

Call Special Conference Before Trial in Mays Case

COURT HEARING SET FOR FRIDAY

While Comiskey, Frazee and Ruppert Call Special Meeting for Thursday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—At the request of attorneys representing President Johnson of the American league, counsel for the New York club agreed Monday to postpone until Friday of arguments on the motion to make permanent a temporary injunction restraining Johnson from depriving the Yankees of the services of pitcher Carl Mays. Argument was to have been heard tomorrow.

President Comiskey of the Chicago club, Frazee of Boston and Ruppert of New York, at a conference here Monday decided to call a special meeting of the board of directors for Thursday, the day before the court argument will be heard. They constitute three-quarters of the directorate of which Johnson is a member and ex-officio. The Mays case will be considered in all its aspects at this special meeting.

Col. T. T. Houston, half owner of the New York American league club will attend the conference. After these four and their advisers had been in session for several hours they gave out the following statement:

Call Special Meeting.
"In view of the fact that the president of the league and the other clubs did not attend this conference, which was called for the purpose of avoiding litigation and in the welfare of baseball the majority of the directors of the league, exercising their constitutional power have issued a call for a special meeting of the board next Thursday. The meeting, it was explained, was called 'for the purpose of considering and taking action in the matter of the alleged action of the president of the league in purporting to suspend player Carl Mays and for the purpose of considering and taking action in the matter of the relation of the president of the league to the league and the board of directors, and considering the management of the affairs of the offices of president of the league by its incumbent.'"

Johnson May Attend.
"Mr. Byron B. Johnson, the president, secretary, treasurer, and a director of the league, is especially requested to attend the meeting, signed by Comiskey, Frazee and Ruppert."
President James C. Dunn of the Cleveland club, who was invited to attend today's session, is the other member of the board of directors and he was immediately notified of the call for Thursday's meeting. All the club owners seemed to be pleased with the result of their day's work here, although none of them would say what was expected to be accomplished at the coming meeting of the directors.

"I think we will be able to straighten out the whole thing," said Mr. Comiskey. "In my opinion Mr. Johnson has no right to suspend Mays. There was no complaint made against the pitcher by the Boston club or any one else and the president had no cause to interfere with him."

SLUGGING MATCH GOES TO CLEVELAND OUTFIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Cleveland won a hard hitting seesaw game from New York here Monday for a score of 15 to 11. The Yankees drove Bagby, one of the Cleveland star pitchers, out of the box for the second time during the series, without being able to win. Cleveland tied the score in the fifth, knocking out Quinn when Smith's home run followed Speaker's sacrifice. Cleveland then knocked out Quinn in the seventh and scored five runs on five hits and three bases on balls. Score:

Trap Gun and Rod by Tom Marshall

The World's Premier Shooting Classic! The 27th Grand American Handicap, will be held in Chicago on the grounds of the South Shore Country club, Aug. 11-15, 1914. Never has such a galaxy of shooting talent been assembled as will show in this tournament, commencing tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and running through the day. Additional "pop" has been tossed into the sport which is now declared the major sport of America—by the return of 4,000,000 of Uncle Sam's boys, who have been intensively trained to shoot and handle guns. Many have been training at their home gun clubs to successfully negotiate with the elusive and rapid flying "tar-bawks" as they are most fittingly through the air.

The World's war is now history, return receptions have been given, hand-shaking and cordial welcomes are comparatively over, our dough-boys, gobs and bird men are now hunting a line of diversion and naturally turn to trapshooting, in which sport they have been successfully trained. Interest in shooting as has developed in the Grand American Handicap, this year. Military authorities concede that shooting, both rifle and scatter-gun, should be encouraged and promoted by the American populace. Gen. Pershing insists that "ability to accurately shoot and correctly handle firearms, constitutes 70 per cent soldier efficiency." America must encourage the formation of a 70 per cent efficient standing army of trapshooters, to be continuously maintained, without a dollar of overhead expense to our nation.

