

LABOR DEPARTMENT REPORTS MID-WEST UNEMPLOYMENT CUT

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Bread lines in the midwest have been nearly eliminated and unemployment greatly reduced this winter according to reports from state labor departments, industrial commissions, employers' associations, and employment bureaus.

The causes were given as improved industrial conditions, mild winter and considerable out of doors work for common labor. An exception was reported at Cincinnati in a floating negro population, but of work whose presence is attributed partly to migration to northern jobs during the lay-offs last summer and partly to railroads from work on two government dams near the city.

The northwest generally reports a demand for lumberjacks, with considerable call also for building workers and common laborers.

At Columbus the State-City Free Employment Bureau estimated 3,000 men out of work compared with about 15,000 a year ago. The Employers' Association of Detroit, representing 79 firms, reported in mid January 134,897 men and women employed, and estimated the employed at 300,000 to 350,000. It said more are employed now in Detroit than ever before in the city's history.

Employment Normal
The Associated Employers of Indianapolis reported employment so nearly normal that no effort has been made to check the total out of work. Welfare organizations in Louisville reported no authoritative figures, but said the unemployed were not numerous. At St. Louis the State Labor Bureau estimated about 5,000 out of work compared with 45,000 last winter. Some former brewery workers were reported among the unemployed.

For Illinois the State Department of Labor estimated 14.5 per cent more employed amounting to 119,000 persons, than a year ago. The State Labor Commissioner of Iowa estimated the unemployed at less than 20,000 compared with 40,000 last year. The U. S. Employment Bureau at Milwaukee estimated the number out of work as small, while the State Industrial Commission office at Madison reported employment conditions fairly satisfactory.

RATLIFF DESCRIBES ATMOSPHERE CHANGE

The cold wave which now grips the vicinity is the consequence of an unusual condition, known to the weather man as "an unexpected incident." Walter Ratliff, for three years weather observer at LaPayette, declares. A similar condition, he said, occurred during the Civil war, the bitter weather following in which so many soldiers were frozen to death.

Preceding the storm a low barometric pressure came in from the coast, bringing the wet and foggy weather, followed by snow and rain. Mr. Ratliff says. During a to there are no currents of air, and this weather condition left the interior of the United States open for just such a union of storms as followed, he said.

"When it had passed east a storm developed in Arizona and remained stationary for two or three days. Two more storms gathered, one in the Arctic and one in Mexico. The one in the Arctic, being the most intense, started moving first, following down the Rocky mountain coast until it reached the Arizona zone, where the two storms merged. As the Arctic storm moved it came so swiftly that the cold air followed and with it came altitude air also, which together caused the cold weather."

Form Triple Storm
"After merging with the Arizona storm the Arctic storm started east and united with the storm moving from the Mexican district, forming a triple storm in one. Resultant was rain in the south and the low temperatures in the north."

"The air we have now," Mr. Ratliff said, "is Canadian air from the Arctic regions and altitude air from the upper atmosphere, both of them being cold. This cold air which followed the storm so reduced the temperature that it will be several days before it is warmer. Fall of moisture in the form of snow or rain will follow bringing with it a balancing of the temperature again," Mr. Ratliff said.

used to buy raw material with a view to emergency of the probable occupation. It is declared that August Thysen found it very difficult to get sufficient funds from the banks to meet payments due December 31 last.

As the correspondent motored through Dulsburg, Ruhrort, Hamorn, Oberhausen and Huelheim, he noted that most of the steel plants and mines were working but that the railroad yards were all idle except for a few trains manned by the French. However, the trainmen were at work in the private yards and plants.

Navigation is at a complete standstill. At Ruhrort, the correspondent saw two tug boats flying the Dutch flag and one with the French emblem, hauling two coal barges up the Rhine toward Alsace. The river was practically deserted.

The industrial magnates have not lost courage. "We can hold out as long as the French can," seems to be the consensus of opinion.

DUESSELDORF, Feb. 6.—The return to the Ruhr of General Weyand and Minister of Public Works Le Troquer to co-ordinate transportation finds the railway service demoralized and the resistance generally strengthened, presumably as a result of the visit of Chancellor Cuno.

Railway workers and public officials particularly appear to have been stimulated to further sacrifices in behalf of the Reich by the chancellor's call upon the occupied area, and hence the deadlock continues.

A demonstration at Dorsten yesterday, occasioned by the expulsion of the burgomaster, was broken up by the protection police. Several persons were hurt.

Music Memory Contest Facts

Stephen Foster, the pioneer of American composers, had one day finished a song about a river. However, the name of the river was not as yet chosen. He wanted just the right word. His brother came to his help with an old map; after searching for some time, the name "Swanee river" was discovered. As soon as Foster's eye caught the name, his decision was made and thus was launched in history a river that otherwise no one would ever have dreamed of. The song has become one of the classics of American music.

Sentiment—deep, heartfelt sentiment—is the power of the song. It pictures an old negro of the pre-Civil war days going back in spirit to the home of his youth and desiring to once more be taken to his "kind old mother," that he might there live and die. There is only "one little hut among the bushes" that he loves, and no matter where he roams, that little hut sadly to his memory rushes. Everywhere he goes the world is "sad and dreary," and whatever he does his heart still "grows dreary, far from the old folks at home."

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and quick, but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

$200,000 FORTUNE IS SOUGHT IN RUINS

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Search for the $200,000 fortune of Mrs. Elizabeth Jordan Wilson, aged recluse, whose charred body was found in her once palatial home, was started by authorities today.

Police believed the fire which caused Mrs. Wilson's death was of incendiary origin and not an accident. Friends of the woman declared she sold at least $50,000 worth of real estate during the last few months and this could not be accounted for today.

Authorities hoped to bring out at the inquest today that the eccentric was choked to death by robbers who later burned her body to hide the crime.

Mrs. Wilson, 84, lived alone in the fourteen room house in what was once the fashionable residence district of Chicago. She quarreled with the Gas company and depended on candles and oil for light and heat.
