400 AUTO MECHANICS WANTED FROM INDIANA

Four hundred automobile mechanics or repair men for the aviation section of the signal corps are wanted from Indiana by March 8 for service at Kelly aviation field, San Antonio, Tex., according to notices received Monday morning by local draft boards. Men with the necessary qualifications who are within the draft may enlist through their local board, but if the quota is not filled by the above named date by voluntary induction, boards are instructed to induct a sufficient number from their lists of men in class one to fill the required quota.

In session last night, Maj. Balzell, U. S. R., stationed at Indianapolis, states that this call is a part of the general requisition made by Gen. Pershing and is one of the most attractive assignments in the service. "I firmly believe," says Maj. Balzell, "that Indiana will fill this quota by next Friday, March 8, and that it will not be necessary to draft men to fill any part thereof. I have confidence in the patriotism of the registrants of Indiana to such a degree that I know they will respond voluntarily."

The following 52 men of class one have been called by local board No. 1 for examination next Thursday: William G. Treason, Herman Glaser, Jay C. Norris, Charles Ora Morris, Henry P. PATRIOTISM MUST MAKE SELF FELT M'Intosh Tells C. of C. Audience Social Mind Must be Impelling Force.

"Patriotism in America must make itself felt, forced into activity, and the social mind must be the impelling force," declared Dr. George McIntosh, president of Wabash college, addressing the Chamber of Commerce noon luncheon Monday.

Dr. McIntosh was sent here by the Indiana state council of defense. "The government," he said, "can conscript men for the army and navy, and by taxation conscript certain of our earnings and war products, but there is a branch of the service that calls for our help as free moral agents, and the conscripting force back of that must be the social mind." In this particular attention to the providing of labor for the farmer, encouraging the boys' working reserve, and placing particular stress upon retired farmers whom he asserted should go back to their farms with their experience at last.

"The retired farmer is a good business man or he could never have retired," Dr. McIntosh, "and there are lots of them from 50 to 70 years of age who can be of great service to the country with their minds, and some of them also with their hands." He called attention to the work being done by the older men of England and France and even by the women, and they are our allies," he said. "If the worst comes we may have to do the same here in America."

The dinner was one of the largest attended in several weeks. Five new members were reported.

LOCAL MUSICIANS WIN PRAISES IN CHICAGO

Mr. and Mrs. Max Miranda of this city appeared recently in a joint recital before the Chicago Culture club in the gold room of the LaSalle hotel at Chicago. That the couple possesses much ability which was greatly appreciated by the audience, was the opinion expressed in an article published in the Music News. The Music News states in part:

"Mrs. Miranda, who until her marriage last June served on the faculty of the Northwestern University School of Music, and who has been heard frequently and with much favor in concert work, gave three groups of solos, and by her charm of manner and the artistic usage of a sympathetic soprano voice made a distinctly fine impression. Delicacy of tone and much finesse were observed in the 'Praeludium' (Bach), which opened the program, and the 'French Game' songs, in which Mrs. Miranda has been so successful, and which she interpreted with such admirable skill on this occasion, were highly appreciated by the audience. 'Les Baisers' (Buzzi-Pecora) was graceful and characteristically finished in outline in this artist's hands. 'What's in the Air Today' formed a delightful encore, which Mrs. Miranda was forced to add."

"Mr. Miranda was heard in 'Praeludium' (Oldberg) and 'En Courant' (Godard) and also took part in an encore. These numbers required a facile technique, delicacy to touch and cleverness in management of dynamics, and these demands Mr. Miranda met with decided success. As an accompanist he proved to be resourceful, sympathetic and a broadly developed musician."

CARRIER GUILTY ON OWN TESTIMONY IN GAMBLING CASE

policeman came in, and told Wurz he was arrested. He took Wurz away with him, and we went on playing, because we hadn't been playing for money, and we knew we had a right to play cards. Then in about 15 minutes the policeman came back, and said he wanted me, too. I talked to Tony, and he said he would go to the station with me. Then Barrett put up the $50 for my appearance in court."

When asked why he did not appear in court when the case was set, Carrier explained, "Well, the next morning I went over to see Tony, and asked him what I should do. He called up Cassidy, and Cassidy told him that he (Cassidy) would have the case continued. So Tony said I wouldn't have to come down to court. I had been working in Chicago, making about $8 per day, and I wanted to get back to work. I thought if the case was going to lay over for any length of time I could come back cheaper than be out of work."

"Tony said he could go, and that he would let my mother know if I was wanted. I told mother to write me at Chicago, so that I could come back to South Bend. I never got any message to come."

