National City Planning Organization Will Consider Varied Subjects at Meet.

CINCINNATI, O., April 15.—Railroad terminal projects, the automobile congestion problem and the zoning system, will be the principal topics of discussion at the National City Planning conference which will be held in Cincinnati from April 19 to 22 inclusive.

The problems above mentioned have been debated and studied for years and the year's accumulation of material is expected to develop into a uniform course of action.

In conjunction with the conference there will be held a varied and extensive exhibit of city planning matter. The first day's session will be devoted to reports of progress made in city planning by the following cities: Newark, N. J.; Rochester, N. Y.; Detroit; Chicago; Pittsburgh; St. Louis; Flint, Mich.; and Kingsport, Tenn.

The problems of railroad terminals will be presented by Nelson W. Lewis, president of the conference and chief engineer of the city of New York. The other members of the railroad terminals committee are William J. Witus, chief engineer of the New York Central railway system; George E. Hooker of Washington; E. P. Goodrich, New York City and Charles B. Cheney, of Portland, Ore. Morris A. Black, of Cleveland, will be chairman of the third day session at which regional planning will be the chief topic. The report on the subject will be submitted by Frederick Olmstead, chairman of the committee having it in charge. Zoning also will be discussed on that day.
