THE LASALLE.

"A Gentleman From Mississippi", a five-reel picture of Thomas A. Wise's drama, is an American gentleman serving his country as senator, will be shown at the Lasalle theater today. It is said the characters are good, especially Sen. Langdon, who is played by Wise himself and who is a typical, old-style, gallant southern gentleman, owner of a cotton plantation 40 miles from a railroad station. And the flavor of these characters is about the same as in the original production.

This means that the picture has a dozen interesting studies of types. The story, too, should be good to play. The story is particularly entertaining and the picture has been able to develop those portions of it that the stage could only suggest, the scenes in the home town, the senator's cotton fields, the Mississippi steamboat, etc.

It is said the acting is worthy. There is nothing lacking in the work of those who portray the nine chief roles, although there is an especial flavor to Tom Wise's old senator. Nearly all the lesser roles are also well taken. The backgrounds are southern scenes, actual and convincing, scenes in Washington, that of course are actual and interiors.

This is the real Thomas A. Wise that played at the Auditorium in stock a few months past.

"Trapped in a Closet" is a Sterling comedy that will help fill out the day's bill.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The Auditorium has a splendid bill on for today, the first of the Strand war series, showing scenes at the battle of Louvain and others of interest.

"Post No Bills," an Edison comedy; "The Wise Detective" and "A Six Foot Romance," two Lubin comedies; Mary Pickford in a Biograph reissue entitled "The Narrow Road" and "Blood Ruby," a two-reel Vitagraph drama, featuring Maurice Costello are on the program.

Sent out west to the ranch of wealthy James Warner to make a man of himself, Hugh Barton, a reckless young fellow, sinks back into his old habits and schemes with Grotz, a crooked jeweler, to secure an almost priceless blood ruby, in a ring belonging to Mrs. W. H. Hall. The crook makes a clever imitation of the stone, they get Warner intoxicated and Hugh steals the ring. He then places the imitation jewel in the coat of Bob Carr, Warner's foreman.

When it is found on Carr, he is accused of the robbery, convicted and sent to prison. Dr. Von Ruttan, a philanthropist, becomes interested in Carr's case, refuses to let him go to prison and takes care of Carr's motherless child. Meanwhile Grotz and Hugh sell the genuine ruby to Heinrich Von Ruttan, a collector of precious stones, and who happens to be a cousin of the doctor.

Warner visits New York, meets the doctor and tells him the stone he is wearing and which was found in Carr's pocket is a fake one and when Heinrich comes to view the doctor discovers the real ruby on his finger. Carr is released from prison and Grotz and Hugh are located and arrested.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

The new musical comedy company at the Majestic has attained wide popularity during the short time it has been here. The clean cut methods of the producer, W. H. Hall, and the capital comedy bills presented thus far have been decidedly entertaining. On Thursday a laughable Irish farce, "O'Grady's Reception", will be the bill. Dialect character songs including "Dublin Town", "The Irish Tango" and the latest war song, "Now I'll Raise An Army of My Own", will be prominent features. Nellie Patterson, Emily Miller and other attractive girls of the company will introduce original singing and dancing specialties. Owing to the disbandment of "The Elephants" and "The Girls of My Dreams", two of the musical comedies which recently played at this Oliver, several new additions will be made to the Majestic company beginning Sunday, when a new bill will be presented and the new people introduced to Majestic patrons.

AT THE COLONIAL.

Continuing its policy of two acts of vaudeville and four reels of motion pictures, the Colonial finishes the last half of this week with a strong bill of attractions. The orchestra, the girls, the Alpine singers and musicians created such a favorable impression the first part of the week that they have been retained. Another entertaining act of unusual merit is the harmony singing of Thompson, Cooper and Thompson, a trio of colored harmony singers. De Koven Thompson, the principal soloist of the act, enjoys the distinction of being the composer of "I Forget", an operatic ballad that has been sung and featured more often than the "Song of Schumann-Hook", the grand opera star. Both of Thompson's associates in the trio work are skilled entertainers and vocalists of ability. Their program at the Colonial will be original and entertaining. Four feature films will be shown in connection with the vaudeville acts. Today Francis X. Bushman the popular photoplay star, will be seen in a two reel production.

