THE LOVE FEAST

Notable Event in the History of Indiana Republican Politics.

ALL PARTS OF THE STATE

Were Represented in the Great Outpouring of Loyal Republicans at Indiana's Capital.

The Enthusiasm and Harmony There Revealed Means Much for the Coming Success of the Party.

"No Backward Step," the First Words of Senator Beveridge's Speech, Sounded Keynote.

In All the Proceedings of This Notable Affair No Discordant Note Was Heard.

The "Love Feast" of 1907 was a notable event in Republican politics of Indiana. These biennial affairs have in the past been occasions of much interest and significance, but never was one so large, enthusiastic and harmonious as the one of Thursday, Dec. 26. The great outpouring of the loyal Republicans from all parts of the state means much for the success of the party. The enthusiasm shows that there is a determination to win the battle of 1908.

"No backward step"—the first words of Senator Beveridge's opening speech—was the key-note of the meeting and will be the key-note of the campaign. Every speech was cheered to the echo and no discordant note was heard in all the proceedings. Every mention of the name of Vice President Fairbanks was a signal for an outburst of applause. The "big four" candidates for governor, Watson, Taylor, Hugh Miller and Charles W. Miller, were accorded the most considerate treatment. The best of feeling prevailed among these candidates and their friends. The people realize that all are strong, worthy men and that no mistake will be made in the nomination of any one of them.

Party workers at this love feast were jubilant over Republican prospects in the state and nation. Good reports were heard from different sections of the state, and confidence was expressed that the Republican party was capable of weathering the "financial flurry," and under its wise rule the country put on a safe and solid financial basis. The love feast was notable in many respects, but especially in the good feeling, confidence and hopes of future success. The speakers were happy and fortunate in the manner in which they blazed the trail to be followed in the coming campaign. Basing their claims on the past accomplishments by the Republican party, they felt sure the people would trust the party of Lincoln, Grant, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt and other immortals with the reins of government again. The "feast" marks the beginning of an earnest, enthusiastic, harmonious, winning campaign. It aroused the party spirit, put tone and life into the organization that is now going on, and, above all, took the high ground that principles are greater than men and that upon principles the Republican party would stand or fall. This last sentiment was emphasized by all the speakers and met a hearty response from the large audience. And this sentiment will appeal to the minds and hearts of the intelligent and patriotic voters of the country.

A UNITED FORCE

Some State Press Comments on Fairbanks.

The biennial Republican love feast, held at Indianapolis Thursday, was a complete success. The crowd was large, enthusiastic and all expressed themselves as more than paid for their visits with each other during the day and for the time and attention given to hearing the flow of oratory. The meeting had all the signs of victory.

After seeing the various Republican candidates for governor on the platform at the love feast on Thursday and hearing them talk the average voter reached the conclusion that any of them will do. That is a way the Republican party has—it always offers men of such character that no mistake will be made in selecting any one of them.—Greensburg Review.

It was to be expected that the Republicans of Indiana would make of their regular biennial love feast an occasion of enthusiastic endorsement of their leader, the Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, for the nomination for president. That fact is just now uppermost in the minds of the Republican lost of the state, and nothing more certain than that it should find fitting expression in the speeches, in the resolutions and in the heart-to-heart talks of the hundreds of party leaders assembled on this occasion.—Kokomo Tribune.

When Governor Hanly presented the resolution endorsing Vice President Fairbanks as Indiana's choice for president it aroused an enthusiasm not easily allayed and which made it quite apparent that the Republicans of the state are in earnest in their support of our candidate.—Newcastle Courier.

The Fairbanks boom having received the enthusiastic endorsement of the Republicans of Indiana in love feast duly assembled, may now be said to be officially launched. From this time on every Hoosier has a standing invitation to get behind and boost for the state's favorite son.—Crawfordsville Journal.

The Indiana Republicans indicated at their love feast Thursday that they were most earnestly and enthusiastically for Charles Warren Fairbanks, Indiana's distinguished son and now vice president for president. Dr. Ben L. Bruner, the young and good-looking Republican recently elected secretary of state in Kentucky, made one of the happiest speeches of the convention. He said Kentucky Republicans had taken Indiana Republicans for a pattern and had begun to do things in the Old Blue Grass state. To show their gratitude to Vice President Fairbanks for what he did for them in their recent campaign they proposed to give him Kentucky's solid delegation, twenty-six in number, for president at Chicago next June. He proposed to do even better than that—they would carry the state for Fairbanks next November.—Greenfield Tribune.

At the Republican national convention to be held in Chicago June 16, Indiana will present the name of her honored son, Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, for the nomination as the party's candidate for president. He is not only one of Indiana's favorite sons, but among the nation's greatest men; strong in every element of his make-up, profoundly wise in the councils of his party and conservative to a degree that make him a safe director of all the nation's most important interests, both at home and abroad. The mantle of the matchless Teddy Roosevelt could fall on no more trusty shoulders, and the people in every state are fast coming to a realization of this fact. As Indiana knows her trusted vice president, so the nation is just coming to realize his merit. Indiana is for him and the government would be absolutely safe in his hands.—Covington Republican.

SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE

Effect of Indiana's Endorsement of Fairbanks Far Reaching.

In view of the discordant elements with which presidential candidates in other states are compelled to deal, the unanimity of sentiment for Mr. Fairbanks among Indiana Republicans is certain to attract profound and universal attention. The testimonial given him at the Republican love feast in Indianapolis on Thursday is a significant and pregnant tribute to his worth as a man and a statesman. It is also a political fact whose effect upon the country at large would be hard to over-estimate.

Individual ambitions and differences of opinion are as strong and varied in Indiana as in other states. Why, then, do Indiana Republicans agree so unanimously and heartily in the choice of their presidential preference? The reason is that they know their man and have confidence in him. The qualities that have elevated him to one exalted position after another are those that fit him for higher honors. They are wisdom, ability, judgment, poise and unswerving fidelity. Joined to this is a spirit of broad fair-mindedness and catholicity of charity which wins the respect and even affection of political opponents as well as of friends.

All men are not alike. One man's way of carrying on the new policies of the Republican party and of the nation is not another man's way. The principles we follow are the same; but individuals vary in habit, in temperament, in method. It is the belief of Indiana Republicans, and it is a belief which they have faith the Chicago convention when it meets will share, that the best man to lead the party and the nation in the completion of the task so well begun and but partly done, is he whose unswerving fidelity of soul, whose calm devotion to duty, whose conservative regard for whole some precedent and tradition, whose perfect poise of judgment and of character pre-eminently fit him for the task.—Indianapolis Star.

The friends of Mr. Fairbanks have long been at work preparing the way for an active canvass. Meanwhile the course of events has tended more and more to direct attention to Mr. Fairbanks' candidacy. His dignity and poise of character, his soundness of judgment, his long experience in the councils of the nation, his conservative attitude, combined with his recognition of the necessity of steadily carrying forward the work of business regeneration, are some of the qualities that are causing people in all parts of the country to see in him a worthy successor to President Roosevelt. With the Republicans of Indiana united and enthusiastic in his support, we look to see a rapid growth of sentiment in his behalf throughout the country.—Indianapolis News.

GENTLEMEN:

We the undersigned party on your "homeseekers" excursion of Dec. 17th, 1907, want to express to you our appreciation and at the same time thank you and compliment you on the completeness of the arrangements by which we have had such an enjoyable and comfortable trip all the time from the time we left Chicago, until we were ready to leave for home including our trip over land, to inspect the land you have for sale.

We had been told of this central Texas land by your workers and thought we had a fair idea of what we would see when we got to the land, but many of us were favorably disappointed and all of us thoroughly pleased with the land, believing it is well adapted to diversified farming such as we are accustomed to in Illinois and Indiana. We are satisfied that a man with the energy manifested in the northern farmer, exerted in this country, very profitable results can be obtained.

Some of us have purchased land, others must complete arrangements for the purchase, before we are able to buy, but we all recommend this territory to all intending purchasers for we find a delightful climate, splendid water at a shallow depth, plenty of rain fall, building material much cheaper than where we now live, fuel very reasonable, costing $2.12 for the best of coal per ton, school facilities are good, rural mail delivery and telephone services at your command.

Your Pullman Palace private car enables the "homeseeker" to travel in perfect ease, without being jostled and crowded as is common on regular excursions, and to all intending purchasers, we want to recommend that they go with the South and West Land Company, and see as we believe the best land to be obtained in the great State of Texas. Again thanking you we are

Very truly

In corset comfort, style and wear, a superior article is always in demand. Spirella conforms to all movements of the body. It is the most comfortable, unbreakable stay yet produced. It being sufficiently strong gives all the support that is consistent with hygiene and good health. The rigid unyielding corset which supports the body in an armorlike fashion is never healthful. What every lady needs in a corset, is a garment to fit her form perfectly, and give her grace and style which nature intended she should. Call, let Mrs. G. W. How to Cure Your Piles

If sufferers from piles and rectal diseases would first try a reliable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin instead of using external salves and suppositories, or having an operation performed, they would save themselves a world of trouble, expense and pain. The reason is that in nine cases out of ten piles are the result of habitual constipation, and when once the constipation is thoroughly cured the piles disappear.

Piles are to constipation what pimples are to bad blood, simply an outward symptom. And just as face lotions aren't half as good for pimples as a good blood medicine, so salves and suppositories aren't half as good for piles as a reliable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

A 50 cent or $1 bottle will prove these claims, and every druggist is authorized to guarantee results. Hundreds of people have written us that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best pile cure they know of, and it is surely worth a trial from you. Not only will it cure the piles but it will permanently correct bowel trouble so that you will have regular movements. It will tone the stomach and make digestion easy for you. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy for constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, flatulency, and all resultant troubles, such as piles, arising from disordered stomach, liver or bowels. Its gentle action and pleasant taste make it especially suited to children and all who are too weak to stand purgative waters, salts and gripping powders and tablets. A physic is not what pile sufferers need, but steady, easy bowel movements, and these can be obtained by the use of this wonderful remedy. It brings about a permanent home cure at a minimum of expense.

FREE TEST Those wishing to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin before buying can have a free sample bottle sent to their home by addressing the company.
