MUCK CROPS FIELD DAY ARRANGED FOR JULY 20

Arrangements were completed recently for the annual Muck Crops Field Day to be held July 20 at the Northern Indiana Muck Crops Experimental Farm, near Walkerton, St. Joseph County.

The program getting underway at 10 o'clock (Eastern Standard Time), will include a tour of the hundreds of muck chop tests with fertilizer, varieties, and rotations. N. K. Ellis, muck chop research specialist of Purdue University, will be in charge of the inspection tours, explaining results of the tests and answering questions presented by visiting forgers.

Just before the noon picnic, the first National Crate Nailing Contest will be held. The contest will be open to all attending the field day, it was announced. Contestants are asked to bring their own hammers.

The principal speaker of the day will be H. J. Reed, recently appointed Dean and Director of Agriculture at Purdue, who will speak on "Your Agricultural Experiment Station." Also Speaking on the afternoon program will be F. C. Gaylord, assistant chief of the Purdue horticultural department, talking on "Muck Research Possibilities" and Roscoe Fraser, Purdue Extension muck crop specialist on "Fertilizer Sacks and Their Uses." The session will be in charge of Dr. Laurenz Greene, head of the university's horticultural department.

The services of a clinic will be available throughout the day with Dr. G. D. Scarseth on plant tissue tests for nutritional deficiencies and Dr. R. C. Baines and Prof. G. E. Gould on disease and insect troubles.

At the close of the program, a meeting has been called of the directors of the Northern Indiana Muck Crops Growers Association.

Two men who were found hidden behind a mailbox in Oakland-Calif., by police, explained that they had been playing hide and seek with their wives.

COMPLETE DETAILS FOR EXHIBITION TRAIN

Booklets outlining details of Indiana's quarter-mile long white exhibition train, scheduled to tour the nation to advertise Hoosier products, were sent today by the Indiana Division of State Publicity to 1,700 of the states manufacturers.

The division is asking Hoosier industries to purchase exhibition spaces on the train, which it is planned will leave Indianapolis in August, making a preliminary week's tour of Indiana before starting on the nation-wide trip involving stops at approximately 60 of the country's leading cities located in 40 states.

The State of Indiana is using one car of the 16-car "Exhibition of Industrial Progress" to advertise the general commercial and recreational advantages of the state.

Newspaper advertising in each of the cities the train will visit in Indiana and the nation will herald the coming of Indiana's exhibition which is expected to be seen by a million persons.

Each Indiana exhibitor will have an individual representative been arranged so that the representation on the train, and schedules have tentative's time may be divided between the manufacturer's dealers and distributors and the general consuming public.
