The Iroquois Ditch Case.

The Iroquois ditch case will probably not be decided before next Tuesday or Wednesday. It had first been Judge Hanley's intention to give his decision next Monday, but G. A. Williams, who was the attorney for the petitioners, was about used up as a result of his labors in the interest of his clients the past two or three weeks and thought a little rest would do him good and he has gone to Carthage, Ill., to remain until next Tuesday or Wednesday and the decision will probably not be made public until his return.

Both sides feel quite confident of victory and it is impossible to say and would be imprudent to risk a guess on the outcome of the case.

Does your friend smoke? A box of good cigars from the Home Grocery would be suitable.

Gave Free Wood a Bell.

Freeman Wood and bride arrived here Monday morning from Monticello, where their wedding took place Sunday evening at the Christian church. The Monticello Journal gives an account of the wedding, stating that the church was crowded with people who wanted to witness the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Taylor, who were married only three weeks ago, and spent the day there, while they were completing the furnishing of their own home. At about 8 o'clock in the evening a great crowd of men and boys gathered at the home of Mr. Taylor and employed various methods of noise making, using cow bells, rifles and shot guns. They kept up a din for a half hour or more before Free put in an appearance and made a nice little speech, stating that he would go down town and get some cigars and candy and meet them at his own home. The crowd then adjourned to his residence and later Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Wood came over and when Free got back from town with his arms full of cigar boxes and candy bags, the doors of the house were thrown open, the cigars and candy deposited on the center table and a moving procession started, the involuntary guests entering the dining room and going into the parlor and around the center table and out of the parlor door. About 200 were served, each wishing Mr. and Mrs. Wood a happy and prosperous life and he in return thanking them for calling and inviting them to come back. As Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were so recently married they were made a party to the charivari, and the entire affair was a very enjoyable one and the hosts and hostesses as well as the uninvited guests seemed to enjoy it.

Rensselaer now has two very estimable colored couples, the husbands being industrious and thrifty and the wives being good looking and commanding well recommended as excellent colored women.

The increase in the alien population of the United States in the year ending September 30, last, was only 6,298. According to Secretary Straus, 724,112 foreigners came to this country in the years between October 1, 1907, and September 30, last, but during the same period 717,814 foreigners left our shores for their own countries.

Don't Be a Goat.

An Indianapolis dispatch says:

"There is a movement on foot among democratic members of the legislature to get the republicans to take the initiative in bringing about a repeal of the county local option law, if it is repealed at all. Some of the democratic members of the house are behind the scheme."

It is related by an ancient writer named Aesop that a fox once fell in a well. To extricate himself he invited a goat who peered curiously into the well to come down and take a drink.

He said the water was the most delicious he ever tasted. The goat leaped down, and the fox, using the goat's horns for a ladder, sprang out of his ugly predicament. The goat then appealed to the fox to help him out, but the fox jeeringly replied, "If you had half as much brains as you have beard you would have looked before you leaped."

Moral: Republicans should not let their whiskers outgrow their gray matter during the coming session.—Monticello Herald.
