IN OLD KENTUCKY.
Anita Stewart makes a startling leap on horseback over a broken bridge above a chasm, in a scene "In Old Kentucky" in which she appeared at the Auditorium yesterday. The bridge is a draw over a deep ravine, but it has been wrecked. In the story it is necessary for Miss Stewart to leap over this chasm in order to reach a man who is lying unconscious in the road far beneath her, where the villain has placed a dynamite bomb beneath him. The horse on which she is mounted at first refuses to make the jump, but she starts again and spurring it to the utmost speed, rides straight for the broken bridge. This thrilling scene is clearly shown in the picture, which is the story of an untutored girl, who, after risking her life for her friends in the mountains, goes to the city where she wins laurels for herself. Topics of the day were also shown. The bill is being repeated today.

OLIVER.
One of the most ludicrous situations ever filmed appears in Constance Talmadge's latest production, "In Search of a Sinner," which is running at the Oliver theater the forepart of this week. The situation takes place in the dining room of the Astor hotel, during a banquet headed Jack Garrison by the purity league. Sitting directly opposite Garrison, at another table is Georgiana Chadburne, played by Miss Talmadge, a charming young widow, who had previously tried to make him make love to her. He is presented with a loving cup by the chairman of the purity league, who terms him a "good man on a straight and narrow path" and as he rises to make his speech of acceptance, his eyes fall on Georgiana and he is speechless. The purity leaguers glare at the apparent vampire, take the cup away from Garrison and the banquet breaks up. Radcliffe Fellows plays the leading male role, that of Garrison. Continuous performances are given each day starting at one o'clock.

NIGHTIE NIGHT.
"Nightie Night," the hilarious farce comedy which will be presented by A. Klaubert (in association with the Seiwyns) due at the Oliver theater for one performance, Thursday, April 15th, comes directly with the original company from a record-breaking season's run at the Princess theater, where not only have the attendance records been broken, but according to Broadway critics, "Nightie Night" smashed all smile-per-minute records.

Francis Byrne plays the role of a misunderstood Billy Moffat, who makes the mistake of his life by offering to mend a wrist watch for his friend Trixie Lorraine, played by Suzanne Wills. The complications resulting from the watch, Trixie's pink pajamas and a tailor who keeps holidays religiously, are partly due to the unreasonable suspicion of Mollie Moffat, charmingly enacted by Dorothy Mortimer. Other members of the company are Malcolm Duncan, Marie Chambers, Grant Mills, Ruby Craven, Cyril Raymond and George W. Pierpont, Suzanne Wills and Oscar Knapp.

CLARENCE.
Booth Tarkington, the famous fiction writer and playwright, has added another play to his already brilliant list of dramatic successes. It is entitled "Clarence," and only last week finished a prosperous run of three months at the Blackstone theater, Chicago. Mr. George C. Tyler is the producer and manager of this attraction, and he has another "Clarence" company now playing at the Hudson theater, New York, where it has been holding forth all of the present season to capacity business. The identical company from Chicago will present "Clarence" at the Oliver theater on Saturday matinee and night.

LASALLE AND CASTLE.
Norma Talmadge's versatile talents are given full sway in her latest picture which was adapted from Wilkie Collins' widely-read story, "She Loves and Lies." In this amusing drama, she steps from youth to old age and back again with all the easy grace and artistry which distinguishes her every movement. Norma is a handsome person, and in this picture appears even more charming than ever. The story concerns itself with the efforts of a beautiful girl who assumes an elderly role in order to win the man she loves. The picture is the attraction at the LaSalle and Castle theaters three days, starting today.

ORPHEUM.
The current vaudeville bill at the Orpheum theater features Harry Sawyer's "League of Nations," a timely revue in miniature form. Claude Wynn, an entertainer of known ability, is featured. Lillian

Preserves Youth and Beauty

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, daughter of the late Colonel Roosevelt, who is a frequent spectator in the galleries of Congress.

Watson, who succeeds admirably in living up to the expectations created by her novel billing, "Little, But Oh My!" Keno, Keys and Melrose, comedy singers and dancers, Rose and Thorn, the Yale boy and the Swedish maiden, and Ella Lavall, round out the bill.

Heart Failure Causes

Death of Goshen Woman

GOSHEN, Ind., April 12.—Mrs. William O. Derby, 23, a graduate of Goshen high school, and a sister of Lawrence Leer of New Paris, a member of the lower branch of the Indiana general assembly, was found dead in the bath room at her home in Elkhart. Heart failure caused her death.

Half an hour after Mrs. Derby went to the bath room to wash clothing she was found dead by her husband, who is a sheet metal worker at the Crow auto plant in Elkhart. They were making preparations to attend a social event.

Mrs. Derby, whose maiden name was Nellie Leer, was born in New Paris. She was married to Mr. Derby February 23, 1918. Her husband was overseas with the United States troops.

WAWASEE LAKE MAY BE WITHOUT HOTEL IN SUMMER SEASON

GOSHEN, Ind., April 12.—Wawasee Inn at Lake Wawasee, destroyed by fire last fall, is not likely to be replaced this season. Indianapolis parties who had plans drafted for a large hotel to be built on the site of the long familiar inn, have allowed the option on the ground to expire and it is said the project may be entirely abandoned as the result of high prices for all kinds of building material and unreasonable demands made by organized labor in this section.

For more than a week carpenters have been in strike, demanding 85 cents an hour, a 50 hour week, time and one-half for overtime, double time for holidays and a closed shop. Contractors and union carpenters are as far apart as ever with no likelihood of an understanding being reached. Contractors say they will abandon any work on every project now under way in this city before they will yield to union demands. Under these circumstances Lake Wawasee is doomed to be without adequate hotel accommodations.

A story that abounds in pleasing romance and giving this delightful star an opportunity to play three distinct types—you'll like her.

This is the screen version of Wilkie Collins' famous novel and it has to do with the fortunes of a young and beautiful girl who is forced to masquerade as an ugly old woman and gain the sympathies of the man she loves, before he will marry her. With a fortune at stake, some exciting moments are promised the spectator before the delightful and romantic ending. Conway Tearle is the man in the case—and he's a handsome one, too.
