

COUNTERFEITERS.—We have refrained, thus far, from saying anything in regard to several arrests that were made in this county, during last month, with the desire that no obstacle should be thrown in the way of justice. We did not wish to prejudice the rights of the parties, by publishing the evidence until it should be regularly detailed before a jury of the country. In four instances we had acted as counsel for the state, and in one, as counsel for the defendant, and we feared improper motives might be attached to our conduct, if we attempted to give a history of the several transactions. But the aspect which the matter has assumed, we think, renders it necessary for us to say enough to put the public on the alert.

Four persons have been arrested, and counterfeit money, to the amount of between three and four thousand dollars, obtained. The principal part of it, is upon the State Bank of Indiana, and in 5 dollar bills. There were several 50 dollar bills on the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana, and some fives on the Ohio Life Insurance and Trust Co., at Cincinnati. Those upon the Bank of this state are mostly in an unfilled state, and not trimmed—the others are filled up.

The money was found in a portmanteau or saddlebag; but who put it there, is a question for a jury of the country. We are satisfied, ourselves, upon this subject. The saddlebag belonged to one Joseph S. Tincher, of Cincinnati. They were stolen from him, however, he stated under oath, and were found in the woods by the person who took them, and some others, containing this money. He was arrested for having this money—George Rex was arrested for stealing the saddlebags, and Samuel Harney for aiding and assisting him, and Harney was, also, arrested for passing seventy-five dollars of counterfeit money to one individual previous to the time of this discovery. Harney did not stand his examination, but gave bail and fled the country. Enough was proven on Tincher's examination to fix guilt upon Harney; and we would say, to our brethren of the press that, should he be taken up, under the reward that has been offered for his apprehension, urge his immediate return to this place, where he can be tried and brought to justice. He is supposed to be pretty deeply engaged in villainy of this character. Tincher was recognized, but gave bail. Rex was recognized, and has given "leg bail." His hands, it is supposed, are not entirely clean of breeches of the law, and every community should guard its interests, by wholly disowning him; and, if he be found this side of the Ozark mountains, he should be returned, to stand his trial. He remained in jail near a month before he found the requisite "bail." Timothy R. Woodmen, had resided about Moscow, with Harney, nearly a year, and had finally run away with one of his daughters. He had been looked upon with suspicious eye, by the community. After Harney ran away, Woodmen returned to Moscow, one night, and was arrested the next day, for passing a counterfeit twenty dollar bill, previous to his elopement with Harney's daughter. He was recognized, and gave bail at the same time, and in the same manner that did Rex. We caution the public to be on its guard—apprehend and return him for trial, if possible, as he has long been suspected of a scoundrel.

We have not pretended to give the particulars. It would require too much space, and we do not wish to spare it. Tincher's conduct has been such as to justify the conclusion, in the mind of the great majority of our citizens, of his entire innocence; indeed, every circumstance is in his favor; but we leave the whole matter for the decision of the proper tribunal.

Rushville Whig.

—The Rev. John N. Maffit once published his life, written by himself. His celebrity at the present time would make sale for a large edition. We shall never forget the opening paragraph. It reads thus:

"From the romantic retreats of far-famed Erin, born on the fickle winds of an adverse fortune, a lonely stranger brings his mite of sorrow, and lays the dew-streaked treasure at Columbia's feet!"

The whole work was in nearly the same elevated strain, and terribly interesting. If we remember rightly, the Rev. Professor of Belles Lettres was originally a romantic journeyman tailor.—Atlas.

While on our various tours of the West and Southwestern States, we have frequently passed through places where the Rev. J. N. Maffit was preaching, and invariably availed ourselves of the mental treat which the delivery of a sermon by him never fails of conferring. In every place we have thus seen him, we have been interrogated by members of the trade, whether he ever belonged to the fraternity! We are informed that he worked a while as a journeyman for Mr. Scofield, father of the gentleman of that name belonging to the highly respectable firm of Messrs. Howard, Keefer & Scofield, on the corner of Broadway and Wall street; and that his father pursued the business in Ireland. Upon the death of his father, we learn that he conducted the tailoring business for his mother, until he left for this country. It is also stated that he was a local preacher of great promise in Ireland.—Mirror of Fashion.

COMMUNICATED.

OBITUARY.

Died on the 11th inst. at his residence in the vicinity of this city, WILLIAM M'QUAT, sen. in the 68th year of his age. Mr. M'Quat was a native of Stirling Shire, Scotland. He emigrated to this country in 1832, and has resided in this neighborhood ever since that time. He was a member of the Presbyterian church from childhood, and an ornament to the Christian profession. His manners were simple, and his piety unostentatious and sincere. He died in full reliance upon the merits of that Saviour in whom he had long believed, and is now, we trust, rejoicing in his immediate presence. An aged widow is left behind to mourn his unexpected departure. One feature of Mr. M'Quat's Christian example deserves to be noted as worthy of more general imitation among professors of religion. It is the fidelity and zeal with which he regularly administered religious instruction to the members of his household. Every Sabbath evening, his little family were called together to repeat the "Shorter Catechism," and enter into free conversation upon the important truths it contains. May parents connected with the same church, of which he was a member, "go and do likewise."

IMPORTANT TESTIMONY.

Consumption and Bleeding of the Lungs cured.—Mr. William Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of Dr. Swaine's Syrup of Wild Cherry, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, Pittsburgh, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.
