Three coaches have been set on the siding for the theatre party that will go to Lafayette on the milk train this evening. These may be occupied at any time, and should the weather be unfavorable, it may be convenient for many of the persons going to get into the train some time before the leaving hour.

C. A. Lee and family arrived here on the 11:04 train last night from Hiawatha, Iowa, where they have been living for the past six years. Mr. Lee has sold his farm there, and may decide to invest in land in this state or to engage in business in this locality. His farm in Kansas was too far away from good school facilities, and wishing to give his little daughters good school advantages he will look for a new location.

He is a son of Mrs. Katie Lee, and a brother of Walter Lee.

Gus Phillips accompanied his friend to Rensselaer last night and today at two o'clock went to Frankfort, where the company shows tonight. He does not expect to get home again until about Christmas, when it is probable the company will suspend for the holiday season.

The stone road work will probably be completed about next Wednesday, and Rensselaer and vicinity will have about the best stone streets and roads of any town on earth. About 75 per cent of the cost of the streets and roads has been paid to labor and the money has been spent right here in Rensselaer. As the river work will also soon suspend there will be a large number of men out of employment during the winter months, unless they go away to find it.

Uncle Simon Phillips was not feeling well enough to accompany the theatre party to Lafayette Tuesday evening, having caught a cold a few days before. He would have been one of the jolliest of the crowd could he have gone. But he is now in his 86th year and has to take the very best of care of himself. His two daughters, Mrs. Frank Vanatta and Mrs. S. S. Barnes, and their husbands, of Fowler, were on hand for the performance, and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips from here, thus making eight from the Phillips household.