"Then, about six weeks later, I came back for a visit. I was in Ed. Coffey's saloon, and Ed saw me. 'You'd better get out of town,' he told me. 'The police are looking for you.' I didn't know what they could want me for, so I came down here to the sergeant's desk and ask him if he had a warrant for me. He looked through the records and said no. So then I started to leave, and as the door I met Officer Hamilton. He told me to go back, that I was wanted for jumping bonds. So then they locked me up. They wouldn't let me use the telephone. 'My mother heard that I had been arrested, so she came down and talked to Cassidy. Cassidy called up Barrett and told him that it was his fault that I hadn't been in court, because he had agreed to let me know, and then hadn't done so. Barrett said he didn't want to prosecute me for jumping the bond, so Cassidy let me go. Barrett never asked me to pay him the $50 he had lost."

"It wasn't long after that that the police patrol came out to my mother's house. I wasn't there, but they left word to have me call. When I got back, I telephoned Cassidy, and he said he wanted me to come down here the next morning. He didn't say what he wanted, but I came."

"The attorney then asked Carrier to tell what had been going on in the Barrett place on the night of the raid. Carrier replied that there had been no gambling, that they had been playing 'rhum.' He testified that to his knowledge, the Barrett establishment had a reputation of being a gambling house. It was on this statement that Gilmer found him guilty of frequenting a gambling house. He testified, knowing it had a reputation for being a gambling house," declared the judge.

In passing judgment, Judge Gilmer said he "could not understand why the policeman brought in only three men, when there were, according to the officer's testimony, at least 18 men in the room." The men who were arrested last Friday night were also commented on by the judge.

Y. M. C. A. TO GIVE DINNER TO LEADERS IN PAST CAMPAIGNS

A dinner, complimentary to all those who secured 12 or more points in the membership campaign last October, will be given by the Y. M. C. A. next Monday night. A. watch fobs will be presented to the men with the highest number of points in the contest, and five silver Y. M. C. A. pins will be presented to the five next highest.

A new campaign for members will be started at the dinner. More than 100 men will participate.

TWO NEW CASES OF SMALLPOX REPORTED

Following the reporting of two more cases of smallpox Monday morning, a hurried meeting of the city health commissioners was called at the mayor's office in an effort to adequately care for the situation before it assumes serious proportions.

The cases reported Monday are Fred Sanders, 295 Pugin st., and Joseph Zeleny, 332 N. Hill st. This makes four cases in all that have been reported since Saturday, although one case, that of J. C. Peel, 117 N. Birdsell st., has been known to the health authorities for two weeks. The case reported Saturday is that of Kenneth Kahn, 334 W. Lassalle av.

FORGER BOUND TO CIRCUIT COURT

Admits Issuing Counterfeit Check—Accuses Agent of Keeping Money.

On his plea of guilty, Lester Van Gundy, charged with forging a check for $25, was bound over to the circuit court by Judge Gilmer in city court Monday morning. Van Gundy forged the name of Hilton Hammond to the check. Bond was fixed at $500.

H. J. Perkins, proprietor of a local transfer line, was arraigned on a charge of petit larceny, registered by Rose Lisiecki. Perkins declared that the woman had given him $12 with which to order goods from Chicago, and that since the goods had not arrived promptly, she had accused him of keeping the money and failing to order the goods. The case was continued several days to find out whether the goods would come from Chicago.

John Garczynski, who admitted that he was carrying a concealed weapon, was fined $100 and costs, and committed to the penal farm upon his failure to pay.

James Ameigh declared that in spite of his efforts he could not get his children to school, and was fined $1 and costs for failing to send his children to school, which sentence was suspended. He promised the court to personally escort his children to the school house each morning.

A trial by jury will be given to-night at 7:30 o'clock to the 45 men arrested in a raid on the American club on S. Chapin st., a week ago. All the men will be tried together, instead of separately, as was first decided.

HARVARD DEAN SAYS WE'RE DESCENDED FROM LIZARD, NOT MONKEY
International News Service:—HARVARD, Mass., March 4.—Comes now Prof. Edward Hickey Bradford, dean of the Harvard Medical school and declares right out loud that we are descendants of the lizard. The monkey theory is all wrong. Darwin deceived us, says Dr. Bradford. We came originally from the lizard, even unto the cows and chickens. And the monkeys are only our cousins. But until it is established in what order the offspring of prehistoric days broke away from the main family, we will be in the dark as to whether the monkey is our first or 47th cousin, says Dr. Bradford.

International News Service:—GREEN CASTLE, Ind., March 4.—The fate of the American army in Europe hangs in the balance and if the Germans break through the west front they will cut the allies' lines of communication, take the combined fleets of England, France and Germany and land troops on our shores in 50 days, surround our munition factories in the east and overwhelm all the bromstick armed soldiers.
