Dr. Zuech Leaves Wheatfield.

Dr. Lucius Zuech, who has been practicing medicine at Wheatfield for the past five years, has left that place and accepted an opportunity to study major surgery at Grace hospital, in Chicago. The doctor will leave his family at Wheatfield, but never expects to again take up his practice there. He is a splendid citizen and in every respect a fine man and during his years at Wheatfield he endeared himself to the people there and made many friends in Rensselaer and at other points where he has occasionally visited. He was enjoying the very best success at Wheatfield, and left there with considerable reluctance, but the leading surgeon in the Grace hospital, who has been acquainted with Dr. Zuech for several years, impressed on him that he should take up the surgical branch of his profession and gave him a fine opening at that hospital and the doctor thought it too good a chance to let slip. He arranged with another doctor to take up the practice at Wheatfield, but the new doctor did not stay, and at present the town is without a physician. As it is a town of 500 or more and there is some fine agricultural country there it will be a good field for some doctor.

The people of Wheatfield are said to have taken the doctor's departure very much to heart, and the most general regret prevailed at his departure.

HERE'S A RINGER FOR

WARREN SPRINGER.

Chicago Judge Grills Him Severely and in Reversing Decision He Charges Springer With Fraud.

Warren Springer, owner of the big Springer ranch near Knitman, was handed a hot one by Justice Adams, of the appellate court in Chicago Monday. Springer is an extensive land owner in this county and is quite well known in Rensselaer. The following account is taken from the Chicago Tribune, which also published Springer's picture:

Justice Adams, of the Appellate court, in an opinion filed yesterday, grilled Warren Springer, a real estate dealer, in reversing judgment in a suit by Gertrude A. Kouehle against Springer for damages. The lower court instructed the jury to find for Springer. Justice Adams, in reviewing the case, said:

"The evidence discloses a deliberate, premeditated, malicious, and cunningly devised scheme by the defendant, Springer, and his confederates, to defraud, by means of the worthless notes of an insolvent person, unsecured by anything of value, any person whom they could induce to purchase the notes or take them in payment for anything of value, and the plaintiff fell a victim to this scheme. The fraud, beside being proved by the plaintiff's evidence, is impliedly admitted by the defendant's failure to produce any evidence in contradiction of it."

In 1897 the plaintiff and her husband were living at 4727 St. Lawrence avenue. Each owned a half interest in Council Bluffs (Ia.) property valued at $18,000 and incumbered for $3,500. Mrs. Kouehle also owned 36 acres of farm land at Merrill, Wis., incumbered for $3,500.

Her husband, acting as her agent listed the Wisconsin property for sale with a man named Silver, a real estate broker known to Springer. The latter visited Kouehle and said he would effect a trade for the farm land. Kouehle was to receive $4,000 face value mortgage notes on property at 588 Monroe street in return. The Monroe street property was represented as worth $100,000 and having an annual rental value of $9,000.

Before making the trade Kouehle was introduced to a man who said he represented a Methodist church fund and had $400,000 to loan, and that he was ready to buy the mortgage notes for cash from Kouehle.

After signing an agreement for the trade Kouehle learned that the notes were without value. He brought suit in Wisconsin and recovered that property, and his wife then filed action in the Superior court to recover damages from Springer.

From the evidence offered the court it appears that Kouehle was taken to Silver's office, where he was introduced to a man named Baddeaux, who said that he was willing to produce a person that would pay cash for the mortgage notes. Baddeaux introduced one McKinnon, who said that he represented "the Methodist church fund" and was willing to buy the notes if Kouehle had them with him. Kouehle hadn't the notes, but gave John E. Maginnis, brother-in-law of Springer, a warranty deed for the Wisconsin property.

Kouehle then obtained the mortgage notes and went to Silver to obtain cash for them. Silver referred him to Baddeaux, who referred him to McKinnon. The latter declined to cash the notes on the ground that he had learned they were secured only on the leasehold of the building.

GOOD COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher, of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For Sale by B. F. Fendig.

Popular Vote for Superintendents.

Representative J. G. Harris, of Bloomington, who will represent Monroe and Brown counties in the next legislature, will introduce a bill for the election of the county superintendents of schools by popular vote instead of the township trustees, as at present.

"I can see no reason," said Mr. Harris, "why the people should not be permitted to vote for the county superintendent the same as for any other office. If they are capable of electing a good man for county treasurer or county auditor it seems that they could likewise select an efficient man to manage their schools."

"In many instances the campaigns of those who are seeking the office of trustee are managed by those who are after the county superintendent's place. Often the expenses of a candidate for trustee are paid by the candidate for county superintendent. It seems to me that it would be much better to let the people vote."
