

SAYS SOLDIERS ARE NOT EXEMPT FROM PUNISHMENT

Judge Funk Fails to Grant Request For Leniency on That Ground.

"We had millions of soldiers and it would be monstrous if all courts suspended sentences because boys were soldiers. We would have no protection for society. George Sebeck, criminal cases were suspended merely because youths were in the army."

This was Judge Funk's answer to the 10th plea for leniency made this week in the circuit court on behalf of youthful automobile thieves, who, because of having served during the war, thought the court would lessen their punishment.

"I would rather have the word going out that this court was strict instead of lenient in dealing with automobile thieves because fewer machines would be stolen," continued the judge after sentencing Harry Carlson, 19, and Joseph Burns, 20, to spend from one to 14 years at the state reformatory for stealing County Road Engineer Dalton Moomaw's car last May.

Short of Funds.
Burns and Carlson came to South Bend to a prize fight last May and told the court that because they were short of funds, they had taken Moomaw's car from in back of the court house in order to get back to their homes in Chicago. They insisted that they had intended to return the machine the following day when they would have money and claimed that they had no intention of selling or really keeping the auto.

Because of the financial difficulties that the parents of the both boys were in, Moomaw did not object to a suspended sentence, and asked through Deputy Tress George Sebeck that the boys be placed on parole as they have already spent four months in the county jail. Atty. Omachi, who defended Carlson and Burns told of their service records and the dependency of their parents, but the judge insisted on his policy of strictness in grand larceny cases.

FARMERS WILL HOLD COLUMBUS MEETING TO DISCUSS PRICES

A circular letter sent to farmers in this community by the American Farm Bureau federation announces a national meeting of that organization at Columbus, O., Oct. 22 and 23. Northern Indiana will be represented and the purpose of the meeting is to compare prices received for canning products and relative yields and production costs in different parts of the country.

Lewis Taylor, general secretary for the Indiana Farmer's association is outlining the meeting says: "No special organization among the farmers is the reason some counties of this state are reeling $14 a ton for tomatoes while others are getting as high as $20 a ton. Recently New York farmers asked for $25 a ton for tomatoes and the received $22.50 a ton because they were told that tomatoes could be bought in Indiana for $14 a ton. Thus the Indiana grower by accepting prices that yield little or no profit supplied the canner with a club to beat down prices in New York state."

NEVER was there a maid who didn't dream a bit over the bold and handsome hero of the story she read and—liked—and then read again and again, perhaps! Always he is brave—and if she likes poetry—he is poetic. His gesture is always so, when he steps from between the pages of her book. His words—they are always fitting to one who is so truly a Prince Charming.
