Bride Claims Groom Sleeps in His Shirt and Collar

CHICAGO, April 21.—Mrs. Albert Ropp, 87-year-old bride, in a large picture hat rippling around her face, today told of her ruined romance and of her 52-year-old husband, a "terrible person who sleeps in his shirt and collar." Mrs. Ropp told the court of domestic relations that she married Ropp to reform him and limited his liquor allowance to half gallon of whiskey a week. "After I married him I tried to train him. But he said I was 'too durned stylish' and he insisted on sleeping in his shirt and collar. Finally he left me."

Overall "Designers" Give Ideas on Summer Styles

By United Press: DETROIT, Mich., April 21.—Overall styles for late spring and summer will be simple but in good taste, "designers" for local overall firms indicated today.

The sudden push of popularity for the erstwhile garb of the workman due to the national overall club movement will not affect the styles nor the material, the "chief designer" at the Mohawk Overall Co., said.

"We have too large a supply of made-up overalls on hand to justify any change in the style," he said. "The conventional blue will remain the leading color for overalls for some time. Of course khaki overalls are being manufactured in considerable numbers although the popularity of those among the usual wearer of the garments has waned since the close of the war."

Prices may rise slightly if the supply becomes short due to the increased demand, he said, but at present there is no reason for advances in price.

COAL DEPOSITS WILL SOON BE OPENED.

Sec'y of the interior Payne has approved rules and regulations for prospecting for and leasing of coal deposits under the act of congress, approved Feb. 25, 1920. The act provides for the disposition of all coal deposits owned by the United States, except in national parks, military and naval reservations and in the Appalachian forest reserve. The geological survey has classified 30,000,000 acres of public lands as containing deposits of coal and an area of 40,000,000 acres, part of which undoubtedly contains such deposits, is awaiting classification. The coal varies from low-grade lignite to a very high quality of bituminous coal. The regulations do not apply to Alaska, where deposits are leased under an earlier act.
