

BRITON WITH HUMOR CARRIES CHAUTAUQUANS

Ada Ward Scores Hit With Stories and Sketches of World War.

Afternoon, 3 o'clock. Concert by the Harvesters company and lecture on "Community Health" by Miss Florence Bullard, Red Cross nurse.

Evening, 8 o'clock. Concert by the Harvesters company and lecture on "The New Competition" by R. E. P. Kline.

Who said that the Britishers have no sense of humor? Evidently the promoter of that propaganda had never heard Ada Ward, she prefers that the handle be dropped, who entertained first nighters at the opening of chautauqua Tuesday for an hour and a half with funny, really funny, human interest stories of her experiences in France as a "comic stunt" instead of the "Jean of Arc" of her dreams.

Miss Ward, whose home is in London, did concert work in France for two years, the dark years of 1915 and 16, her part of the stunt being to tell funny stories which she illustrated on her blackboard with clever caricatures. Her experiences there have dimmed her humor not at all and have given her a depth of feeling which makes it possible for her to summon in her audience tears or laughter as she wills.

Although Miss Ward comes to chautauqua mainly as a humorous entertainer she brings with her also an appeal, an appeal to "Get Together." In a dire way she pointed out the disasters which will result if the allies fail to get together, fail to hold high the torch bequeathed them by those who sleep in Flanders' fields.

Tells Pathetic Story.
A pathetic story of her first appearance in France, which was in a large hospital tent with wounded soldiers as an audience, is told by Miss Ward. One boy was brought near to the platform who was so bandaged that only one eye was visible. Yet bandaged and shattered as he was he managed to give her a wink with his one eye. In the same audience were two boys, one had lost his right arm and the other his left and they had arranged to sit together so that they might clap each other's remaining hand.

The soldiers didn't like her blackboard, Miss Ward said, when they first saw it, for they had blackboards before and they had not associated them with comic stunts. They thought they were going to learn something. So in order to win their confidence and assure them that she was not there for their good Miss Ward began her turn with some funny little stories and some quaint pictures—and when she turned to her blackboard and demonstrated chautauqua did not wonder that the Tommies wanted her to come again.

Pictures Soldier's Gratitude.
One of the funniest stories she told was in illustration of the gratitude of the soldiers. "Their gratitude for our work was pathetic," she said. "As to one of our concert a dear, big, shy boy came up to me in a mysterious embarrassed manner and said, 'Can I speak to yer for a minute, Miss?' Often the boys had made me the confidante of some little love affair and I thought it was going to happen again. But no. This one was different—so anxious to get me away from his comrades and from his fellow artists, and as length maneuvered me into a quiet corner behind the tent. Here he stood first on one foot, then on the other, while I waited ill at ease. Really I don't know which of the two of us looked sillier. Finally he blurted out: 'Well, are yer keepin' company with anybody?'"

Proceeding Miss Ward's lecture the orchestral concert, which presented the afternoon program, appeared in a short concert. As in the afternoon all of their numbers were well received. Besides the ensemble selections there were violin solos by Miss Irene Stolofsky, leader of the sextet, cello solos, a xylophone duet, a piano, violin and cello trio, and a piano-accompanist solo.

Miss Mary Smith who is to conduct the children's hour addressed the audience for a few minutes and explained that there would be no children's pageant this year but that beginning this morning she would entertain the children each day from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock.

FAILS TO EAT MEAL; HELD FOR VAGRANCY

A gentleman pan-handler from New York was a South Bend visitor Tuesday, spending the night at the city jail. The hobo who gave his name as George Williams asked for a hand-out at 117 E. Madison st. and was furnished with a good meal. The repeat evidently didn't suit, and George told the lady of the house to "eat it yourself." Detective Hamilton picked Williams up on a vagrancy charge. He was found to have $2.65 when he was searched.

REQUEST BOARD TO BUILD SCHOOL

Owners of Property Present Grievances Through Committee Asking Action.

Property owners on Oakland, Emerson, Clover and Thrush sts., including Mishawaka av., represented by a committee, presented a request to the school board at a meeting held Tuesday evening in the school administration building, urging the immediate erection of a school building in that district. D. H. Donalthen, the chairman of the committee, acted as the spokesman at the hearing and asserted that 35 children between 5 and 7 years were not attending school last year on account of poor accommodations in the Franklin school, and that no opportunity was afforded the children to receiving proper schooling in the River Park school.

The speaker further said that many children were unable to attend school in winter on account of the inclement weather and their absence from classes would result in a conflict with the truant officers. The children, according to Mr. Donalthen, were unable to brave the heavy winds and it was an impossible thing for them to cross the Sample st. bridge during winter months.

Demand Recognition.
The other members of the committee also presented their grievances to the school board, claiming that they were entitled to some recognition for their children since they were contributing toward the school fund by taxation.

As a solution of the problem, the committee notified the school board that it was willing to purchase the lumber for the erection of a portable school, provided the school officials would furnish the lease and equip the building for use in September.

Request is Denied.
William Clem, member of the board, responded to the requests of the committee and said that the desired location was not suitable for a school building. Admitting that conditions were bad in that district, Mr. Clem asserted that the school board could not grant the request at this time.

Members of the committee who attended the meeting were: William Roth, John Briley, Fred Baker, Frank Chattenden, Frank Redmond, Charles Roth, Bert Aeckels, Lauren Filbert, Jack Lind, Clyde Martin, Carl Thompson, Levi Kronwitt, John Brockus, Clarence Steckman, John Knight, Raymond Weed and D. H. Donalthen.

FINANCIAL STATE OF ELECTRIC LINES SERIOUS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Witnesses Tuesday before the federal electric railways commission were in agreement that the financial situation of the companies was serious and probably would grow worse because of rising costs and motor vehicle competition.

Remedies suggested ranged from the proposal of Mayor Cousins, of Detroit, for municipal ownership and operation of urban lines on the ground that they were a social problem, vital to the health and well-being of citizens, to suggestions by state utility commissions that revenues be increased. The commissioners represented were those of Indiana, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Johnson Favors Indians

While attorneys for the New York American League ball club arranged their scheme of battle against Ban Johnson in the controversy over Carl Mays, now stirring the baseball world, Colonel T. L. Huston, part owner of the Yankees, discharged another broadside against the American League president in the shape of a statement in which he charges Johnson with favoring the Cleveland Indians. Huston's statement follows: "The trouble is fundamental. We believe the president of the American League is interested in the Cleveland club. We are not going to attempt to prove this, but that is our belief and we believe it is the conviction of every club owner in the American League. Until this carbuncle is removed there can be no health in our league."
