

JEFFERSON TOWNSHIP CORN CROP OF 60 BU. TO ACRE PREDICTED

A corn crop of 60 bushels an acre is predicted by farmers of Jefferson township in consequence of the unusually favorable weather and soil conditions. Corn in that section, in common with so many other communities this year, also is of an exceptionally good quality. It has dried out very early this year and ears are large and well formed, with deep well shaped kernels.

The only drawback to complete satisfaction with cornfields this year, is the "down corn" which is grafton Stewart, corn having been laid over so badly by the late summer storms that it is practically impossible to sow wheat in the stalks as is usually done.

As a consequence of this condition, farmers in all regions struck by the storms, are united in saying that the wheat acreage for next year's harvest will be much smaller than usual. Wheat is now being sown, but few are able to get through with the unusual amount of work necessary to sow the usual acreage.

Cut Wheat Acreage

William Leavell, living north of Hagerstown, in Jefferson township, which was swept by a wind that nearly flattened all fields, has put in about 20 acres by getting help to turn every corn row as it is sown. Grafton Stewart is sowing only a small patch, sufficient for seed next year. Charles Goodson, east of the town, also has had to cut his wheat acreage, his corn being down badly.

Mr. Goodson is another who can testify to the quality of the corn this year. He raises both white and yellow corn and ears of each variety were such as to delight a miller. Five samples of the white easily made an average weight of better than a pound and a half after they were dried out, the heaviest being only a little under two pounds.

POULTRYMEN TO TOUR COUNTY FRIDAY 13TH

Undeterred by superstitious misgivings, preparations for a poultry tour are being made by Wayne county poultrymen in co-operation with the county agent for the date of Friday, Oct. 13. A committee of poultry producers will meet this week to arrange the details and the route.

The success of the tour last year has aroused great interest in this year's tour, which poultrymen have been anticipating for a year past. A much larger attendance than last year is expected and it is probable that the route will be so planned as to include more of the local producers.

A poultry culling demonstration, set for an earlier date, and unavoidably postponed, will be held with the flock of William Steers, of Greensfork, on Tuesday morning, Oct. 10. Mr. Steers who lives within the limits of the corporation, has a large flock, having started large scale production recently.

Baby Russian Countess Arrives In America For Adoption By New Yorker

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A two and one-half year old countess, the grand niece of a former Czar of Russia came to America yesterday.

She was countess Renee De Mondeuse, and although she will be legally adopted by Mrs. Wendell Phillips a wealthy New York widow, she will retain her formidable title.

"The name is one of the oldest and greatest in Russia" Mrs. Phillips explained to reporters, when the liner President Polk arrived here with the tiny refugee. "I do not wish it to be lost through her. Besides if conditions are properly adjusted again in Russia and she comes into her own she will be one of the wealthiest persons in her country."

This little girl escaped the red tape of Ellis Island, for Mrs. Phillips, armed with letters from Washington, was on hand to meet the child, brought overseas by Miss Aileen Gowans, head of a hospital in Woolwich, Eng. Consequently a special board of inquiry hastily was assembled at the immigration station and regulations bearing on the entry of a minor alien without parents or guardians hastily were suspended.

Father is Shot

Mrs. Phillips said that the child's father, Count Henry de Mondeuse, had been shot when the Bolsheviks sacked the royal palace in Petrograd.

The mother, Countess Claude, was spirited out of Russia and gave birth to her child in England. Leaving the child in the Woolwich hospital, the countess came to America for her health, but in 1921 died of influenza in Mrs. Phillips' home here.

On her death bed the countess asked Mrs. Phillips to adopt the child and rear her as her own. Mrs. Phillips promised.

Today after the first kisses the little Russian noble woman began addressing Mrs. Phillips as "mamma."

River Front Character Routed By Gas Bomb, Killed In Gun Battle

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 5.—The bullet-riddled body of Henry Miller, river front habitue, lay in a morgue here today and Frank L. Boswell, railroad detective was in a hospital with a bullet in his leg, casualties of a spectacular gun fight on the banks of the Illinois river last night.

Miller, routed by a gas bomb hurled by police into his shack where he barricaded himself after shooting Boswell, fell amid the rattle of riot guns when he staggered into view, choking from the gas fumes but still showing fight. He was shot down as he leveled his pistol at his besiegers.

Gas bombs were used when the police roused Miller on business, last Thursday....Mr. and Mrs. Anson Brunfield and grandson, Wayne, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Long, of Center Hill....Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blase, Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Charles White and daughter Mildred, Mrs. Ethel Woods, Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall and John Addleman went to John Weldenbaugh's Sunday about noon with well filled baskets to remind Mrs. Weldenbaugh it was her birthday.

Police failed in their attempt to rout Miller by setting fire to the shack. The barricaded man succeeded in extinguishing flames while hidden inside the rude building.

Boswell, in making his rounds, passed Miller's shack last night. The detective said today that Miller fired two shots after telling Boswell to mind his own business. Boswell ran for the shelter of a railroad car, but dropped with one of Miller's bullets in his left leg.

William Reise and McKinley Hill, neighbors of Miller, braved the fire of Miller's gun and carried Boswell to safety while railroad detectives and police rushed to the scene.