THE SURPRISE.

"Boy" in two reel Edison where a child's influence saves two souls, will be shown at the Surprise theater today. Moran, blind to ambition, has been a long standing friend of Widow Casey. In this way Moran likes the widow but his strongest affection is for the little boy. The boy in turn cherishes the man's friendship and the knife which the man has given him. Time comes when the widow and Moran quarrel. To rid herself of him she leaves with the boy, hoping to find a living in some other place.

But instead of kindness and work, the widow finds rebuffs and hunger. Of a night she faints of weakness in the roadway. The boy hauls a strange man to aid her, the mother is carried into a tenement. "Boy" shortly afterward remembers his knife which he has left in the old home, he asks to return and find it. He is roughly received by the widow and her new found friend. The story runs on and proves to be unusually interesting. A Sterling comedy will be shown called "in And Out".

AT THE ORPHEUM.

The new bill of vaudeville which at the Orpheum, beginning Thursday, is a well arranged show enlivened by many comedy novelties. J. C. Nugent & Co. in a laughing sketch "The Regular" is featured. Nugent is an exceptionally clever comedian. He has a new line of comedy patter and the act is one that will please. Jarrow, billed as the talkative trickster, furnishes a novel entertainment including new songs and burlesque magic, grotesquely performed.

Sweetheart Points Revolver at Her. Pulls Trigger and She Falls Over Dead.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 14.—Miss Casey Fanning, 18, is dead today as the result of a playful attempt on the part of her sweetheart, Arthur Tempkin, to frighten her with an "unloaded" revolver. Tempkin and Albert Pruitt were calling upon Miss Fanning and her sister. Pruitt had a revolver, which was passed around after the cartridges had been removed.

A short time later Pruitt secretly replaced the cartridges and when Tempkin asked for the gun to scare his sweetheart Pruitt attempted to mention that it was loaded. When

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

Keep a little powdered delatone handy and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, then spread over hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes rub on until the skin and hair is entirely free from hair or blemish. This simple treatment is unfailing, but care should be exercised to be sure and get genuine delatone, otherwise you may be disappointed.

Miss Fanning re-entered the room with a pitcher of water. Tempkin pointed the gun at her and pulled the trigger, and the girl fell dead. The young men were exonerated by a coroner's jury.

To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. "A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

World Film Offers Five-Reel Picture of Thomas A. Wise's Drama of an American Gentleman Serving His Country as Senator. Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

It is safe to say that no one regretted paying the admission price to see Thomas Wise in that dandy play of his, "A Gentleman From Mississippi." The picture of the play, a five-reel offering and the third of the Brady plays, it has the good characters, especially Senator Langdon, who is played by Wise himself, and who is a typical, old-style, gallant southern gentleman, owner of a cotton plantation 40 miles from a railroad station. And the flavor of these characters is about the same as in the original production. This is a big point—it means that the picture has a dozen interesting studies of types. Then it also has the story told by the play, or enough of it to be very interesting. The story is particularly entertaining and the picture has been able to develop those portions of it that the stage could only suggest—the scenes in the home town, the senator's cotton fields, the Mississippi steamboat, etc. The story told is clear enough and most of it is every bit as clear and as effective as in the stage play, and the story here is the thing.

The acting is worthy. There is nothing lacking in the work of those who portray the nine chief roles, although there is an especial flavor of Tom Wise's dear old senator. Nearly all the lesser roles are also well taken. The backgrounds are southern scenes, actual and convincing; scenes in Washington, that of course are actual and interiors. All amply explain and interpret the story and all are excellently photographed. A real old southern mansion was chosen to be the Langdon home. A real cotton field is the background chosen to show how he looks after his negro help. Some southern village serves as background for the political parade when Langdon is nominated as senator—in Mississippi that means elected. When the parade reaches the house of the senator there is a touch of way-back southern humor in the persuasion of Langdon to take the nomination—the community points its revolver—fifty of 'em—at him and he accepts with hands up.
