett; aged mare, J. Willmore, Clark and Sheffer; colt, J. Willmore, Clark and Sheffer.

Pure bred team—L. Clark, C. Gifford; mare and colt, J. Willmore, C. Gifford; light harness horse, Maude Dudley, Stanley Brown.

In the poultry show, Myron Hamilton took first on cock, pullet and pen in the Black Langshans, while in the Buff Orpington class, Walter Haisley took first on cockerel, pullet and pen, and Alice Love took second on pen.

Other winners were as follows: White Rocks, C. Washier, first on cockerel, pullet and pen; White Wyandotte, Josephine Hunt.

Successful Contestants.
Other premiums were as follows: C. Washier, White Rock cockerel, pullet and pen; Josephine Hunt, White Wyandotte, cockerel, pullet and pen; Mrs. Omar Platte, White Orpington cockerel, pullet and pen; Eugene Thurston, Arizona cockerel and pullet; Walter Haisley, Rhode Island Red, pen; Bert Spencer, Barred Rock cockerel, pullet and pen.

In the agricultural hall, much attention was attracted by the educational and trade display of honey, bees and bee-keeper's supplies, made by Clayton Knight and Leland Fastick of Fountain City. A glass walled hive, in which the bees could be seen constantly at work, was the center of close attention. A sample display of a comb showing the virulent disease, American foul brood, also was a revelation to some local bee-keepers who discovered that their own hives were affected.

GOTHAM CHOSEN FOR NEXT CONCLAVE OF HIGH MASONS
CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 22.—New York city was selected as the place for holding the next convocation of the supreme council of the Thirty-third degree, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of the northern Masonic jurisdiction of the United States of America, at the closing session here. The date of the next convocation was not announced.

The British civil service now costs the nation six times as much as it did before the war.

Users of Kokomo Heavy Duty Cords Say These Things About Them

"I have had this set of Kokomo Cords on my heavy car for 8,000 miles," said a motorist the other day. "Look at them! The treads are scarcely worn. They are good for another eight thousand."

One hears statements like this every day. Kokomo Cord Tire users are always receiving pleasant surprises in the mileage they secure—in the amount of road trouble they avoid. "Better than I ever expected," they write.

Kokomo Heavy Duty Cords are built to just that standard—to give more than other tires, to do better than even we claim for them.

Means Something

They are staunch, rugged tires—tires that will not puncture under ordinary road conditions—made of five rubber, resilient, powerful, tough and enduring. Kokomo Heavy Duty Cords, alone of all tires, have the famous twin-grip tread—the center ridge to carry the weight of the motor car, and the sturdy angle wedge to take the load on the turns and in loose or slippery going.

We want a good man, or a good retail organization to handle Kokomo Tires as direct factory representatives in this city. Kokomo tire dealers are highly successful. If you are the man, or have the right organization, write at once to Department B.
