Report of Referee H. H. Hawkins in a common pleas court action brought by F. R. Christman against J. C. Connell, involving an alleged account for approximately $10,000, in which the referee fixed Connell's indebtedness to Christman at $5,129.41, has been approved and confirmed by Judge A. C. Risinger. Christman is given judgment for interest and court costs, making the total $6,462.96. The court further directs that H. R. Gilmore and F. G. Shuey, attorneys for Connell, shall receive $100 as part payment of fees. H. L. Risinger, attorney for Christman, is to receive a like amount as part payment of fees, and Referee Hawkins is to receive $50 as part payment for services. The sheriff is to sell enough of Connell's attached personal property to pay the judgment and other sums of money specified by the court.

The case has been in the courts several years. Connell was in charge of an automobile sales place and garage for Christman in Camden. When an accounting was sought in the courts the affairs of the business were so tangled it was agreed a referee try to untangle them.

Connell is serving a sentence in the penitentiary for implication in the theft of and trafficking in stolen automobiles. He was sentenced in the courts in Dayton. He was operating for himself an automobile sales and garage business in Camden at the time of his arrest.

Grand Jury Meets. It was thought the grand jury, which convened Monday for the October term of common pleas court, probably would complete its work Tuesday evening and file its report.

The jury organized Monday by choosing W. E. Murphy, Dixon township, foreman. Seven women are members of the body. They are: Mrs. J. W. Carnahan, Mrs. John O'Leary, Mrs. George Pooos, Mrs. Everett O'Neil, Mrs. R. E. Morrow, Mrs. Effie Lock, Mrs. Daisy Summers. Other members of the jury are: John Hoffman, A. J. Hays, Albert VanAundal, Charles Padack, Charles Burd, O. R. Frazier, Ford Ogden and W. E. Murphy. Mrs. O'Leary, Mrs. Pooos, John Hoffman and A. J. Hays were not on the regular jury venire, but were selected to fill vacancies on the venire.

Gambling Game Raided By Rushville Police

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Oct. 3.—A gambling game was broken up in a raid conducted by police officers on the Grand hotel, from which a dozen men made their escape when the police were checked by a bolted door. The police shot through the door and threatened to open fire on any other place where they were refused admittance in the clean-up campaign which is starting.

MEREDITH ASSUMES DUTIES AS MARSHAL

Linus P. Meredith, of Richmond, was sworn into office as United States marshal at Indianapolis Monday, by Noble C. Butler, clerk of the Federal court. Mr. Meredith succeeded Mark Storen.

Mr. Meredith re-appointed all of the deputy marshals who were serving under Mr. Storen. He appointed Oscar Johnson of Clark county as a local deputy and transferred Homer T. Burnett, deputy marshal, to Terre Haute to relieve Mr. Johnson, who has been serving in Terre Haute as a special deputy.

Others reappointed in the Indianapolis office were Fred Cretors Frank S. Ream, Miss Minerva Thurston and C. E. Whicker. Mr. Johnson formerly was sheriff of Clark county. He also was an employee of the Indiana reformatory for eight years. Mr. Storen will return to Scottsburg to resume his practice as an attorney.

Blind Women's Club Holds Weekly Meeting

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 3.—Forty-seven sightless women comprise the Monday section of the Indianapolis Woman's Department club. Organized two years ago for the expressed purpose of bringing the sightless women together for their own entertainment, the scope of this section of the club has broadened until it is recognized as one of the foremost progressive branches. The blind women's branch is assisted by a number of committees which give assistance in caring for correspondence and in giving readings.

WHEAT TREATING ENDS; MANY USE FACILITIES

Treatment of wheat seed for the elimination of smut infection ended Tuesday afternoon with the treating of seed for a 15-acre plot for the East-haven farms.

The new plant, established in co-operation with the Bertsch mill in Centerville, using the hot water and steam piping of the sorghum mill, has made possible a greatly increased capacity, the two men operating the plant now being able to treat 120 bushels in a day.

A small lean-to was built against the sugar mill to house the hot water tank of the plant. A track from it through the mill and the concrete floor was used for drying the wheat after its 10-minute submersion in the hot water.

The five-bushel drum, of coarse wire screen, mounted on a truck running on a track like a litter carrier, can be dropped into the water, lifted out by means of the chain gear hoist, and the wheat run out into the mill and dumped on the floor with a minimum of labor.

Even Temperature.

The steam pipe running into the tank, insures the maintenance of an even temperature, essential for the proper treatment, as a variation of five degrees either way will on the one hand be insufficient to kill the smut pores, and on the other, will be so hot as likely to damage the germinating power of the kernel.

More farmers have concentrated on sowing of larger individual acreages this year than last, the first year's experience having demonstrated the fact that clean plots can very easily be re-infected from smutty wheat nearby.

Washington township holds the banner for smut eradication work this year, states County Agent J. L. Dolan, who has supervised the plant.
