

1923 TO SEE BETTER BUSINESS IN OHIO, SURVEY INDICATES

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 1.—"Ohio faces a year of better business—if there is a proper mobilization and use of brains and brawn, of economic and financial resources, and the fostering of a determination to put the same spirit of fighting commercial and industrial activities during 1922 that came to the surface during way days."

This is the composite view of more than 7,000 Ohio business men as gathered by a survey made by the Ohio Building Association league among 8,000 Building and Loan associations.

Building and Loan men in every section are unanimously agreed that the prospects are much better than a year ago and that the coming 12 months will see a gradual improvement in business conditions.

The survey indicates that:

1. There will be a continuation of the building activities of 1922 on a scale equal with last year, which was a record-breaker.

2. Agricultural interests, the worst off of any group in Ohio, show improved conditions and return of prosperity.

3. Business in all lines will improve as the farmers progresses.

4. Rents will be reduced generally as home building progresses.

5. With little unemployment, there will be a decided improvement in labor conditions.

6. Money will be more plentiful than it was a year ago, to the benefit of legitimate business.

true to real American ideals she will be aroused to action not by her interest in oil wells in the near east, but by the pitiful cry of humanity for help in its greatest need."

"Our Americanism must stand expression in a wash-day for our garments which are stained with racial hatred, religious bigotry and political chicanery. We cannot be true Americans and foster within our midst an invisible government which will not show its face before its fellow citizens."

FRENCH WORLD WAR HERO AND HEROINE PUT ON DARING WILLIAM TELL STUNTS

Lieut. Fernand Thetion and his wife, Mme. Esbelin.

Lieut. Fernand Thetion, one of France's greatest World war heroes, and his wife, Mme. Esbelin, who also boasts of several decorations for bravery, are amazing New York theater audiences with exhibitions of marksmanship which make William Tell look like a piker. Instead of a large apple Thetion shoots a tiny lump of sugar from his wife's head and performs other thrilling stunts.

that avarice soon will be ranked with gluttony. The physician or surgeon would consider himself insulted if today he was asked to measure his success in the amount of his financial returns. The time is coming if we stress the better thing when the business man will measure his success not by the money he makes, but by the service he renders. Dr. Fosdick of New York in his recent book on Christianity and Progress asks why we as preachers should not complain of business when it thwarts the very purpose in many respects for which we preach. Business men ask us as young men to give ourselves to the preaching of the Gospel and to denounce sin, but when we venture to criticize the industrialism of the hour and its methods we are told to put on the soft pedal. The greatest and most monstrous evils of the hour are within the field of economics. Shall the Christian pulpit speak out against those forces that grind a man down until he is little more than a cog on a wheel? Shall not the Christian pulpit declare that a man's a man for a that, even though the force of industry would make of him only a machine? The church in the world must declare the humanity of man, to lift him and to save it. The church cannot save its conscience and keep its hands off the economic evils of the hour.

"We cannot be Christian to say nothing about being heralds of the 'better things' without we emphasize the social aspects of our Christian faith."

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

If They Won't Turn Out the Lights

If you have trouble getting the children to turn out the lights when they leave a room, try the plan which works so well in our family. We estimate a certain sum for our monthly light bill. When the bill is less than that sum, we spend the difference for some extra pleasure which we decide upon together. This enlists the whole family in watching for waste of current. The point of course, is to train in conservation, and this is a happy way of doing it.

Indian Maiden Is Made Rich By Oil Discovery

(By United Press)
DEPEW, Okla., Jan. 1.—Another Oklahoma Indian has joined the ranks of the "heavily rich." The latest addition is Miss Eliza Big Pond, young Indian maiden, living here. Miss Big Pond was allotted two eight-acre tracts near here recently by the Indian Land Department. Shortly afterward, a gigantic gasser was brought in on one of the tracts. The well showed signs of oil and caused valuation of the land to be placed in the millions of dollars. Miss Pond is now attending the Haskell Institute at Lawrence, Kan.
