

GOVERNMENT MAN SETTLES STRIKE

Succeeds in Bringing About
Arbitration Among Mill
Workers.

Striking mill workers have resumed their occupations and sympathizing carpenters have returned to work following an agreement reached by the mill owners and members of the carpenters' union, local No. 2, 225, through the efforts of Fred L. Felick, U. S. commissioner of labor, and W. H. Miller of Indianapolis, general organizer of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters.

The agreement which settled the existing difficulties was signed in the presence of the government agent and the union officers in the Oliver hotel Tuesday morning after a conference which began early Monday afternoon and continued well into the night, terminating only after assurances were given that the written proposal of the government would be accepted.

Eighty Cents an Hour.
The mill owners agree to pay a minimum wage of 80 cents an hour and time and a half shall be paid for Saturday afternoon, Sunday and holiday work. Nine hours shall constitute a day's work, according to the signed agreement and all work over nine hours shall be paid for at the time and half rate. However a clause is inserted in the agreement which gives the employer the right to work eight hours or less than nine hours if they see fit.

A harmonious and amicable relationship existed throughout the conference," said Mr. Felick Tuesday noon in an official statement, "and our efforts to secure an adjustment of the difficulties were successful only when the two factions saw the squareness and fairness of the government proposal. Meanwhile every effort will be made by the government to settle other difficulties existing in South Bend and our one aim is to restore harmonious relationship between the employer and the employee."

Copy of Agreement.
Following is an exact copy of the agreement which settled the strike:

1.—We the undersigned, herewith agree with Fred L. Felick, U. S. commissioner of labor, to the following wage scale and working conditions in the mill industry of South Bend, Ind.

Wage Scale.
1.—Eighty cents an hour shall be the minimum rate of pay.

2.—Time and one-half shall be paid for all time worked over nine hours.

3.—Time for Saturday afternoon, Sunday and all holidays shall be paid for at rate of time and one-half.

Working Conditions.
1.—We agree to meet a committee of our own employees to adjust complaints.

2.—We reserve the right to work eight hours, or less than nine hours if we see fit.

3.—If business is slack we agree to reduce the hours and let all men work rather than lay off a few men.

4.—Saturday afternoon shall be considered a holiday.

5.—No work shall be done on labor day except to save life, limb and property.

6.—There shall be no discrimination against workmen by either party to this agreement.

7.—The agreement shall apply to mill men only and shall be in force and effect until April 1, 1921.

Counter Proposal Made.
In an interview with a News-Times representative, Mr. Miller reiterated the government commissioner's statement and added that he was highly elated over the successful termination of the walkout, which began to take on serious aspects.

With this phase of the labor problem in South Bend cleared up, Mr. Felick said that his next move would be to bring the building contractors and the members of the common laborers' union into line. Conferences are called for Tuesday afternoon and night pending the receipt of a counter proposal to be presented to the government mediator by the contractors. The proposals tendered the union and the contractors by Mr. Felick last week have not been acted upon and the mediator is awaiting the action of the contractors.

She has the part of a little dancer, whose famous career is brought to a sudden close by ill health, and who seeks to recuperate in India, both health and wealth; the latter was adopted from Wylie's novel by her husband, Charles Bryant, who also has a prominent role in the photoplay.

Tomorrow begins a two-day engagement of Elsie Ferguson in "His House in Order."

WET WEATHER IS HAMPERING WORK

Farm Report For Past Week
Shows Poor Wheat Prospects.

Pastures, rye and wheat are about the only things on Indiana farms that have done any good in the last three weeks, is the report of G. C. Bryant, field agent of the cooperative crop reporting service. During the past week the farmers west of the city have made extensive preparations for the planting of the 1920 winter crop. Frequent rains have hampered the plowing.

The Bryant report for the week follows:
"Exceptionally heavy rainfall on several days of last week has caused practically all of the rivers and smaller streams of the state to overflow their banks and do considerable damage. No plowing or sowing has been done and farm work is now fully three weeks behind."
"The week has been favorable to wheat, but the condition is still very poor. There will not be a large plow because of the labor shortage, although some fields will make very low yields."

"Unless the weather settles the oats acreage will be considerably short of intentions. Rye looks very good and has made some growth. Young clover is beginning to show growth and is a fair stand, although less seed than usual was used to the acre."

"Early fruit trees are in bloom and show but little damage from the recent severe weather. Farmers are offering good wages for laborers but can not obtain enough for the requirements. Live stock generally is in good condition. Pastures made considerable growth during the week and are in splendid condition."

CONGRESS MAY VOTE FUNDS FOR NEW POST OFFICE HERE

Efforts of South Bend Lodge, 235, B. P. O. Elks to induce congress to appropriate sufficient funds for the erection of a new post office building here are about to bear fruit, active crop reporting service. During the past week the farmers west of the city have made extensive preparations for the planting of the 1920 winter crop. Frequent rains have hampered the plowing.

WALKING EMPLOYMENT AGENCY.

Add another chapter to the duties of the brass buttoned officers of the law in South Bend.

A few days ago a man somewhat shabbily dressed went into a downtown restaurant and asked if he could get a meal, sans charge, being broke. The proprietor of the restaurant told the man that he had no business not having money when he could work. Accordingly he called in a policeman.

The policeman took a hold of the unfortunate and started to escort him toward the police station intent on arresting him on a charge of vagrancy. But the officer experienced a change of heart and asked of his prisoner, "How would you like to go to work?"
The unfortunate, eager to escape the clutches of the law, replied that he would gladly accept a job in preference to imprisonment. The officer then took him to a building being erected and placed him in the hands of the superintendent who put him to work at 65 cents an hour.

A French chemist once collected enough iron from human blood to make a finger ring, which he wore as a talisman.