Many Experts to Be Present.
Expert wing shots from every state in the union, will be present and start at the 1914, G. A. H. Men who are self elected, based upon their ability to win, in elimination contests, where the slogan is "Survival of the fittest." A hundred bird race, shot under the same conditions in every state, entitles the winner to claim the championship of his home state, defraying his traveling expenses into Chicago, where he is scheduled as a contestant in the American Amateur Championship race to be shot on Aug. 13.

New Pilot for Association.
After a period of 28 consecutive years, under the management of Oliver E. Shaner, the American Trapshooting association, arrives with a new pilot. Permit me to introduce Stoney McLean, who makes his initial bow, to America's trapshooters, as master of ceremonies and director of performance, under the sobriquet of secretary-manager. To claim the championship of his home state, defraying his traveling expenses into Chicago, where he is scheduled as a contestant in the American Amateur Championship race to be shot on Aug. 13.

Every race carries an American championship for the ensuing year. The following are scheduled during the week: American amateur 18-yard championship. American professional championship. East-west team race. American amateur championship at double targets. Junior trapshooting championship. American amateur championship at single targets. Army and navy G. A. H. championship (soldiers, sailors and bird men to compete). Women's trapshooting championship. Grand American handicap, the premier event, will close the tournament. Thousands of contestants and shooting fans as spectators will be present. Traps are installed facing Lake Michigan, insuring a sky background, with an occasional cap full of wind. Conditions are ideal for high scores.

Public Is Invited.
Corridors of Congress hotel are now crowded with "shooting stars" from all quarters of the globe. South Shore grounds are gratefully opened to the general public, who should come and take advantage of the opportunity to see America's shooting wonders in action. Thousands of dollars have been added to the purses, elegant trophies will be awarded winners by the American Trapshooting association. Study forms and scores as you may, there is no chance to name a winner. Hazard your guess on possibilities. Favor favorites on form. Back your "unknown" off the boards. If you can gaze on the field and pick a winner, correctly calling the turn, you have Anna Eva Fay looking like a selling plaster.

Many former winners of the G. A. H. are present, who will make a fight for "come back honors" their experience of the past; when it was necessary to practice the art of swallowing, under intense excitement, makes the task less arduous, should occasion demand. Many of the fair sex are scheduled in active competition, appearing in every event. Women holding many state championships, won in the open field, are now striving for national honors. We will give a synopsis of the shoot, with names of winners.

Managers Kind to the Giants

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Some day mid-season trading of ball players in the major leagues will be limited in some manner to prevent occurrences like those of recent date in which John McGraw, by obtaining stars of other clubs, was able to so strengthen his Giants as to make the pennant race practically an assured victory for New York.

In obtaining Frank Snyder from the Cardinals, McGraw fortified himself with the best catching staff in the National league, which consists of Snyder, Gonzales, McCarty and Earl Smith. Snyder and Gonzales are the stars of the staff, and both were obtained from the Cardinals, who are left to battle their way along with Dillhoefer and Clemens, the latter only an ordinary receiver. When Fred Mitchell let McGraw have Phil Douglas in return for Robertson he supplied the very thing the Giants needed to win a pennant—a dependable pitcher to round out the staff. A left-hander would have been preferable, but he was unobtainable.

Gets Good Outfielder.
Mitchell got an outfielder rated as a star and the world knows he needed an outfielder. It is strange, though, that he couldn't have made the trade with the Cardinals, who have a supply of very fine fly-chasers and could spare one. Pitchers are the Cardinals' troubles and they could have used Douglas very handily. Schultz or McHenry would have been as acceptable to the Cubs as Robertson, who has been out of the game for some time and is fast entering the veteran class. He always has been unruly and Mitchell may yet rue the transaction in which he gave up a star pitcher to a club that figured to win a pennant with his assistance. The trade helped the Cub outfield, if one views it as a paper possibility, but it weakened the Cub pitching staff. The day previous to announcement of the trade, Douglas worked in the second game of a double header and shut out the heavy-hitting Dodgers. It has been a failing of National league clubs to trade stars for alleged needs when the Giants need strengthening. It isn't fair to the fans.
